Bill Hiking ADC Payments Gets First Round Approval

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A bill to increase state payments for aid to dependent children by $2.5 million during the 1965-67 biennium won 28-9 first-stage endorsement on the floor of the Legislature Monday.

The measure, LB754, boosts maximum ADC payments to $110 a month for the first dependent child, and $25 monthly for each additional child.

Maximum payments are now $100 per month for the first child, $15 a month for each of the next three children in a family, and $10 monthly for each additional child.

Amended

The bill authored by Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln and signed by four co-sponsors, will cost an additional $1,250,000 annually from the tax-supported general fund.

As originally introduced, LB754 would have removed all limits on payments. Amendments increasing the maximums were adopted by the Public Health and Welfare Committee and accepted by the Legislature on a voice vote.

Senator Orme told the lawmakers that thousands of ADC recipients are not now receiving sufficient aid to meet basic requirements for food. shelter and clothing.

16,704 Aided

As of March 1965, ADC aid was provided to 16,704 recipients in Nebraska. Total payments for the month reached $517,902, or an average of $31 per recipient.

Under LB754, monthly costs would be expected to rise to $621,482, boosting average payments to $37.21 per recipient.

A number of senators—including Henry Pedersen Jr. of Omaha, Herb Nore of Genoa and Dale Payne of Papillion—suggested that ADC recipients are not carefully screened and that assistance, in some cases, only encourages the production of illegitimate children.

'Incensed'

Mrs. Orme said she was "incensed" and "horrified" by some of the allegations. Under Nebraska law, children are taken from unfit mothers, she noted.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said the state is "not running a house of prostitution, nor is it encouraging one."

Less than one per cent of the total dollars spent in ADC have been found to be misused, he said.

Withdrawn

Carpenter noted that he has withdrawn a motion which he had authored to kill the bill after he conducted a personal investigation of ADC cases in Scotts Bluff County, and discovered the "human misery" which this assistance helps to alleviate.

Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City said he would oppose the bill and urge that additional aid be provided at the county level.

Payne said some payments go to "irresponsible" people, and they serve to "promote and support irresponsibility."

Against Bill

Voting against the bill were Payne, Nore, Pedersen, Stryker, Clifton Batchelder of Omaha, Jules Burbach of Crofton, Rick Budd of Nebraska City, Elmer Wallwey of Emerson and William Wylie of Elgin.

Action was deferred on a companion bill, LB756, which would extend ADC aid to families whose supporting parent is unemployed or partially unemployed.

Costs were estimated at $1,295,000 for the 1965-67 biennium, including $411,000 in state general fund money. The remainder would be paid with federal funds.

Several Twisters Dip To Ground Over State

Several tornadoes were sighted over the state Monday accompanied by light to heavy rainfall.

The first reported tornado activity was around noon Monday when a funnel cloud touched ground about two miles east and one-half mile south of Odessa.

Heavy rains also covered the mid-Nebraska area, including a two-inch rain at Amherst, rain and hail at Kearney and heavy rain at Holdrege.

The twister virtually leveled the cement block Thomas County 4-H Club building about a mile east of Thedford.

Calvin Jones, owner of the Sandhills Oil Co. located about 200 yards southwest of the 4-H building, said the twister went over his building tearing off a two-way radio antenna, then dipped down to strike the club building.

A one-plane hangar at the Thedford airport about 200 yards north of the club building was hit and the roof torn off.

In the Scottsbluff area, a funnel cloud reportedly touched ground near Morrill.

During the afternoon several funnel clouds were sighted along the Nebraska-South Dakota border at Yankton and Sioux Falls.

A funnel cloud sighted near Cotesfield and another near Petersberg touched ground but no damage was reported.

Damage was reported however, when a tornado touched ground near Lodgepole toppling three 60-foot television towers, damaging a garage, and uprooting trees. Damage was reported to the Leonard Bond, Marvin Bartling and Bert Wieggers farms north of Lodgepole.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said heavy rains in the parched southwest will send the Republican River to bankful at Cambridge. A crest of 13 feet, 4 feet above bankful, was forecast for Orleans Tuesday.

Other flooding was forecast for Beaver Creek, where run-off water was heavy. Sappa Creek, south of Beaver city, was expected to flood by Wednesday evening.

Crest below flood stage were expected on the Big Blue River at Crete and Beatrice.

Sidney, one of the Panhandle communities hardest hit by drought. got 1.54 inches. At Cambridge, 2.54 inches of rain fell while rural areas had unofficial reports of up to 4 inches. Lincoln received .56 inches.

Ruhnke's Income Tax Stand Attracts Threat

Crete businessman Philip C. Anderson Monday warned Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth that "a substantial sum of money" will be used to campaign against him if he supports the state income tax bill without a ceiling on spending.

Anderson is the head of an organization known as "Citizens Voice for Sensible Spending."

His wire to Ruhnke indicated the depth of pressure which is being applied against senators on the income tax issue. Its text:

"You may expect a group of at least 46 unhappy Saline County businessmen and a substantial sum of money to work to defeat your re-election if you vote for the state income tax without suitable limits on spending."

Ruhnke said the telegram will not change his position supporting the bill, LB797. He said he will ask Anderson for the names of the 46 businessmen who he claims to represent.

Anderson was en route to the East Coast late Monday and unavailable for comment.

Anderson recently advocated a constitutional amendment which would limit state government spending to a maximum of 1.25% of the market value of tangible property in Nebraska.

An attempt to introduce a bill proposing such an amendment has failed.

Several efforts to amend LB797 to place a ceiling on the income tax rate were turned down last week before the measure was advanced from general file.

REBELS SAY PACT NEAR

...U.S. Troops In Dominica Under IAF

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP)—Backstage negotiations moved ahead Monday for creation of a coalition government under Antonio S. Guzman Fernandez, wealthy planter and political liberal, despite objections from the military-civilian junta.

Guzman, 54, minister of agriculture in the government of deposed President Juan Bosch, met with Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, president of the rebels' "constitutionalist" government.

A rebel spokesman said afterward the talks aimed at restoring a single government, after more than a month of fighting, were "very advanced."

U.S. Backing Guzman

Guzman reportedly has U.S. support, although sources said American Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett Jr. told Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, the junta president, that the United States was not trying to impose its will on the Dominican Republic.

Noting Imbert's strong opposition to Guzman, a U.S. spokesman described prospects for a quick final settlement as still dim.

Caamano meanwhile spoke briefly over the rebel radio saying his side was willing to negotiate with the various international peacemakers because they have "the fundamental duty of helping in the search for practical and just solutions that will not injure the dignity or the sovereign rights of the people."

U.N., OAS Pressing

His statement indicated that the United Nations and Organization of American States (OAS) representatives in Santo Domingo were pressing for a coalition regime.

Imbert, president of the five-man civilian-military junta opposing the rebels, apparently was taking no part in the negotiations.

He called in Bennett and OAS Secretary-General Jose A. Mora and was reported by informed sources to have asked them for an explanation of the negotiations.

It was then that Bennett told Imbert the United States was not trying to impose a government on the Dominican Republic, sources said.

In Washington, State Department Press Officer Marshal Wright denied reports that McGeorge Bundy, in Santo Domingo as a special representative of President Johnson, had worked out an arrangement with Caamano.

Under IAF Command

Wright also disclosed that U.S. troops in the Dominican Republic now are under command of the Inter-American Force (IAF) formally signed into being Sunday night in Santo Domingo.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., called the appointment of Brazilian Gen. Hugo Panasco Alvim to head the IAF "an excellent move."

"I'm delighted the Brazilian congress voted to send 4,000 troops in all to Santo Domingo. I anticipate as more forces come in, more U.S. troops will be withdrawn."

At the United Nations in New York, U.S Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told the Security Council U.S forces in the Dominican Republic have been assigned to the IAF and now wear its yellow and blue arm bands.

Benitez U.S. Negotiator

It was learned that much of the negotiating for the United States is being handled by Dr Jaime Benitez, chancellor of the University of Puerto Rico. Benitez came to Santo Domingo Thursday night. Benitez, a friend of Bosch who is in exile in Puerto Rico, is considered acceptable to the rebels.

Guzman has been the negotiator for the rebels

Guzman is a wealthy landholder and a member of the so-called Latin oligarchy. But he is credited with a deep sense of social justice and concern for his country's huge mass of poverty-stricken people.

Meanwhile, 250 Brazilian marines were en route by air from Rio de Janeiro to join the inter-American peace force. Another 250 marines were expected to leave Wednesday. Brazil has pledged 1,250 men for the peace force, the largest contingent outside that of the United States.

Mayor Calls For Tight 'Teen Club' Regulations

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

Mayor Dean Petersen has submitted to City Council members for their review a proposed ordinance which would regulate the operation of "teenage clubs" within the city.

Petersen said that the legal department was requested to draw up an ordinance after the city had received numerous complaints about the operation of existing clubs from parents of teenagers frequenting the clubs and residents of the areas in which they are located.

The ordinance, not as yet introduced, provides for the application by the owner of the club for a non-transferable permit; payment of a fee, and investigations by the city health, fire, public works and police departments to determine whether the club complies with all applicable city ordinances.

Petition Required

In addition, no permit would be issued until the applicant filed a petition signed by at least 51% of persons over 21 living or doing business within a radius of 500 feet of the proposed location of the club.

The ordinance also provides for:

—the presence of a matron or inspector on the club premises to enforce the provisions of the ordinance. This person would be appointed by the city and said by the owner.

—The written consent of parents or guardian before persons between 16 and 18 would be allowed to enter or remain in the club. Persons under 16 or over 21 would not be allowed to enter.

—The owner or operator must keep a current membership list and no person could be a member until at least 5 days after submitting his name for membership.

The ordinance would not apply to clubs supervised by schools, churches, nationally recognized fraternal societies, local chapters of national organizations, labor unions or veterans organizations.

Some council members said that there is a need for teenage clubs if they are operated in a proper manner.

No formal action was taken in the proposed ordinance Monday.

In other action, Councilman Carroll Thompson suggested that the city initiate a study of current and projected needs and supply of housing and care for aged citizens.

After discussion, it was suggested that the city coordinate the study, using non-governmental agencies to provide the necessary information.

Contemplated

Planning director Douglas Brogden said that his staff has contemplated such a study, and the most important item is finding adequate housing and care for the low income aged.

The council approved the application of Floyd and Virginia Watts to transfer a package liquor license from 2105 O to 2648 Cornhusker Highway.

Council member John Mason was appointed to represent the council on the City-County Board of Health for the term expiring July 1, 1968.

DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING

King Seeking Black Faces In Legislature

Montgomery, Ala. (UPI) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. warned Monday night that "there will be no tranquillity in the statehouse" until there are "black faces in the legislature."

He told hundreds of Negroes jammed into a church here Monday night that he was "tired of the legislature meeting every year with not a single item on the agenda pertaining to Negroes and their rights."

He promised to lead a delegation of Negroes to the capitol Tuesday to try to see the legislators.

"Lawmakers, you will not rest," he cried. "There will be no tranquillity at the statehouse. We want representation. We want to see black faces in the legislature."

Earlier, King expressed concern over a large—but apparently routine — shipment of surplus military rifles to a gun dealer in racially-scarred Selma.

It was King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) that notified the Justice Department of the shipment of 492 M-1, M-11 and 30.06 caliber rifles from a California firm to Walter H. Craig in Selma.

"I don't know why this shipment is causing such a stir," Craig said. "I am a licensed dealer and I am often receiving large shipments of guns. I sell them for hunting weapons."

Crowd Of Whites Fells Bogalusa Park's Gates

Bogalusa, La. — Crowds of white persons Monday night tore down the gates to Cassidy Park, one of two city parks closed after a racial clash.

Scores of whites milled around the area after breaking the gates.

The city ordered Cassidy and Goodyear Parks closed as a precautionary measure last week after a clash between whites and Negroes last Wednesday at Cassidy Park.

Earlier Monday the Negro Voters League threatened court action if the parks were not reopened quickly on an integrated basis. A planned desegregation attempt at one park was called off after Mayor Jesse Cutrer refused to reopen the previously all-white parks immediately.

2-By-4s

In addition to removing the aluminum gates, the crowd of whites ripped down signs which read: "This park closed indefiitely by order of commission council." The five-foot-tall signs had been fixed to 2-by-4 lumber.

A newsman estimated about 300 whites were in the park area. Later, about 100 of them went to the office of John Gallaspy, attorney and chairman of the Community Affairs Committee which was meeting at the time. The committee, composed of 24 business and civic leaders, has been helping settle racial problems here.

A spokesman for the whites said their main purpose was to protest the "meddling in the affairs of Bogalusa" of three volunteer mediators. The trio consisted of Victor H. Bussie of Baton Rouge, Louisiana AFL-CIO president; Camille F. Gravel of Alexandria, attorney and former Democratic national committeeman and State Sen. Michael O'Keefe of New Orleans.

'Farmer Won't Get It'

As the group of white men disbanded, one of them told a newsman, "We're not giving this town to James Farmer (national director of the Congress of Racial Equality)."

Meanwhile, the Bogalusa Citizens Council began circulating a petition for the recall of the 50-year-old mayor.

The mayor has announced he would seek repeal of all segregation ordinances in this southeast Louisiana town the Ku Klux Klan likes to claim it dominates. He also promised to open all public facilities to Negroes and to employ Negro policemen.

Reaction to the mayor's announcement was uniformly unfavorable.

"He's backhanded the people that elected him," said one man who declined use of his name.

Cooperation Pledged

Farmer pledged cooperation with the mayor. "However, this is the first step and now we want to see deeds follow words," Farmer said.

Cutrer, who says he doesn't plan to seek re-election when his term runs out next year, said he decided to wipe out this town's segregation laws because "I have to do what I think is right for the community and not worry about it."

DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING

King Seeking Black Faces In Legislature

Montgomery, Ala. (UPI) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. warned Monday night that "there will be no tranquillity in the statehouse" until there are "black faces in the legislature."

He told hundreds of Negroes jammed into a church here Monday night that he was "tired of the legislature meeting every year with not a single item on the agenda pertaining to Negroes and their rights."

He promised to lead a delegation of Negroes to the capitol Tuesday to try to see the legislators.

"Lawmakers, you will not rest," he cried. "There will be no tranquillity at the statehouse. We want representation. We want to see black faces in the legislature."

Earlier, King expressed concern over a large—but apparently routine — shipment of surplus military rifles to a gun dealer in racially-scarred Selma.

It was King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) that notified the Justice Department of the shipment of 492 M-1, M-11 and 30.06 caliber rifles from a California firm to Walter H. Craig in Selma.

"I don't know why this shipment is causing such a stir," Craig said. "I am a licensed dealer and I am often receiving large shipments of guns. I sell them for hunting weapons."

Crowd Of Whites Fells Bogalusa Park's Gates

Bogalusa, La. — Crowds of white persons Monday night tore down the gates to Cassidy Park, one of two city parks closed after a racial clash.

Scores of whites milled around the area after breaking the gates.

The city ordered Cassidy and Goodyear Parks closed as a precautionary measure last week after a clash between whites and Negroes last Wednesday at Cassidy Park.

Earlier Monday the Negro Voters League threatened court action if the parks were not reopened quickly on an integrated basis. A planned desegregation attempt at one park was called off after Mayor Jesse Cutrer refused to reopen the previously all-white parks immediately.

2-By-4s

In addition to removing the aluminum gates, the crowd of whites ripped down signs which read: "This park closed indefiitely by order of commission council." The five-foot-tall signs had been fixed to 2-by-4 lumber.

A newsman estimated about 300 whites were in the park area. Later, about 100 of them went to the office of John Gallaspy, attorney and chairman of the Community Affairs Committee which was meeting at the time. The committee, composed of 24 business and civic leaders, has been helping settle racial problems here.

A spokesman for the whites said their main purpose was to protest the "meddling in the affairs of Bogalusa" of three volunteer mediators. The trio consisted of Victor H. Bussie of Baton Rouge, Louisiana AFL-CIO president; Camille F. Gravel of Alexandria, attorney and former Democratic national committeeman and State Sen. Michael O'Keefe of New Orleans.

'Farmer Won't Get It'

As the group of white men disbanded, one of them told a newsman, "We're not giving this town to James Farmer (national director of the Congress of Racial Equality)."

Meanwhile, the Bogalusa Citizens Council began circulating a petition for the recall of the 50-year-old mayor.

The mayor has announced he would seek repeal of all segregation ordinances in this southeast Louisiana town the Ku Klux Klan likes to claim it dominates. He also promised to open all public facilities to Negroes and to employ Negro policemen.

Reaction to the mayor's announcement was uniformly unfavorable.

"He's backhanded the people that elected him," said one man who declined use of his name.

Cooperation Pledged

Farmer pledged cooperation with the mayor. "However, this is the first step and now we want to see deeds follow words," Farmer said.

Cutrer, who says he doesn't plan to seek re-election when his term runs out next year, said he decided to wipe out this town's segregation laws because "I have to do what I think is right for the community and not worry about it."

Red Mail Law Is Thrown Out

. . . CUNNINGHAM TO FIGHT

Washington (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down Monday a law permitting the government to intercept and destroy unsealed Communist mail from abroad unless the addressee asked in writing to receive it.

Justice William O. Douglas, speaking for an 8-0 court, said this law placed on the addressee an unconstitutional "affirmative burden which we do not think the government can impose."

Any addressee is likely to feel some inhibition in sending for literature which federal officials have condemned as 'Communist political propaganda,'" Douglas said. He added this is especially so for officials in jobs requiring security clearance.

Wars On Full Debate

"The regime of this act," Douglas added, "is at war with the 'uninhibited, robust and wide-open' debate and discussions that are contemplated by the First Amendment."

Justice William J. Brennan noted in a concurring opinion that the "sensibilities of the unwilling recipient" of such mail are protected — all he has to do is ask the Post Office not to deliver it.

Brennan was joined in his opinion by Justice Arthur J. Goldberg. It was noted without explanation that Justice Byron R. White took no part in this case. He was deputy attorney general while the cases involved were in litigation.

Enforcement Lapses

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski said Post Offices at the points of entry where the law has been applied have been notified to discontinue immediately their work on this program.

Gronouski said the court's ruling will free about 40 postal employes for other work and save the department some $250,000 a year.

In a statement Gronouski said: "Despite its good intentions the law had proved practically unworkable and was a harassment to serious scholars and newsmen."

Not Through Yet

Rep. Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb., said he and his colleagues do not propose to take the decision lying down.

"This decision only re-emphasizes how difficult it is to legislate in matters affecting mail," Cunningham said in a statement. "There is ample evidence to prove that the people of the country support the efforts of Congress to do something about both of these problems.

"We are reviewing the Supreme Court's opinion and will reintroduce this legislation in another form. We must be unremitting in our efforts to prevent the indiscriminate use of our postal system for Communist propaganda when the fact is we get no reciprocity from them."

The law permitted the secretary of the treasury to determine when any unsealed mail is Communist political propaganda. The Post Office notified each addressee that the mail was being held and would be destroyed unless the addressee asked for it within 20 days. A reply card was provided.

Douglas said that such a requirement to receive the mail "is almost certain to have a deterrent effect, especially with respect to those who have sensitive positions."

"Their livelihoods may be dependent on 'security clearance,'" he went on. "Public officials, like school teachers who have no tenure, might think they would invite disaster if they read what the federal government says contains the seed of treason."

In other actions the court:

—Held unanimously that the Federal Communications Commission may decide whether testimony before it should be kept secret, and has authority to require those who request secrecy to prove the need for it.

—Ruled 5 to 2 that the law permitting waiver of the four-year statute of limitations on antitrust suits because of pending judicial proceedings applies also to pending proceedings before the Federal Trade Commission.

—Agreed to rule on the validity of a Pennsylvania law that permits juries to impose on defendants acquitted of misdemeanors the costs of their trials.

Libel Suits

—Agreed to decide whether libel suits arising out of labor disputes are barred by the exclusive primary jurisdiction over such disputes by the National Labor Relations Board. A U.S. District Court in Cincinnati ruled the board alone has this authority.

'Ban On Union Shop Assures No One Work'

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz told Congress Monday that state laws banning the union shop cause disruptive industrial competition among the states.

He said they are falsely labeled "right-to-work" laws.

Wirtz said such laws banning the union shop in 19 states should be wiped out by repealing the section of federal labor laws that permits them.

"The argument that union shop agreements violate the freedom of individual employes has no substantial basis," Wirtz told a House labor subcommittee.

All Must Join

Under a union shop contract negotiated by a union and an employer, all employes covered by the contract must join the union.

Wirtz said the real issue had been buried under false claims—largely by supporters of so-called "right to work laws"—that they protect the freedom of workers. These supporters are virtually all businessmen, he added.

"There is no violation of freedom in a minority's having to accept a majority's fair judgment fairly arrived at," Wirtz asserted.

'Substituting Force'

The National Right-To-Work Committee, which will testify later, promptly called Wirtz' testimony an administration attempt "to substitute force and compulsion for freedom of choice."

Reed Larson, executive vice president of the committee, said in a statement:

"Mr. Wirtz whitewashes the compulsion involved in so-called union shop contracts, attempts to clothe the highly political union organizations with governmental power, subordinates the rights of individuals to the privileges of private organizations and proposes a policy aimed at the elimination of debate on questions of public interest."

Belgian Premier Quits; Coalition Lost Its Majority

Brussels (UPI) — Premier Theo Lefevre resigned Monday because of the failure of his Socialist Catholic coalition to keep its two-thirds majority in Sunday's parliamentary elections.

Lefevre's Catholics and the Socialists, who have governed for four years, lost 39 seats in the 212-seat parliament, most of them to the resurgent Liberals.

The result left Lefevre one seat short of the 142 he would need to amend the constitution. He had campaigned on a platform of constitutional reform to ease the tension between French and Dutch-speaking [illegible].

Lefevre said new elections were a definite possibility in the near future.

Nun From Ohio Can Now Argue Before Justices

Washington (AP) — Sister Frances Catherine, a Roman Catholic nun from Cincinnati, now is qualified to argue cases before the United States Supreme Court.

With a group of some 200 attorneys, the legal adviser to the Sisters of Charity was admitted to practice before the court Monday.

Dressed in the habit of her order, the 65-year-old onetime chief drafter of bills for the Michigan legislature shifted the cane she uses as an aid in walking from her right to left hand in taking the oath.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, in welcoming her, as all new attorneys, addressed her as Sister Frances Catherine Royce. Her married name was Royce before her conversion to Catholicism five years after her husband's death in 1947.

Wisconsin's Only Negro Legislator, Ten Other Demonstrators Arrested

Milwaukee (AP) — A state assemblyman and 10 other civil rights demonstrators were arrested Monday when they formed a human barricade in front of a school bus transferring Negro children to another district.

Assemblyman Lloyd A. Barbee, a Milwaukee Democrat, only Negro member of the Wisconsin legislature, was led to a paddy wagon by two policemen. Barbee is an attorney and former state head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

At least eight other demonstrators, including six women were carried bodily to the wagon by eight policemen.

The demonstration at the Brown Street School was aimed at Milwaukee's school policy of keeping classes intact when they are transferred from an overcrowded school to another school.

Civil rights leaders have charged that the policy entrenches segregation when Negro classes are moved to predominantly white schools.

Barbee and eight of the demonstrators linked arms and stood in front of the first of three buses transferring pupils from the Brown Street School Monday morning.

Two Sit Down

Two other demonstrators were arrested when they sat down in front of the second bus, police said.

Among those arrested was a former Roman Catholic nun.

She is Miss Marilyn Moreheuser, 40, who was active in civil rights while in orders, then was released from her vows by papal dispensation and now is secretary of the integration committee and of the state conference of the NAACP.

Monday's protest was the latest in a long series against the Milwaukee school board's stated policy of maintaining its neighborhood school program.

One of 34 Classes

The class from the Brown Street School, which has a majority of Negro children, was one of 34 classes in nine schools with varying racial balances bused to other schools, also of varied makeup because of overcrowding.

Supt. of Schools Harold Vincent, who described busing as "sometimes necessary but never desirable," said 1,059 children were involved Monday.

The number changes from day to day because of construction programs under way almost continuously at different schools in the city system, which has a pupil enrollment of 120,000.

Presbyterians Sweep Aside A Proposal To Quit Council

Columbus, Ohio (AP)—United Presbyterians speedily swept aside Monday a proposal that they quit the National Council of Churches.

Without debate and with a thundering voice vote, they rejected the request from a Birmingham, Ala. unit.

Then followed a roar of applause.

Moderator William Phelps Thompson described the action as unanimous with "no dissenting votes." It came as the 3.5-million-member denomination went through the fifth day of its week-long general assembly.

Quit Racial Movement

The Birmingham Presbytery had proposed the church withdraw from the council and disassociate itself from demonstrations and marches in support of racial integration.

Dr. Arthur Link, professor of American history at Princeton University and a council vice president, later reported to the Presbyterian assembly "unprecedentedly ferocious and maligned attacks on the council."

The past year witnessed a severe intensification of assaults on the national council by various so-called rightist organizations," he said.

The Presbyterian governing body also shunted aside special resolutions on sexual morality, approving instead a brief motion that the church "does indeed reaffirm its adherence to our historic moral standards."

Omaha Presbytery

In recommending no action on the longer resolutions—submitted by Presbyteries in Omaha, Peoria, Ill. and Shenandoa, Pa.—the Rev. Horace Craig Casey of Enid, Okla., head of a legislative committee, said similar action was taken in 1962.

Earlier, Presbyterian authorities said that social taboos against Negro-white marriages sometimes lead youths into them for unsound reasons.

They maintained that elimination of the negative taboos would reduce the cases of such artificially motivated marriages, and provide a fairer atmosphere for the responsible ones.

This is gradually happening, they said, as interracial marriage becomes increasingly common in America.

Difficulties encountered by Negro-white couples and their families have "lessened considerably," said Dr. Gayraud S. Wilmore Jr. of New York, executive director of the United Presbyterian commission on religion and race.

North Vietnamese Battalion Sought In Central Highlands

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — Government troops sought Monday to find and destroy a North Vietnamese battalion reported to have lined up with the Viet Cong in the central highlands. U.S. planes maintained round-the-clock raids on North Viet Nam.

The high command ordered five battalions — perhaps 2,000 men — into a drive against the Communist enemy between Pleiku and the Cambodian frontier after three guerrilla ambushes elsewhere Saturday and Sunday cost the lives of five U.S. advisers and more than 100 Vietnamese casualties.

U.S. helicopters lifted one of the government battalions to a landing zone 17 miles west of Pleiku, site of an American base 240 miles north of Saigon. Observers said there was considerable ground fire, but the helicopters made it in and out safely.

Unsure of Identity

Information was lacking here on the identity of the infiltrating battalion. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara named one at a Washington news conference four weeks ago. He said North Viet Nam had sent the 2nd Battalion of its 101st Regiment, 325th Division, into the south. McNamara reported heavy Communist casualties forced the Hanoi regime to dispatch regulars.

Heavy casualties in weekend action were on the government side.

A U.S. Army enlisted man and 35 Vietnamese troops were killed late Sunday in an ambush about 150 miles southwest of Saigon in An Xuyen Province at the nation's southern tip. An American officer and 25 Vietnamese soldiers were missing.

The toll of U.S. combat dead in Viet Nam rose to 382.

Four other Americans had been killed and one wounded in ambushes Saturday near Ben Cat and Song Be.

The Viet Cong followed through Monday by ambushing a government convoy on Route 19 at An Khe, east of Pleiku. A U.S. military spokesman said two companies of Red guerrillas, from 100 to 200 men, attacked the trucks. He reported a U.S. officer was slightly wounded and three Vietnamese soldiers were injured in fighting off the attack. Eight of the convoy guard were listed as missing.

U.S. Navy and Air Force planes pressed the air war north of the 17th Parallel, operating at times through fog and low clouds.

A U.S. military spokesman said Navy Skyhawks and Skyraiders sank a North Vietnamese PT boat in flames in the Rao Nay River, 55 miles north of the border, damaged six military barracks and shot up four trucks in a series of strikes.

U.S. Air Force F105 jets were reported to have bombed barracks in the Vinh area and dropped one span of a bridge near Ha Tinh, 170 miles south of Hanoi, during attacks that covered 10 different highways. The spokesman said all the planes returned.

Briton Says U.S. Has Already Lost

London (UPI)—A British adviser to South Viet Nam said Monday the United States already has lost the guerrilla phase of the war there and risks total defeat within a year.

R. G. K. Thompson, an expert in counterinsurgency, said in an interview with the London Evening Standard that the United States still could turn the tide against the Communists.

The newspaper said the views of Thompson, who heads the British advisory mission in Saigon, have been forwarded to the U.S. government.

He said North Viet Nam had sent the 2nd Battalion of its 101st Regiment, 325th Division, into the south. McNamara reported heavy Communist casualties forced the Hanoi regime to dispatch regulars.

Heavy casualties in weekend action were on the government side.

A U.S. Army enlisted man and 35 Vietnamese troops were killed late Sunday in an ambush about 150 miles southwest of Saigon in An Xuyen Province, at the nation's southern tip. An American officer and 25 Vietnamese soldiers were missing.

The roll of U.S. combat dead in Viet Nam rose to 382.

Four other Americans had been killed and one wounded in ambushes Saturday near Ben Cat and Song Be.

The Viet Cong followed through Monday by ambushing a government convoy on Route 19 at An Khe, east of Pleiku. A U.S. military spokesman said two companies of Red guerrillas, from 100 to 200 men, attacked the trucks. He reported a U.S. officer was slightly wounded and three Vietnamese soldiers were injured in fighting off the attack. Eight of the convoy guard were listed as missing.

U.S. Navy and Air Force planes pressed the air war north of the 17th Parallel, operating at times through fog and low clouds.

A U.S. military spokesman said Navy Skyhawks and Skyraiders sank a North Vietnamese PT boat in flames in the Rao Nay River, 55 miles north of the border, damaged six military barracks and shot up four trucks in a series of strikes.

U.S. Air Force F105 jets were reported to have bombed barracks in the Vinh area and dropped one span of a bridge near Ha Tinh, 170 miles south of Hanoi, during attacks that covered 10 different highways. The spokesman said all the planes returned.

Briton Says U.S. Has Already Lost

London (UPI)—A British adviser to South Viet Nam said Monday the United States already has lost the guerrilla phase of the war there and risks total defeat within a year.

R. G. K. Thompson, an expert in counterinsurgency, said in an interview with the London Evening Standard that the United States still could turn the tide against the Communists.

The newspaper said the views of Thompson, who heads the British advisory mission in Saigon, have been forwarded to the U. S. government.

Packers Feeding Cattle Big Problem--Goggins

. . . Urges Heavy Turnout At Omaha Hearings

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

O'Neill—The publisher of a western livestock magazine told about 300 Nebraska ranchers attending the 26th annual convention of the Sandhills Cattle Association here Monday that the problem of packers feeding cattle and chain stores purchasing on an offer-and-acceptance method was a 100% bigger problem than last year's beef import concern.

"Three out of five of you won't be here by 1980 if the rancher doesn't take care of himself by seeing that the retailer is kept in the selling business and the packer in the packing business," said Pat Goggins of Billings, Mont., publisher of Western Livestock Reporter.

Goggins said the "chambers should be filled" at the Omaha hearings June 3-5 that will be held by the National Food Commission to study practices of packers in relation to feeding cattle and the 42% spread that since 1947 has seen the retail market price gain while the cattleman took less.

John Story of Chicago, director of the meat department for IGA stores, who appeared on the program with Goggins in presenting both different viewpoints to cattlemen, said "Contrary to the beliefs of many, we are offering the American consumer a better value today than we have in possibly five or six years."

Story estimated that beef represents at least 40% of the sales at retail in meat departments.

He said it was pretty well established in the industry that the stores need 20 to 21% gross profit overall in order to satisfactorily pay expenses and produce a net profit.

Goggins in his claim that the rancher was not getting a fair share of the consumer dollar pointed to record profits made by retail chains in 1964 while the rancher and feeder were taking losses.

Brooks J. Keogh of Keene N.D., president of the American National Cattleman's Association, asked cattlemen not to let the Supreme Court's decision on apportionment of state legislatures stand without challenge.

This amounts to taxation without representation and represents one of the biggest threats to us and our children that we have faced in our lifetime," said Keogh.

The list of speakers and topics under discussion on the Sandhills Cattle Association program maintained a strong national and international theme as Jim Hartman of Washington, D.C., representing the Foreign Agricultural Service, reviewed prospects for expanded foreign beef sales.

"I'm convinced that with some work we can develop the beef business in Europe and some other foreign lands," said Hartman.

Hartman viewed air transportation as opening up potential markets for live calves in Greece, Spain, Israel, in addition to Italy.

He noted that instead of Mexico being a concern on imports that slaughter cows were now being purchased in the U.S. to be consumed south-of-the-border.

Hartman noted that an estimated 3,500,000 living or stationed in Europe are already familiar with the American type beef and that an excellent market can be developed in supplying these people with beef that is superior to the European product.

He also noted the adoption of "the outdoor grill" in many European homes where the American steak was a necessity to provide the treat that was fast gaining in popularity in other lands.

Mrs. Frank B. Morrison, Nebraska's First Lady, had to travel by car from Neligh where her plane landed in a heavy rain storm to fulfill a luncheon address on the ladies program.

The association re-elected all of its officers in the annual meeting. Wesley F. Hansen, North Platte, is president; Richard T. Lackaff, Bassett, vice president; and Frank M Reece, Valentine, treasurer Lin Helton of Valentine is the secretary-manager.

New directors named were: Duane Grossnicklaus, Barlett; George Giles, Elsmere; Tuie Johnson, Rose; Arthur Harley, Atkinson, Jess Locker, Harrison; Bud Bartack, Ewing; and Bob Bass, Cody. Kenneth O'Hare of Ainsworth was elected chairman of the board of directors.

Supreme Court's Ruling Could Affect Cases Here

A U S Supreme Court ruling Monday in a Nebraska case could have a profound effect on several habeas corpus cases pending in federal district court here.

The Supreme Court sent back to Nebraska a case involving state penitentiary inmate Paul V. Case, 40, Detroit, Mich., who was sentenced to a five-year term in 1963 for burglary in Lancaster County.

Case had contended he was illegally sentenced and imprisoned. He appealed to the Supreme Court after arguing that Nebraska statutes did not provide remedies for violations of rights guaranteed by the federal Constitution.

But the Legislature last April passed a post-conviction procedure law allowing a person who feels his civil rights were violated to seek a hearing in the state district court where he was convicted.

The Supreme Court said the law made it unnecessary to rule whether state prisoners in Nebraska are deprived of an opportunity to assert their federal constitutional rights. This question, it said, can now be determined by state courts.

The court also urged other states to enact a law similar to Nebraska's to relieve friction between state and federal tribunals and to relieve the federal courts of an ever increasing burden.

After the Nebraska post-conviction relief law was passed, the State Justice Department filed motions in U.S. District Court in Lincoln to dismiss some 15 habeas corpus petitions filed by penitentiary inmates.

Federal District Judge Robert Van Pelt will hold a hearing on those motions Friday.

At the hearing, Van Pelt said he will hear all motions and consider the impact of the new Nebraska law on all pending state habeas corpus cases and determine the content of the order to be issued, if one is to be issued.

Post-Conviction Procedure Law Praised By Justices

Washington (UPI) — Two members of the Supreme Court Monday urged the states to pass laws giving prisoners a chance to challenge their convictions under the U.S. Constitution in a state court.

Justices Tom C. Clark and William J. Brennan Jr. expressed their views in a case from Nebraska, where such a law has just been enacted.

Both said laws providing for testing federal claims in state courts will ease friction between state and federal tribunals and relieve the federal courts of an ever increasing burden.

Brennan said, "None can view with satisfaction the channeling of a large part of state criminal business to federal trial courts."

Clark noted that legislatures of Illinois, Maryland, North Carolina, Maine and Oregon have also acted in this field. And Alaska, Delaware, Missouri and New Jersey have taken steps through rules of court.

He said he hopes other states will follow along.

In the case at issue Monday, the court said that a new Nebraska law has made it unnecessary to rule whether state prisoners there are deprived of an opportunity to assert their federal constitutional rights.

The court had heard the petition of Paul V. Case, who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a dwelling in Lincoln in 1963.

The court in a brief, unsigned opinion called attention to the new law and sent the case back to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Retirement Dinner Cites NU's Swinbank, Weakly

Two University of Nebraska agronomists widely respected for their work for Nebraska agriculture were honored by their colleagues and other friends Monday night.

J. C. Swinbank and Harry E. Weakly were honored guests at a retirement dinner at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education. Both have reached mandatory retirement age and will retire June 30.

Swinbank, Extension agronomist, was nicknamed "Mr. Wheat" in 1956 by members of the Nebraska Grain Improvement Association.

He began earning the nickname as county Extension agent in Cheyenne County from 1935 to 1943 when he pushed wheat quality improvement so successfully that even today the county is rated first in the state in the quality of its wheat.

Weakly, who has been an agronomist and soil scientist with the Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture since 1923, has made a name for himself in several areas.

His work has been primarily with irrigation and soil moisture, but he also has attracted much attention with his studies of drought cycles in western Nebraska. By studying tree rings, (known as dendrochronology) he pinpointed the occurrence and length of droughts in the area over a 748 year period, 1210 to 1958.

In addition, he is an amateur anthropologist and ornithologist and has been active in Boy Scouting for 48 years. He now is Boy Scout Commissioner for Lincoln.

Scholarships Are Ruled Limited To State Institutions

Lincoln (AP)—The State Department of Justice held Monday that scholarships which will go to deserving Nebraska rural youths under legislation passed at the current legislative session may not be used to pay for education in schools outside the state.

The question was posed by State Agriculture Director Pearle F. Finigan, who will administer the program. Money for the scholarships comes from the long idle Nebraska Rural Rehabilitation Corp. fund.

The opinion by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer and Assistant Atty. Gen. Mel Kammerlohr pointed out that under the law, the scholarships must be used at public colleges, universities, vocational or technical schools owned and controlled by the state of Nebraska or one of its political subdivisions.

"We know of no such school located outside the state," the opinion said.

Youths Enter Guilty Plea To Slaying Iowan

Omaha (AP) — Richard L. Lampkin, 19, and Wardell N. Smith 20, pleaded guilty to first degree murder Monday in the Aug. 31, 1964, shooting of a Council Bluffs, Iowa, man.

The victim, Carl France, 35, a Union Pacific Railroad brakeman was killed in a robbery on the near North Side.

Lampkin and Smith entered their plea before a special panel of Judges J. E. Murphy, Donald J. Hamilton and Patrick W. Lynch.

The judges set June 16 as the date for a hearing to determine whether the two should be sentenced to life imprisonment or death in the electric chair.

Refuses School Bill

Des Moines (AP)—The senate refused on a voice vote to accept a house version of a bill to set minimum standards for schools.

Enforcement Institute Opens Five-Day Meet

By JOHN DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

The 12th annual Nebraska Law Enforcement Institute opened in Lincoln Monday at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

Law enforcement authorities from the entire state and several surrounding states are attending. The five day program has as its goal to inform peace officers of modern law enforcement techniques and the "law" which must be followed in utilizing such techniques.

Certificates will be presented Friday, May 28th, to those who successfully complete the courses offered at the institute.

Crime Elements

Monday's featured speaker at the institute was Don Knowles, Douglas County attorney, who analyzed the elements which go to make up specific crimes.

The conditions surrounding a crime can make something a serious crime which might under other circumstances be something of a minor nature, Knowles said.

For example, the felon who while committing an armed robbery accidentally shoots his own accomplice would be guilty of murder because the accident occurred during the committing of a felony. Under normal circumstances, an accidental shooting of another person would not constitute murder.

Riot Control

Tuesday morning the law officers will study mob and riot control. In the afternoon three separate schools of instruction will be set up. The officers attending the institute will attend one of these schools and participate in field exercises Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoon. The three schools are firearms instruction, traffic accident investigation, and crime scene search.

Wednesday morning Alan Canty, Director of the Psychiatric Clinic, Detroit, Michigan instructing officers on the nature and investigation of sex crimes.

The nature of "Law" in the enforcement of the law will be dealt with Wednesday evening and Thursday morning. Specific fields to be covered will be the right to counsel, laws of arrest, search and seizure.

A banquet will be held 6:30 Thursday evening at the Lincoln Hotel.

Africa-Europe Cable

Capetown South Africa (AP) South Africa will lay an undersea cable linking it with Europe at a cost of $70 million, Albert Hertzog, minister of posts and telegraph, announced.

Werve Admits Demo Dinner Big Success

Omaha (AP) — Democratic National Committeeman Marvin Werve of Omaha who had criticized the timing of the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Lincoln Saturday said Monday the affair was "obviously a financial success."

Werve had contended the affair should have been held in the fall to avoid conflicts with charities and other fund raising activities J J Exon of Lincoln, arrangements chairman for the Lincoln dinner said the dinner drew 1,700 ticket buyers.

Werve said he didn't enjoy his dinner too much "because I had to eat crow."

Werve said the Douglas County program will probably be in the fall, the proceeds to be used for campaigns of Douglas County candidates, and state and national candidates the county organization chooses to support "The county also will fulfill financial commitments it has to the national party," he said.

In Kearney State chairman John Mitchell termed the dinner the most successful ever staged by Nebraska Democrats.

He said ticket sales yielded a record gross of $55,000, compared with the prior record high of $48,000 in 1963.

Mitchell said this was the first time the dinner had been held outside Omaha and plans are being made for a dinner in Omaha next spring.

Attack Fatal To Edward Henneck

Great Bend, Kan. (AP)—Edward P. Henneck, 61, president of Western Light and Telephone Co. Inc., died Sunday night in a Great Bend hospital. He had suffered a heart attack Friday.

Mr. Henneck formerly was associated with Central Electric and Gas Co. of Lincoln.

Mr. Henneck is survived by his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Elmer Schleuger of Lincoln; and a brother, Claude of Lexington.

Services will be 10 a.m. Tuesday in Great Bend, Kan. The body will lie in state Wednesday evening at Hodgman-Splain's. Graveside services will be held 10 a.m. Thursday at Lincoln Memorial Park.

Most Of Soil Moisture In State Aided By Rain

Soil moisture conditions over most of the state were greatly improved by weekend rains, government crop observers said Monday.

The State-Federal Division of Agriculture Statistics said severely dry conditions were relieved in eastern, central and some western sections.

Parts of western and southwestern Nebraska were suffering their worst drought in recent years before the rains fell.

The division said corn and sorghum planting has been delayed in the east because of wet conditions and in the west because of dry soil.

About 79% of the corn crop has been planted. Thirty-one per cent of the sorghum crop is in the ground.

Some replanting of corn, sorghum and soybeans may be necessary because of heavy rains that washed fields.

In the upper Platte Valley, thinning of sugar beets was under way and farmers were securing seed potatoes for planting.

Winter wheat prospects were also improved by the recent rains. The crop is heading over the southern half of the state and is in the boot stage in the southern panhandle.

In the southwest, some of the wheat was hurt by drought conditions.

Harvest of alfalfa for dehydration purposes was under way and some first cutting is expected to be light but of high quality.

Pasture and range feed is in short supply in western areas due to drought conditions. Ranchers have been reluctant to turn onto summer ranges without having sufficient feed for cattle.

Livestock maintained their condition during the past week. Range cattle, although having a short feed supply, continue in good condition and calves have been making fair gains.

Inshipments of stocker and feeder cattle during April at 98,000 head were up 46% from a year ago. Sheep inshipments for April at 9,000 head were down 26%.

Rainfall received throughout Nebraska during the past week included:

East
Grand Island	1.08	Norfolk	1.35
Lincoln	4.01	Omaha	3.39
Central
Burwell	1.97	Valentine	.97
North Platte	1.75
West
Chadron	.61	Scottsbluff	1.17
Imperial	.72	Sidney	1.72

Moisture received via sections since the beginning of the growing season, April 1, as compared to longtime averages:

Northwest—3.08 inches (1965), 3.75 inches (normal)
North Central—3.33, 4.20.
Northeast—5.09; 4.63
Central—3.56; 4.49
East Central—6.68; 4.74.
Southwest—2.85, 3.97.
South Central—4.29; 4.51.

Mail Handling Is Down From April Figure Last Year

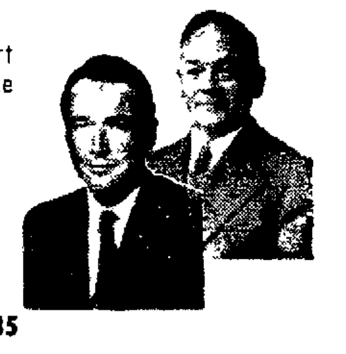
The Post Office Department announced this week that business is off about 10% of last year's total for the month of April. Comparative figures for the month follow this year's trend of less business.

During the past month, 13,451,073 pieces of mail were handled as opposed to 15,183,571 for last April.

The total accumlative receipts for April this year are $496,121.34, almost 40,000 below last year's figures of $537,609.38.

The department issued 8,197 money orders last month for $167,940.81. The same time last year recorded 9,447 orders totaling $185,243.50.

In keeping with the department's new policy to cut down the number of postal savings accounts, 360 new accounts the department opened 455 new accounts and deposited $416,927.



We make every effort to relieve families of the burden of details.

Post-Conviction Procedure Law Praised By Justices

Washington (UPI) — Two members of the Supreme Court Monday urged the states to pass laws giving prisoners a chance to challenge their convictions under the U.S. Constitution in a state court.

Justices Tom C. Clark and William J. Brennan Jr. expressed their views in a case from Nebraska, where such a law has just been enacted.

Both said laws providing for testing federal claims in state courts will ease friction between state and federal tribunals and relieve the federal courts of an ever increasing burden.

Brennan said, "None can view with satisfaction the channeling of a large part of state criminal business to federal trial courts."

Clark noted that legislatures of Illinois, Maryland, North Carolina, Maine and Oregon have also acted in this field. And Alaska, Delaware, Missouri and New Jersey have taken steps through rules of court.

He said he hopes other states will follow along.

In the case at issue Monday, the court said that a new Nebraska law has made it unnecessary to rule whether state prisoners there are deprived of an opportunity to assert their federal constitutional rights.

The court had heard the petition of Paul V. Case, who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a dwelling in Lincoln in 1963.

The court in a brief, unsigned opinion called attention to the new law and sent the case back to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Retirement Dinner Cites NU's Swinbank, Weakly

Two University of Nebraska agronomists widely respected for their work for Nebraska agriculture were honored by their colleagues and other friends Monday night.

J. C. Swinbank and Harry E. Weakly were honored guests at a retirement dinner at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education. Both have reached mandatory retirement age and will retire June 30.

Swinbank, Extension agronomist, was nicknamed "Mr. Wheat" in 1956 by members of the Nebraska Grain Improvement Association.

He began earning the nickname as county Extension agent in Cheyenne County from 1935 to 1943 when he pushed wheat quality improvement so successfully that even today the county is rated first in the state in the quality of its wheat.

Weakly, who has been an agronomist and soil scientist with the Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture since 1923, has made a name for himself in several areas.

His work has been primarily with irrigation and soil moisture, but he also has attracted much attention with his studies of drought cycles in western Nebraska. By studying tree rings, (known as dendrochronology) he pinpointed the occurrence and length of droughts in the area over a 748 year period, 1210 to 1958.

In addiiton, he is an amateur anthropologist and ornithologist and has been active in Boy Scouting for 48 years. He now is Boy Scout Commissioner for Lincoln.

Youths Enter Guilty Plea To Slaying Iowan

Omaha (AP) — Richard L. Lampkin, 19, and Wardell N. Smith 20, pleaded guilty to first degree murder Monday in the Aug. 31, 1964, shooting of a Council Bluffs, Iowa, man.

The victim, Carl France, 35, a Union Pacific Railroad brakeman was killed in a robbery on the near North Side.

Lampkin and Smith entered their plea before a special panel of Judges J. E. Murphy, Donald J. Hamilton and Patrick W. Lynch.

The judges set June 16 as the date for a hearing to determine whether the two should be sentenced to life imprisonment or death in the electric chair.

Refuses School Bill

Scholarships Are Ruled Limited To State Institutions

Lincoln (AP)—The State Department of Justice held Monday that scholarships which will go to deserving Nebraska rural youths under legislation passed at the current legislative session may not be used to pay for education in schools outside the state.

The question was posed by State Agriculture Director Pearle F. Finigan, who will administer the program. Money for the scholarships comes from the long idle Nebraska Rural Rehabilitation Corp. fund.

The opinion by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer and Assistant Atty. Gen. Mel Kammerlohr pointed out that under the law, the scholarships must be used at public colleges, universities, vocational or technical schools owned and controlled by the state of Nebraska or one of its political subdivisions.

"We know of no such school located outside the state," the opinion said.

Enforcement Institute Opens Five-Day Meet

By JOHN DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

The 12th annual Nebraska Law Enforcement Institute opened in Lincoln Monday at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

Law enforcement authorities from the entire state and several surrounding states are attending. The five day program has as its goal to inform peace officers of modern law enforcement techniques and the "law" which must be followed in utilizing such techniques.

Certificates will be presented Friday, May 28th, to those who successfully complete the courses offered at the institute.

Crime Elements

Monday's featured speaker at the institute was Don Knowles, Douglas County attorney, who analyzed the elements which go to make up specific crimes.

The conditions surrounding a crime can make something a serious crime which might under other circumstances be something of a minor nature, Knowles said.

For example, the felon who while committing an armed robbery accidentally shoots his own accomplice would be guilty of murder because the accident occurred during the committing of a felony. Under normal circumstances, an accidental shooting of another person would not constitute murder.

Riot Control

Tuesday morning the law officers will study mob and riot control. In the afternoon three separate schools of instruction will be set up. The officers attending the institute will attend one of these schools and participate in field exercixes Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoon. The three schools are firearms instruction, traffic accident investigation, and crime scene search.

Wednesday morning Alan Canty, Director of the Psychiatric Clinic, Detroit, Michigan instructing officers on the nature and investigation of sex crimes.

The nature of "Law" in the enforcement of the law will be dealt with Wednesday evening and Thursday morning. Specific fields to be covered will be the right to counsel, laws of arrest, search and seizure.

A banquet will be held 6:30 Thursday evening at the Lincoln Hotel.

Africa-Europe Cable

Capetown, South Africa (AP) — South Africa will lay an undersea cable linking it with Europe at a cost of $70 million, Albert Hertzog, minister of posts and telegraph, announced.

Werve Admits Demo Dinner Big Success

Omaha (AP) — Democratic National Committeeman Marvin Werve of Omaha, who had criticized the timing of the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Lincoln Saturday said Monday the affair was "obviously a financial success."

Werve had contended the affair should have been held in the fall to avoid conflicts with charities and other fund raising activities. J. J. Exon of Lincoln, arrangements chairman for the Lincoln dinner said the dinner drew 1,700 ticket buyers.

Werve said he didn't enjoy his dinner too much "because I had to eat crow."

Werve said the Douglas County program will probably be in the fall, the proceeds to be used for campaigns of Douglas County candidates, and state and national candidates the county organization chooses to support "The county also will fulfill financial commitments it has to the national party," he said.

In Kearney State chairman John Mitchell termed the dinner the most successful ever staged by Nebraska Democrats.

He said ticket sales yielded a record gross of $55,000, compared with the prior record high of $48,000 in 1963.

Mitchell said this was the first time the dinner had been held outside Omaha and plans are being made for a dinner in Omaha next spring.

Most Of Soil Moisture In State Aided By Rain

Soil moisture conditions over most of the state were greatly improved by weekend rains, government crop observers said Monday.

The State-Federal Division of Agriculture Statistics said severely dry conditions were relieved in eastern, central and some western sections.

Parts of western and southwestern Nebraska were suffering their worst drought in recent years before the rains fell.

The division said corn and sorghum planting has been delayed in the east because of wet conditions and in the west because of dry soil.

About 79% of the corn crop has been planted. Thirty-one per cent of the sorghum crop is in the ground.

Some replanting of corn, sorghum and soybeans may be necessary because of heavy rains that washed fields.

In the upper Platte Valley, thinning of sugar beets was under way and farmers were securing seed potatoes for planting.

Winter wheat prospects were also improved by the recent rains. The crop is heading over the southern half of the state and is in the boot stage in the southern panhandle.

In the southwest, some of the wheat was hurt by drought conditions.

Harvest of alfalfa for dehydration purposes was under way and some first cutting is expected to be light but of high quality.

Pasture and range feed is in short supply in western areas due to drought conditions. Ranchers have been reluctant to turn onto summer ranges without having sufficient feed for cattle.

Livestock maintained their condition during the past week. Range cattle, although having a short feed supply, continue in good condition and calves have been making fair gains.

Inshipments of stocker and feeder cattle during April at 98,000 head were up 46% from a year ago. Sheep inshipments for April at 9,000 head were down 26%.

Rainfall received throughout Nebraska during the past week included:

Burwell	1.97	Valentine	.97
North Platte	1.75

North Central—3.33; 4.20.
Northeast—5.09; 4.63.
Central—3.56; 4.49.

Mail Handling Is Down From April Figure Last Year

The Post Office Department announced this week that business is off about 10% of last year's total for the month of April. Comparative figures for the month follow this year's trend of less business.

During the past month, 13,451,073 pieces of mail were handled as opposed to 15,183,571 for last April.

The total accumlative receipts for April this year are $496,121.34, almost 40,000 below last year's figures of $537,609.38.

The department issued 8,197 money orders last month for $167,940.81. The same time last year recorded 9,447 orders totaling $185,243.50.

In keeping with the department's new policy to cut down the number of postal savings accounts, 360 new accounts the department opened 455 new accounts and deposited $416,927.

We make every effort to relieve families of the burden of details.

Carving Out A Nation

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Forty to one are pretty tall odds but they have been faced and conquered in the past in many areas of life. What were the chances of the pilgrims who came to the shores of America to face the ravages of an untamed wilderness? What were the chances of the pioneers who crossed the mountains of the East and settled in the plains of the Middle West, there to contend with hostile Indian tribes and the unpredictability of nature?

Desire For Freedom

Along with the high odds faced by these people, their challenges were an opportunity. They saw the chance of building for themselves a new life in which the many frustrations of the past would be eliminated. Basically, they sought to be independent, to be free to pursue whatever standard of living they might be able to achieve as a result of their own hard work. They burned with a deep desire to escape the shackles of social, economic and political enslavement in which the times had caught them. By the millions they succeeded and their story never grows old.

In one part of the world after another, this same kind of story is being repeated yet today and will go on being lived for generations in the future. From the teeming African continent has become a proposal by Tunisian President Bourguiba that the Arab world and Israel settle their differences by negotiation.

The suggestion has an almost routine sound to it by now but who knows when it might spark a flame in the governments of rival lands. Far across the Mediterranean from Israel, Tunisia still is plagued by the problems of the whole Middle East.

For the most part, the African and Middle Eastern nations have a common background of recent birth, Israel today is fighting the kind of battle that marked the early settlement and development of these United States. The circumstances are greatly different but the principles and objectives involved are all the same. Israel is the product of a persecuted people who, through the past 50 years, have sought the protection of her shores. From Central and Eastern Europe and from Africa and Asia, Jews have poured into Israel to carve a homeland out of a not too friendly natural environment. But since her independence in 1948, Israel has successfully fought a barrage of attacks upon her.

It has come from an industrial output in 1948 of $170 million to $1.9 billion in 1961 and is aiming at $3 billion by 1970. In the process, immigrants have poured in to seek the refuge of its boundaries. In 1948, Israel had a Jewish population of only 655,000 but stands today at 2.5 million, including a few hundred thousand non-Jews. The nation is growing at an annual rate of 4 percent and that is no small matter to contend with. But it still leaves Israel as a tiny dot among her Arab neighbors and their 100 million inhabitants. The Israeli capital of Jerusalem is still a divided city, shared with unfriendly Jordan along the eastern border. Egypt lies to the southwest and has long agitated for Arab recovery of much of Israel. Neutral zones and a million Arab refugees still unsettled from the Palestine War are testimonial to the continued powder-keg existence of this Jewish republic.

With every passing day, there is growing hope that the powder keg will never explode. The Arab states are no less offended with the presence of Israel than they have ever been but the harsh facts of reality do seem to be soaking in with the rulers of other Middle East nations.

Israel's ties have been with the West while much of the rest of the Middle East has wavered at times and gone other times in the direction of Russia. The United States has pumped some $1.2 billion in aid into Israel and has been a major supporter in other ways. In 1964, world sale of Israel freedom bonds totaled $85.4 million and 82 percent were sold in this country.

Bonds Paying Off

The bonds, which at one time were considered by their buyers to be largely gifts, have turned out to be sound investments. They are being retired as they reach maturity with a payment of 6 percent interest. Finished diamond exports from Israel are mostly to the United States. This nation makes extensive use of Israel's growing research and electronics industry. Depite her rate of economic growth and a per capita income that has gone from $400 to $1,000 a year in the past 12 years, Israel has a long way to go.

The people continue to pour into the tiny country and it is forced to continue spending 25 percent of its national budget on defense. But it has demonstrated the tremendous power of the will to survive. It stands in testimony to the motivating force of freedom and the potential of democracy. It is a land of antiquity imbued with advanced concepts of human dignity.

In One Generation

Sir Geoffrey DeHaviland died the other day in England at the age of 82. He had spent more than 50 years in the field of aviation.

DeHavilland, an engineer, was turned into a flier and later a manufacturer, by the feat of the Wright brothers, in this country, who led the way to heavier than air flight. He paid a high price for his leadership in the field. Two of his sons died as test pilots. But his ingenuity greatly helped the British, and the Americans in World War I. He produced the well-known fighter plane that carried his name.

But he grew with the field, producing the Comet, which was the first four jet airliner. His firm also produced the famous Mosquito plane of World War II.

His life, like several others in flying, illustrates the swiftness of present day scientific development. In his lifetime we have seen the airplane grow from the first wobbly aircraft, not even capable of remaining in the air very long, to the present day giant jets which fly at great speeds, at great altitude, around the world. This has all happened in less than 60 years. Moreover, we have moved into space and in a short time more will have mastered interstellar travel. When we think how long the wheel stood as the principal advancement in travel the present day pace seems unbelieveable.

We look at the fragile, obsolete plane which carried Lindbergh to Paris on the first non-stop one man flight, which occurred as recently as 1927 we get a good picture of what human ingenuity can do and how fast it can progress if given some hep

We are still in the first generation of airplane designers.

Attack On Dollar Coinage

The government decision to mint $45 million in silver dollars brings up the question of, What for?

It is easier and cheaper to print paper dollar bills. Besides there is a shortage of silver.

Except in two or three Mountain states, and the gambling places, the silver dollar knows little or no demand. That is one of the reasons why they have not been coined these past 30 years.

What is feared is that speculators and coin fans will quickly buy up most of the $45 million worth. In that event the present money shortage will not be relieved. In fact it can be made worse because the two mints are being pushed to the limit coining pieces of less than a dollar value. If they now turn to dollar coinage the federal silver reserves will be depleted while production of coins of less than a dollar value will be reduced.

Rep Silvio Conte, of Massachusetts, lays the decision to the influence of one or two senators from the silver states who want a better market for silver at a higher price. Rep. Conte did not say who, but the general opinion lays most of it on the doorstep of Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana.

Conte points out one thing that is quite true. Silver dollars are easily replaced by paper dollars, while coins of less value than a dollar are not replaceable. The coinage should be emphasized on these latter.

One never knows how much of these arguments are political and there could be a good deal of that in a veiled attack on Sen. Mansfield for he is the big Senate figure in the Democratic administration. But the matter of coinage should be a non-political field and the charges should be carefully screened for that reason.

It Works Both Ways

President Johnson has spoken out in behalf of 2 million young Americans who will be out of school this summer and out of work. He would like to see these 16 to 21-year-olds find meaningful work for the summer for all that it would mean to them.

There can be no argument with the President's words but there can be no argument with the facts of the situation, either. Our economic system has so developed that it is not currently to the advantage of these young people.

We have become more and more automated, of course, which demands worker skills that are not possessed by the young. On top of that, we have created a body of law that is basically constructive but which has worked against summer jobs for students.

Industry engaged in interstate commerce must be careful of wage rates paid and the age of those young people it might employ. Hardly any company these days can simply be good-hearted and put a youth to work so he can earn a little something during the summer months

Because of the laws we have and the growing complexity of business and industry there is less and less place for an occasional worker to be fitted into the scheme of things. These changes have been a constructive force in American life but they have not come about without some corresponding problems.

Good Things And Bad In The USA

WASHINGTON — En route across the U.S.A. — lots of things are happening in the U.S.A. today that Washington doesn't know much about —interesting things, wholesome things, some things below-the-belt. Here are some I observed during a quick trip across the continent.

City of Hope—In Los Angeles is one of the unique hospitals of the world. Founded in 1913 by two doctors, Louis Pertsin and Leon Shulberg, to help tubercular patients, it has expanded into a small medical city outside L.A. where its doctors work on all the major mysterious diseases, ranging from heart to cancer.

The City of Hope is unique in many respects. It never turns a needy patient down. It receives no funds from community chest drives. Ninety per cent of its patients are non-Jewish, though 90 per cent of its money is donated by Jews.

I met with the Sportsmen Club, a group of Angelenos whose name is not derived from the fact that they go in for deep sea fishing or surfboard riding, but from their making a sport of charity contributions. Their sporting support of the City of Hope has helped make it what it is.

Phony Politics — Local elections can be just as bitter, almost as important, as nationwide battles. Running for the city council from the 13th district of giant, sprawling Los Angeles is right wing Paul H. Lamport, who claims not only to have been a major in the U.S. Army but to have earned a silver star for combat action.

When I checked with the Defense Department, however I found that "Major" Lamport had never risen above the rank of first lieutenant and that, instead of a silver star for combat, he got the routine Silver Star which automatically comes when any soldier participates in five campaigns. This kind of a silver star merely replaces five bronze stars because a campaign ribbon gets too crowded. It does not mean gallantry in action.

That's the way politics sometimes operates in southern California.

Independent telephone companies — In Kansas City I met executives of the Indepenent Telephone companies of Kansas and Missouri. There are 345,000 independent telephones in Missouri; 181,500 in Kansas, operated by about 400 different companies independent of the Bell system.

When you place a call from Washington to a Midwest city, the chances are the final delivery of the call will be made by a company totally independent of Bell, which handles the long lines.

This is an amazing feat of inter-company telephone co-operations. It's an amazing fact also that there are 2,535 telephone companies in the United States, all working completely independent of, yet in cooperation with, the biggest telephone company in the world, namely American Tel & Tel and its subsidiary, Bell.

Bolivia Up Next For Revolution

WASHINGTON — In Bolivia's fog-shrouded capital of La Paz, 11,000 feet above sea level, the alarm bell is ringing. While it can be ignored for a time, Latin-American observers who know their hemisphere are convinced that before too long it will reverberate far and wide.

The situation is in some respects remarkably like that which preceded the rebellion in the Dominican Republic. But it is more complex, with the long-term odds in favor of a civil war that could spill rivers of blood over months or even years.

The State Department is less pessimistic about Bolivia than are Latin observers close to hemispheric problems. The belief in the department is that the current dictator,, Rene Barrientos Ortuno, former chief of the Bolivian Air Force, has support among the peasantry and will be able, with a judicious use of force, to keep the mine workers and the discontented city dwellers from open revolt. It must be added, however, that American diplomats in Santo Domingo and in Washington were unprepared for the timing of the Dominican explosion.

There is agreement that the three left-wing parties in Bolivia have come under the domination of a pro-Chinese communist faction. A united command grew out of meetings in mid-April centered in the twentieth century mind and the militant, armed-to-the-teeth union that is in control. The three parties are the leftist socialists of Juan Lechin Oquendo, the Trotskyite workers party and the bulk of the old-line communist party of Bolivia.

The parallel with the Dominican crisis is most striking in the sequence of events that led to Barrientos' seizure of power. Last November the air force general overthrew Victor Paz Estenssoro, a popular leader who had striven mightily to create the forms of democracy in a primitive country with a largely illiterate Indian population.

In the Bolivian cast of characters Paz Estenssoro was the Juan Bosch, the progressive, non-communist seeking to create a going economy and raise living standards by free choice. He was stronger than Bosch and he survived longer and achieved rather more.

But in the end the grim realities of what he faced in poverty and long pent-up hatreds and discontents made his downfall inevitable. In the Dominican Republic sugar is the commodity on which nearly 60 per cent of trade with the outside world turns and when Bosch doubled the wages the sugar workers after Trujillo was overthrown Dominican sugar was priced out of the world market. The commodity on which Bolivia depends for far more than 60 per cent of its outside earnings is tin.

The mines were nationalized a decade ago. They had been owned principally by the Patino family. While the Patinos were not Trujillos in the sense of being total dictators, they paid starvation wages and year after year took huge sums out of the country to maintain their scale of luxury living in Europe.

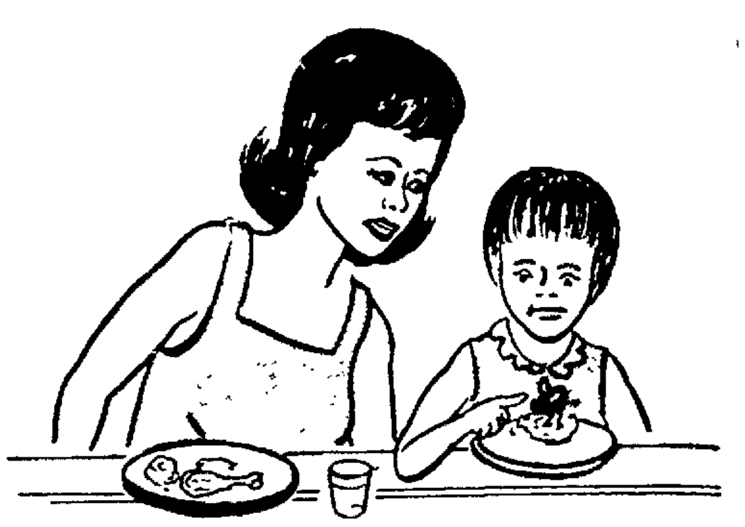
Patchwork Prairie Country



It seems that it was just a few short weeks ago that everyone was saying spring was late in coming. It did have a slow start back in April when everyone was commenting on the weather. I have now come to the conclusion that I am the one with the slow start.

Given the middle of May as a reasonable date, spring always seems to catch up with itself. We have usually mowed the yard two or three times by mid-May. We have done so this year. Trees have been leafy green and capable of casting a shaded area by this date in any past year. They are doing likewise this year. I cannot find a single thing that is out of line or slow to mature because of the so-called late spring.

This morning The Farmer planned to spray ten acres of wheat for weeds but the wind was blowing too much so he had to postpone the work. The wind was just right for blowing the poppies open. By mid-morning they were swaying and nodding in gay profusion, proving the old adage that it is an ill wind that blows no one good.

The city parks are beautiful this time of year. They look so inviting with their shade spread in great areas under the trees and the carpet of lush grass to cushion a tired one who chooses to rest there.

Thoughts of a picnic in the park have run through my mind since seeing our local park. It's always fun to pack our cares and woes with fried chicken and chocolate cake and eat outdoors.

Then I thought of all the ants that would be there and perhaps a few small grasshoppers trying their jumping legs. Whether it be of the small economy size or a full-grown jumper, I despise either in a glass of lemonade.

There are always a few unknown creatures that drop from the trees silently into the potato salad. That does not add to the appetite, although it is good for a flurry of excitement.

Many years ago a little girl was seated at an outdoor picnic table but was not eating her dinner. She sat looking at her plate as small children do. Her mother asked her why she wasn't eating.

The little girl replied: "There's a ladybug sitting on one of my beans."

This aroused the curiosity of the other children around her. One little boy piped up and said: "I'll bet that ladybug thinks she's sitting on top of the world!"

Junk Mail Senders Defeating Selves

NEW YORK — It is reported that the name-selling boom among mail advertisers has reached fantastic proportions. Which may help to explain the increased smoke problem in big cities: the incinerators are on 24-hour shifts burning junk mail.

Altogether, business firms and charities now spend approximately $400,000,000 a year to buy and use specialized lists. This is about double the amount spent for such propaganda purposes in 1950. The problem, for the poor householder who is besieged by advertising mail, is that he never knows what company has bartered away his right to a minimum of mail and an uncluttered wastebasket. Just by registering your automobile, you may wind up on a dozen car or car-accessories-maker's lists. Just by being in the telephone book, you may be hounded to subscribe to magazines.

Everybody loves to see his name in the paper; but your name in the paper (particularly in the social pages) can make you subject to dozens of letters offering everything from mink bath accessories to resort hotel literature.

If you appear on radio or TV, and your business is mentioned, a dozen firms may offer to sell you tapes of your appearance. And numberless other business propositions will suddenly come to your attention.

Some large firms make a great deal of money by keeping their own subscriber lists, but renting them out to other firms for a short period of time. The renting firms send their advertising material to the rentor firm, which addresses the envelopes and mails them—at an additional service charge.

One small magazine is reported to make up the money for lost subscriptions by selling the names and addresses of subscribers it has lost

It's a fascinating business. But as it grows and grows, it may diminish itself. Because most of us, so badgered constantly by solicitations, are getting to the point where we toss out our mail without even opening it. It is, indeed, a dour world.

A study of teenagers, in schools from the East to the Midwest, shows that "cheerfulness" is the most widely-valued trait a student can have.

Seriousness of purpose, intelligence and diligence clearly took a back seat to chin-upmanship. In fact, brilliance in a teenager was considered a liability — and those who possessed brilliance tried to hide it under a barrell-of-fun.

"The brilliant youth," the study showed, " faces more serious social penalties than his average-ability schoolmate if both show a strong preoccupation with study and a lack of interest in sports. The academically outstanding high school student, it seems, can ill afford to earn the reputation of being studious and non-athletic."

The study, published some time ago by Teachers College of Columbia University, pictured the ideal American youth (as seen through the eyes of the typical American youth) as "a good sport" who is also "nice looking" and a "good leader."

"Shyness" was almost as much a liability as genius. Glibness was tantamount to social success.

Girls, it turned out, were even more leary of academic accomplishment than boys—and, as a result, their boyfriends tended to goof off their mental talents. A love of learning must take second place to a love for a girl. Especially when brilliance was equated with "a freakish quality."

The study put much of the blame on high schools. It said that many schools put the emphasis (and the laurels) on social butterflies, rather than bookworms. On athletics rather than academics.

Meantime, the most popular kids are always "cheerful" . . . in spite of those awful grades.

In "in" circles (which is to say, what is "in" among people who go around in circles), the shoulder corsage is definitely "out."

Replacing it is the shoe corsage. You clip a little bouquet of flowers — preferably miniature orchids—to your left shoe. This is proper for cocktails and dinner, of course, not for dancing. If you watusi, you wilt.

Also "in," florally, is the "hat of living flowers." This will replace the floral tiara, which is now "out" (if you never knew and who did? That the floral tiara was "in" in the first place, forget it). The flower hat, naturally, is designed in harmony with Madame's coiffure.

Another "in" arrangement, this one especially for dancing, is the "flower belt." Now that nobody touches her partner when she dances, an entire garland of tiny flowers can completely encircle the waist without problems. But don't eat when wearing this trend-setter; expansive calories pose problems for expensive posies. And if you sit, make it a stool.

Carving Out A Nation

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Forty to one are pretty tall odds but they have been faced and conquered in the past in many areas of life. What were the chances of the pilgrims who came to the shores of America to face the ravages of an untamed wilderness? What were the chances of the pioneers who crossed the mountains of the East and settled in the plains of the Middle West, there to contend with hostile Indian tribes and the unpredictability of nature?

Along with the high odds faced by these people, their challenges were an opportunity. They saw the chance of building for themselves a new life in which the many frustrations of the past would be eliminated. Basically, they sought to be independent, to be free to pursue whatever standard of living they might be able to achieve as a result of their own hard work. They burned with a deep desire to escape the shackles of social, economic and political enslavement in which the times had caught them. By the millions they succeeded and their story never grows old.

Desire For Freedom

In one part of the world after another, this same kind of story is being repeated yet today and will go on being lived for generations in the future. From the teeming African continent has become a proposal by Tunisian President Bourguiba that the Arab world and Israel settle their differences by negotiation.

The suggestion has an almost routine sound to it by now but who knows when it might spark a flame in the governments of rival lands. Far across the Mediterranean from Israel, Tunisia still is plagued by the problems of the whole Middle East.

For the most part, the African and Middle Eastern nations have a common background of recent birth. Israel today is fighting the kind of battle that marked the early settlement and development of these United States. The circumstances are greatly different but the principles and objectives involved are all the same. Israel is the product of a persecuted people who, through the past 50 years, have sought the protection of her shores. From Central and Eastern Europe and from Africa and Asia, Jews have poured into Israel to carve a homeland out of a not too friendly natural environment. But since her independence in 1948, Israel has successfully fought a barrage of attacks upon her.

It has come from an industrial output in 1948 of $170 million to $1.9 billion in 1964 and is aiming at $3 billion by 1970. In the process, immigrants have poured in to seek the refuge of its boundaries. In 1948, Israel had a Jewish population of only 655,000 but stands today at 2.5 million, including a few hundred thousand non-Jews. The nation is growing at an annual rate of 4 percent and that is no small matter to contend with. But it still leaves Israel as a tiny dot among her Arab neighbors and their 100 million inhabitants. The Israeli capital of Jerusalem is still a divided ctiy, shared with unfriendly Jordan along the eastern border. Egypt lies to the southwest and has long agitated for Arab recovery of much of Israel. Neutral zones and a million Arab refugees still unsettled from the Palestine War are testimonial to the continued powder-keg existence of this Jewish republic.

With every passing day, there is growing hope that the powder keg will never explode. The Arab states are no less offended with the presence of Israel than they have ever been but the harsh facts of reality do seem to be soaking in with the rulers of other Middle East nations.

Israel's ties have been with the West while much of the rest of the Middle East has wavered at times and gone other times in the direction of Russia. The United States has pumped some $1.2 billion in aid into Israel and has been a major supporter in other ways. In 1964, world sale of Israel freedom bonds totaled $85.4 million and 82 percent were sold in this country.

The bonds, which at one time were considered by their buyers to be largely gifts, have turned out to be sound investments. They are being retired as they reach maturity with a payment of 6 percent interest. Finished diamond exports from Israel are mostly to the United States. This nation makes extensive use of Israel's growing research and electronics industry. Depite her rate of economic growth and a per capita income that has gone from $400 to $1,000 a year in the past 12 years, Israel has a long way to go.

Bonds Paying Off

The people continue to pour into the tiny country and it is forced to continue spending 25 percent of its national budget on defense. But it has demonstrated the tremendous power of the will to survive. It stands in testimony to the motivating force of freedom and the potential of democracy. It is a land of antiquity imbued with advanced concepts of human dignity.

In One Generation

Sir Geoffrey DeHaviland died the other day in England at the age of 82. He had spent more than 50 years in the field of aviation.

DeHavilland, an engineer, was turned into a flier and later a manufacturer, by the feat of the Wright brothers, in this country, who led the way to heavier than air flight. He paid a high price for his leadership in the field. Two of his sons died as test pilots. But his ingenuity greatly helped the British, and the Americans in World War I. He produced the well-known fighter plane that carried his name.

But he grew with the field, producing the Comet, which was the first four jet airliner. His firm also produced the famous Mosquito plane of World War II.

His life, like several others in flying, illustrates the swiftness of present day scientific development. In his lifetime we have seen the airplane grow from the first wobbly aircraft, not even capable of remaining in the air very long, to the present day giant jets which fly at great speeds, at great altitude, around the world. This has all happened in less than 60 years. Moreover, we have moved into space and in a short time more will have mastered interstellar travel. When we think how long the wheel stood as the principal advancement in travel the present day pace seems unbelieveable.

We look at the fragile, obsolete plane which carried Lindbergh to Paris on the first non-stop one man flight, which occurred as recently as 1927 we get a good picture of what human ingenuity can do and how fast it can progress if given some hep

We are still in the first generation of airplane designers.

Attack On Dollar Coinage

The government decision to mint $45 million in silver dollars brings up the question of, What for?

It is easier and cheaper to print paper dollar bills. Besides there is a shortage of silver.

Except in two or three Mountain states, and the gambling places, the silver dollar knows little or no demand. That is one of the reasons why they have not been coined these past 30 years.

What is feared is that speculators and coin fans will quickly buy up most of the $45 million worth. In that event the present money shortage will not be relieved. In fact it can be made worse because the two mints are being pushed to the limit coining pieces of less than a dollar value. If they now turn to dollar coinage the federal silver reserves will be depleted while production of coins of less than a dollar value will be reduced.

Rep Silvio Conte, of Massachusetts, lays the decision to the influence of one or two senators from the silver states who want a better market for silver at a higher price. Rep. Conte did not say who, but the general opinion lays most of it on the doorstep of Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana.

Conte points out one thing that is quite true. Silver dollars are easily replaced by paper dollars, while coins of less value than a dollar are not replaceable. The coinage should be emphasized on these latter.

One never knows how much of these arguments are political and there could be a good deal of that in a veiled attack on Sen. Mansfield for he is the big Senate figure in the Democratic administration. But the matter of coinage should be a nonpolitical field and the charges should be carefully screened for that reason.

It Works Both Ways

President Johnson has spoken out in behalf of 2 million young Americans who will be out of school this summer and out of work. He would like to see these 16 to 21-year-olds find meaningful work for the summer for all that it would mean to them.

There can be no argument with the President's words but there can be no argument with the facts of the situation, either. Our economic system has so developed that it is not currently to the advantage of these young people.

We have become more and more automated, of course, which demands worker skills that are not possessed by the young. On top of that, we have created a body of law that is basically constructive but which has worked against summer jobs for students.

Industry engaged in interstate commerce must be careful of wage rates paid and the age of those young people it might employ. Hardly any company these days can simply be good-hearted and put a youth to work so he can earn a little something during the summer months.

Because of the laws we have and the growing complexity of business and industry, there is less and less place for an occasional worker to be fitted into the scheme of things. These changes have been a constructive force in American life but they have not come about without some corresponding problems.

Good Things And Bad In The USA

WASHINGTON — En route across the U.S.A. — lots of things are happening in the U.S.A. today that Washington doesn't know much about —interesting things, wholesome things, some things below-the-belt. Here are some I observed during a quick trip across the continent.

City of Hope — In Los Angeles is one of the unique hospitals of the world. Founded in 1913 by two doctors, Louis Pertsin and Leon Shulberg, to help tubercular patients, it has expanded into a small medical city outside L.A. where its doctors work on all the major mysterious diseases, ranging from heart to cancer.

The City of Hope is unique in many respects. It never turns a needy patient down. It receives no funds from community chest drives. Ninety per cent of its patients are non-Jewish, though 90 per cent of its money is donated by Jews.

I met with the Sportsmen Club, a group of Angelenos whose name is not derived from the fact that they go in for deep sea fishing or surfboard riding, but from their making a sport of charity contributions. Their sporting support of the City of Hope has helped make it what it is.

Phony Politics — Local elections can be just as bitter, almost as important, as nationwide battles. Running for the city council from the 13th district of giant, sprawling Los Angeles is right wing Paul H. Lamport, who claims not only to have been a major in the U.S. Army but to have earned a silver star for combat action.

When I checked with the Defense Department, however I found that "Major" Lamport had never risen above the rank of first lieutenant and that, instead of a silver star for combat, he got the routine Silver Star which automatically comes when any soldier participates in five campaigns. This kind of a silver star merely replaces five bronze stars because a campaign ribbon gets too crowded. It does not mean gallantry in action.

That's the way politics sometimes operates in southern California.

Independent telephone companies — In Kansas City I met executives of the Indepenent Telephone companies of Kansas and Missouri. There are 345,000 independent telephones in Missouri; 181,500 in Kansas, operated by about 400 different companies independent of the Bell system.

When you place a call from Washington to a Midwest city, the chances are the final delivery of the call will be made by a company totally independent of Bell, which handles the long lines.

This is an amazing feat of inter-company telephone cooperations. It's an amazing fact also that there are 2,535 telephone companies in the United States, all working completely independent of, yet in cooperation with, the biggest telephone company in the world, namely American Tel & Tel and its subsidiary, Bell.

Bolivia Up Next For Revolution

WASHINGTON — In Bolivia's fog-shrouded capital of La Paz, 11,000 feet above sea level, the alarm bell is ringing. While it can be ignored for a time, Latin-American observers who know their hemisphere are convinced that before too long it will reverberate far and wide.

The situation is in some respects remarkably like that which preceded the rebellion in the Dominican Republic. But it is more complex, with the long-term odds in favor of a civil war that could spill rivers of blood over months or even years.

The State Department is less pessimistic about Bolivia than are Latin observers close to hemispheric problems. The belief in the department is that the current dictator, Rene Barrientos Ortuno, former chief of the Bolivian Air Force, has support among the peasantry and will be able, with a judicious use of force, to keep the mine workers and the discontented city dwellers from open revolt. It must be added, however, that American diplomats in Santo Domingo and in Washington were unprepared for the timing of the Dominican explosion.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Foster Care Good Way To Supplement Family Income

By ROBERT PETERSON

When I was growing up, poverty was considered a sad condition resulting from lack of money-making opportunities. But the poverty we hear about today must stem from other causes for there are thousands of promising work opportunities for those willing to relocate or expend some effort.

It's not a matter of inadequate educations either, because a high proportion of current job openings invoke no formal educational requirements.

Thousands of families cannot find responsible middle-aged women willing to live-in and do pleasant domestic work, even though such jobs are a breeze with labor-saving devices, and offer free room-and-board plus paid vacations, credits toward Social Security, and salaries of $40 weekly and upwards.

Thousands of jobs for typists are going begging, simply because there aren't enough folks willing to spend six months learning how to run a typewriter and thus enhance their employability. Thousands of jobs are open for service station attendants, mechanics and taxi drivers

Thousands of practical nursing jobs are vacant—even though it takes just one year of studies to qualify for a certificate and thus become eligible for nursing assignments at two-thirds the salaries paid registered nurses!

And thousands of indigent children and elders are living in institutions, simply because there aren't enough families interested in offering foster home care.

Foster care is one of the easiest ways of all for a responsible but economically-depressed family to supplement income and render humanitarian service in the bargain.

How much do agencies pay? In New York City, the Welfare Department pays $100 monthly to take a small child into your home, or $150 monthly to take in a person past 65 -- plus all clothing, medical costs and incidental expenses. Information on rates in other cities can be obtained by phoning local welfare departments.

Over the years I've heard of many people past 40 supplementing incomes by engaging in foster care. Remember the heart-warming magazine feature a few years ago about a kindly, crippled dwarf who served as foster mother to six or seven children at a time? She not only provided a lovable family life for her charges but the work gave her purpose for living and permitted her to support herself comfortably.

Someone has sent me a clipping about Mrs. N. D. Rollins of Buckhannon, W. Va., who is now 82 years old. Starting back in depression days, she and her late husband have had a parade of 51 foster children in their home. When they started, they got just $12.50 per month from the local welfare department but now the rate in that small community is $50 per month.

Says Mrs. Rollins, "I learned to love every one of my foster children, and they loved me. I'm proud to say none of my children was ever arrested, and all turned out to be good citizens. They're all grown now and most of them keep in touch with me. I think that providing a foster home to children is the most rewarding experience a family can have."

There's undoubtedly some real poverty in our midst which cannot be eased by relocating or retraining. But let's make sure people know of the myriad job opportunities which exist, particularly those relating to foster care of children and elders otherwise doomed to an institutional existence

Insurance Policy Tax Exemption Bill Is Introduced

The Legislature Monday approved 31-7 the introduction of a bill submitting to voters next year a constitutional amendment exempting life insurance policies and life insurance annuity contracts from intangible property taxes.

The measure, 906th of the current session, was sponsored by the Revenue Committee.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff told the Legislature that although these policies and contracts are not generally being taxed on their cash value, existing law and the constitution probably require that they be so taxed.

He said the matter deserves a legislative hearing and speculated that if the exemption amendment goes to a vote of the people, it will be approved because almost everyone holds such a policy or contract.

Interest Rate Bills Signed

Governor Morrison Monday signed into law five interest rate bills passed last week by the Legislature.

The measures thus took immediate effect.

They are LB283, the Installment Sales Act; LB425, Industrial Loan and Investment Company Act; LB307, the Revolving Credit Law; LB52, the Bank Personal Loan Law and LB414, the Credit Union Law.

All provide for 18% simple annual interest with the exception of the Credit Union Law which has a 12% maximum.

Meanwhile, Speaker Kenneth L. Bowen of Red Cloud said he expects a test lawsuit to be filed on LB283.

He added, though, that merchants and others probably will use the law before its constitutionality is determined by the courts.

The State Supreme Court has struck down two installment sales acts in the past two years. That was before the voters approved a constitutional amendment allowing the Legislature to enact special laws regulating the interest of money.

The governor also signed a so-called truth in lending bill into law Monday. It requires lenders to spell out in easily understood terms interest rates and charges.

City Council Considering Extensive Sidewalk Plan

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council took under consideration Monday a sidewalk program which could result in the construction of sidewalks on one or both sides of 183 miles of city streets in the next few years

The council generally indicated agreement with the Public Works Department's recommended 7 point policy, but took no action in lieu of further review of the program.

The recommendations:

—The city continue with its present policy requiring the construction of sidewalks on both sides of the street in all new subdivisions

Immediately

—The city embark immediately upon a program to construct sidewalks on both sides where there is a demand either as shown by the report or further studies.

—That notices be sent to the abutting property owners requesting voluntary construction of sidewalks in priority areas.

City Would Build

—Upon failure of the owner to perform as ordered, the city should construct the sidewalks and assess all costs incurred to the property owner.

—Create sidewalk districts as a last resort.

—The City Council should direct the construction of all non-existent sidewalks to be included with paving districts.

The proposed program is a result of a study completed by the Public Works Department, through the cooperation of several city departments, the School Crossing Protection Committee and the Parent-Teachers Association.

37% Inadequate

The study reveals that 37% of the 502 miles of public streets, paved and unpaved, have inadequate sidewalk facilities.

This designation was arrived at by an analysis of 686 sidewalk districts where deficient sidewalks were noted. Each district is measured by the standard block length of 400 feet.

The main criteria and final construction priority was achieved by observing the total number of children using the district as a route to school, and dividing that number by the number of block sides where no sidewalks exist in the district.

Up To Council

Robert Obering, acting director of public works, said he would leave it up to the council to see how fast they wanted to procede with the program.

Obering and Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger said that the priority list would be subject to continuing resurveying and that changes could be made.

The report shows these sidewalk districts to be rated tops in priority at the present time: 52nd St., from Normal Blvd. to South; Sandalwood Drive, Sycamore to Driftwood; Valley Rd., 48th to 56th; Cotner Blvd., Leighton to Adams; Normal Blvd., 48th to 56th; Sumner, 48th to 52nd; Cottonwood Drive, N. Hazelwood to Sandalwood; Sycamore, Missouri Pacific tracks to N. Hazelwood and Orchard, 50th to 51st.

Given Time

The council members were in accord that abutting property owners in the affected districts be given time to individually contract for the sidewalk construction before the city acts.

Some members said that the list might have to be revised to include top priority to blocks where there are no sidewalks on either side.

There was no indication as to how many sidewalk district construction projects would be programmed per year, if and when a policy is approved.

Mrs. L. John Cooper and other representatives of the school crossing committee appeared in support of the program

City Officials Tour Air Base Facilities

Mayor Dean Petersen, city councilmen and other city officials took a two-hour tour of the 4,028 acre Lincoln Air Force Base Monday.

The briefing and bus tour was conducted by base commander Col. J. J. McLachlan and V. A. West, LAFB civilian management analyis officer.

Council members had requested the briefing and tour to better aquaint themselves with the base, its facilities and possible future use.

During the briefing, base officials again expressed the importance of having a base-use plan for non-governmental use; a plan that the advisory committee of the Lincoln Opportunity Team has already authorized to be done by the New York consulting firm of Frederic Harris and Associates

West made it clear to the city officials that with such a plan, the city or some other organization probably will be able to get almost anything at LAFB that isn't needed by the Air Force in connection with the deactivation.

Facilities viewed on the tour were the base flight line, hangar areas, dormitories, control tower, fire station, training buildings, engineering and warehouse areas, cold storage plant Gen. Arnold School and the Capehart housing area

Under the present deactivation schedule, the council was told that the base population is now 4,890 compared with 6,471 when the deactivation was announced last November.

Including military personnel, civilian employes and dependents, all housed both on and off the base, the total population has decreased from 21,860 to 16,889 over the same period

No Authority For Open Occupancy Ordinance Now

Lincoln does not now have the authority to enact an open occupancy ordinance, the city legal department said Monday

In response to a question by Councilman Lloyd Hinkley, City Attorney Ralph Nelson said that a city only has power to enact fair housing legislation upon authorization of the legislature.

Hinkley said that several people have approached him in regard to an open occupancy ordinance, and he wanted to clarify the issue by getting a legal opinion

Lincoln Will Get Lagoon Park Funds

Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb announced in Washington Monday that Lincoln has been awarded a $92.700 grant by the Housing and Home Finance Agency to acquire land for Lagoon Park, to be located north of the city

Callan said the grant, allocated under the Open Space Land program, will cover 50% of the purchase price of the 535 acre site.

The park will be bounded by U S 77 on the east Salt Creek on the west and north and Arrow Airport on the south

The proposed acquisition is in accordance with the 1980 Comprehensive Plan.

The plan says Lagoon Lake would provide a semi-wild area immediately within a major urban development and could become an outstanding recreational asset at relatively little expense.

Much of the land the city will acquire belongs to Lincoln attorney Merril Reller

The federal grant comes as a result of a resolution passed by the City Council Jan 25 authorizing Mayor Dean Petersen to request the funds

PICCARD FLIES AGAIN

Don Piccard of Costa Mesa, Calif., is strapped into his harness and ready to go on a 5¼-mile flight at California City in hopes of establishing records for hot-air balloons. FOREIGN AID NOT 'MIRACLE VACCINE'

Washington (AP)—Foreign aid "is not a miracle vaccine that will make every country in the world immune to Communism," a congressional supporter said Monday, but despite its faults, "It is vital to our security."

Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, led off this way in the debate on the administration's $3.37-billion foreign aid authorization bill.

Morgan conceded the foreign aid program has "failed on occasion" and has not accomplished everything hoped for. "Sure, we have thrown away a lot of money," he told the House, but the program also "has enabled us to win important battles."

Morgan defended the program against "a number of well-informed people who say the program is obsolete."

Foremost among those is Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who believes foreign aid should be totally revamped. Fulbright has declined to act as floor manager for the administration bill this year in the Senate.

Morgan said, "We got a lot of mileage out of it, and we're getting a lot of mileage today. It's easy to point to things the program has been unable to cope with . . . It's also easy to compile a list of things that were wrong with the model T Ford."

Yet the Model T, he said, revolutionized transportation. And he added, "We do not have a Model T foreign aid program—it is a 1965 model."

Lady Bird Opens Beauty Conference

Washington (AP)— Mrs. Lyndon B Johnson opened a two-day White House conference on natural beauty Monday on the note that every man woman and child can help in the attack on civic ugliness

The first lady, who has been a leader in President Johnson's program to beautify America, sat in on some of the day-long panels at which nearly 1,000 experts are trying to come up with recommendations for the President.

A major proposal was that Johnson establish a national council on natural beauty, with a citizens advisory committee and a full-time staff to centralize the government's efforts in this field

There were suggestions that big cities appoint urban design planners and establish beautification programs to end divided responsibility on what should be done

There also were suggestions for "hush-parks" to dim the noise around new jet airports, for tax incentives to get industry and big financial institutions more interested in providing beautiful buildings and landscapes.

"Beauty is good business" the conferees were told While many were exponents of more trees for cities, August Heckscher, the late President John F. Kennedy's cultural adviser, said the tree-lined street may be an old-fashioned idea.

He told the "townscape" panel that "high-rise habitation" is probably going to be the place where America will have to promote its beauty in the future.

Douglas Wants 2% Burial Tax On New Cars

Washington (AP)— Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., announced Monday he will propose a special 2% excise tax on every new automobile to provide "the funds for its own burial."

Douglas said his plan, announced at a White House conference on beautifying America is designed to cope with automobile junk piles. He said the basic problem is economic — it's cheaper to let an old car rust away than process it into scrap — and the receipts from his proposed tax would go into a special fund to do away with the problem.

City Council Considering Extensive Sidewalk Plan

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council took under consideration Monday a sidewalk program which could result in the construction of sidewalks on one or both sides of 183 miles of city streets in the next few years.

The council generally indicated agreement with the Public Works Department's recommended 7 point policy, but took no action in lieu of further review of the program.

The recommendations:

—The city continue with its present policy requiring the construction of sidewalks on both sides of the street in all new subdivisions.

Immediately

—The city embark immediately upon a program to construct sidewalks on both sides where there is a demand either as shown by the report or further studies.

—That notices be sent to the abutting property owners requesting voluntary construction of sidewalks in priority areas.

City Would Build

—Upon failure of the owner to perform as ordered, the city should construct the sidewalks and assess all costs incurred to the property owner.

—Create sidewalk districts as a last resort.

—The City Council should direct the construction of all non-existent sidewalks to be included with paving districts.

The proposed program is a result of a study completed by the Public Works Department, through the cooperation of several city departments, the School Crossing Protection Committee and the Parent-Teachers Association.

37% Inadequate

The study reveals that 37% of the 502 miles of public streets, paved and unpaved, have inadequate sidewalk facilities.

This designation was arrived at by an analysis of 686 sidewalk districts where deficient sidewalks were noted. Each district is measured by the standard block length of 400 feet.

The main criteria and final construction priority was achieved by observing the total number of children using the district as a route to school, and dividing that number by the number of block sides where no sidewalks exist in the district.

Up To Council

Robert Obering, acting director of public works, said he would leave it up to the council to see how fast they wanted to procede with the program.

Obering and Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger said that the priority list would be subject to continuing resurveying and that changes could be made.

The report shows these sidewalk districts to be rated tops in priority at the present time: 52nd St., from Normal Blvd. to South; Sandalwood Drive, Sycamore to Driftwood; Valley Rd., 48th to 56th; Cotner Blvd., Leighton to Adams; Normal Blvd., 48th to 56th; Sumner, 48th to 52nd; Cottonwood Drive, N. Hazelwood to Sandalwood; Sycamore, Missouri Pacific tracks to N. Hazelwood and Orchard, 50th to 51st.

Given Time

The council members were in accord that abutting property owners in the affected districts be given time to individually contract for the sidewalk construction before the city acts.

Some members said that the list might have to be revised to include top priority to blocks where there are no sidewalks on either side.

There was no indication as to how many sidewalk district construction projects would be programmed per year, if and when a policy is approved.

Mrs. L. John Cooper and other representatives of the school crossing committee appeared in support of the program.

TALK

Learned all sorts of things on our trek around town this morning—For one thing, we discovered that Frank H. de Brown is a patient at Lincoln General Hospital. As a matter of fact Mr de Brown has been hospitalized for the past two weeks

• • •

Then we heard of some weekend guests for whom there were numerous courtesies—Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bond of Detroit, Mich., stopped in Lincoln en route to Detroit from a six weeks tour of the west coast. The visitors arrived on Friday and have been the house guests of Mrs. Bond's cousin, Mrs. C. Ned Cadwallader, and Mr. Cadwallader.

Mrs. Bond, by the way, will be remembered as the former Ida Dodd, graduate of the University of Nebraska, where she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Saturday was a busy day for Mr. and Mrs Bond. Miss Ruby Waters was a luncheon hostess in their honor when she entertained at the Nebraska Center. On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Bond was complimented by Mrs W E. Sealock and her daughter, Miss Thelma Sealock, who were tea hostesses at their home. And on Saturday evening Mrs. Goldie Wilson entertained the visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Cadwallader and Mrs. Cadwallader's mother, Mrs. Britt Pryor at dinner at the Plaza.

There was another family dinner on Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Cadwallader as host and hostess at the Lincoln Country Club, and joining the family circle was Jim Cadwallader of Omaha.

It was a case of cook out, but dine in on Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Cadwallader had planned a patio party but—it rained. The festivities were something of surprise birthday celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Bond both of whom have May 29 as a birth date.

• • •

And this is the morning that Miss Joan Brown, daughter if Dr. and Mrs. John A. Brown, III, announces the attendants for her wedding.

Miss Brown has chosen Friday, June 11, for her marriage to Phillip Nelson, and the ceremony will be solemnized at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Church of the Holy Trinity, Episcopal.

The bride-elect's sister, Miss Brenda Brown, will be the maid of honor, and the two bridesmaids are Miss Angela Cessford of Edinburgh, Scotland, and Miss Nancy Nelson, sister of the bridegroom, of Newport Beach, Calif.

James Nelson will serve his brother as best man, and the groomsmen will be William Yungclas of Ames, Iowa, and Larry Long of Milwaukee, Wis.

PARTY for a summer bride-elect

One of the festive affairs on Sunday was the 10:30 o'clock brunch for which Miss Sue Skarda of Sioux Falls, S.D., and Miss Susan Cunningham were hostesses. The party honored Miss Marilyn Masters of Arcadia, Kappa Alpha Theta sister of the hostesses, whose marriage to Dennis Karnopp at the home of Miss Cun- of Lincoln will take place on Aug. 21.

The guest list was composed mainly of Kappa Alpha Theta sisters, and the bride-elect was presented with a miscellaneous shower.

NEWS of the suburban areas

The complaint heard from around the area concerns the last few rained-out weekends. The rain forced birthday party plans to be altered in Fiene Heights last weekend and several other cancellation cases were reported.

But the overcast skies did not dampen all activity; our fun-loving suburban residents report a variety of social events this morning.

FIENE HEIGHTS

Last Saturday was Matt Kushner's eighth birthday, and to mark his anniversary date, the celebrant's mother, Mrs. Gerald Kushner planned a party for 10 of Matt's friends. The party was to include a trip to the zoo, but rain forced the group to stay indoors. As a consequence movies replaced the tour through zoo-land. So then, those enjoying the movies, ice cream and cake were the guests, Kirk Keister, Larry Moser, Mick Schwartzman, Paul Chandler, Gary Tice, Holly Tice, the celebrant's cousins Mark and Mike Kushner and his brother, Martin and sister, Renay.

Neighbors and friends were busy bidding Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Wilson farewell last week Mr. and Mrs. Wilson moved on Friday to a new Lincoln location—834 So. 38th. Although the family has left the Fiene Heights neighborhood, it won't be hard to keep in touch with the pair as their move is but a short jaunt from their former residence.

As the Wilsons were busy moving furniture and other belongings around last week, Mrs. John Zimmer III tells us she was kept quite busy getting her young son John IV dressed and off to Romper Room each morning. John spent a glorious week on the well-known Lincoln show.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

It was just a matter of a few blocks again last week, when Mr. and Mrs. Sidney McCartney moved to a new home. Mr. and Mrs. McCartney chose 1916 Pace Blvd. for their new location.

Moving in across the street from Mr. and Mrs. McCartney were Capt. and Mrs. George Thompson formerly of Aurora, Colo. The two families chose to move on the same date to a similar location, but there were no mix-ups as to what belonged to whom or to which house the van should unload belongings.

We hear Capt. and Mrs. Thompson will not be with us very long because Capt. Thompson's duties will take the family to the Philippines in a few months. Capt. and Mrs. Thompson have three children, Scott, Drew and Teresa who are delighted to be in Lincoln because grandma and grandpa Sick live here. In case you're wondering now about Mrs. Thompson—she is the former Sandra Sick daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sick of Lincoln.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In just a few weeks my brother is getting married. He asked Dad to be his best man, and it doesn't sound proper to me Please give me your opinion. I would appreciate an answer in your column so he can see it, too. Thank you.

JANE

Dear Jane: It is entirely proper and I think a beautiful gesture on the part of your brother. In these days when diamonds are a girl's best friend, how refreshing for a man's best friend to be his Dad.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I have a pet peeve that sounds so petty and stupid that I am almost ashamed to mention it. It's people who come and sit down beside me on the piano bench while I'm playing. I don't know why this bothers me so much, but it does. Now you know, Abby, you can't tell someone to get up and go sit somewhere else without hurting their feelings. But it would be a big relief to me if I could get them to move in a nice inoffensive way. Any suggestions from you, or anyone who has solved this problem, would be greatly appreciated.

LOST CHORD

DEAR LOST: People want to sit beside you while you're playing because they're fascinated. Change your attitude and regard their presence as a compliment and it might be easier to bear. P.S. You might also change your piano bench for a piano stool.

☆ ☆ ☆

CONFIDENTIAL TO ROBERT: There's only one way to succeed. You've gotta wanta. And it's a do-it-yourself project all the way. You can't borrow the ambition. You can't borrow the perserverance. Nor can you borrow the self-confidence it takes to become a success. But above all, you've gotta wanta so passionately that nothing—and no one — can discourage you.

TALK

Learned all sorts of things on our trek around town this morning—For one thing, we discovered that Frank H. de Brown is a patient at Lincoln General Hospital. As a matter of fact Mr. de Brown has been hospitalized for the past two weeks.

* * *

Then we heard of some weekend guests for whom there were numerous courtesies—Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bond of Detroit, Mich., stopped in Lincoln en route to Detroit from a six weeks tour of the west coast. The visitors arrived on Friday and have been the house guests of Mrs. Bond's cousin, Mrs. C. Ned Cadwallader, and Mr. Cadwallader.

Mrs. Bond, by the way, will be remembered as the former Ida Dodd, graduate of the University of Nebraska, where she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Saturday was a busy day for Mr. and Mrs. Bond. Miss Ruby Waters was a luncheon hostess in their honor when she entertained at the Nebraska Center. On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Bond was complimented by Mrs. W. E. Sealock and her daughter, Miss Thelma Sealock, who were tea hostesses at their home. And on Saturday evening Mrs. Goldie Wilson entertained the visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Cadwallader and Mrs. Cadwallader's mother, Mrs. Britt Pryor at dinner at the Plaza.

There was another family dinner on Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Cadwallader as host and hostess at the Lincoln Country Club, and joining the family circle was Jim Cadwallader of Omaha.

It was a case of cook out, but dine in on Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Cadwallader had planned a patio party but—it rained. The festivities were something of surprise birthday celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Bond both of whom have May 29 as a birth date.

* * *

And this is the morning that Miss Joan Brown, daughter if Dr. and Mrs. John A. Brown, III, announces the attendants for her wedding.

Miss Brown has chosen Friday, June 11, for her marriage to Phillip Nelson, and the ceremony will be solemnized at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Church of the Holy Trinity, Episcopal.

The bride-elect's sister, Miss Brenda Brown, will be the maid of honor, and the two bridesmaids are Miss Angela Cessford of Edinburgh, Scotland, and Miss Nancy Nelson, sister of the bridegroom, of Newport Beach, Calif.

James Nelson will serve his brother as best man, and the groomsmen will be William Yungclas of Ames, Iowa, and Larry Long of Milwaukee, Wis.

PARTY for a summer bride-elect

One of the festive affairs on Sunday was the 10:30 o'clock brunch for which Miss Sue Skarda of Sioux Falls, S.D., and Miss Susan Cunningham were hostesses. The party honored Miss Marilyn Masters of Arcadia, Kappa Alpha Theta sister of the hostesses, whose marriage to Dennis Karnopp at the home of Miss Cunningham of Lincoln will take place on Aug. 21. The guest list was composed mainly of Kappa Alpha Theta sisters, and the bride-elect was presented with a miscellaneous shower. Pictured, left to right, are Miss Penny Swanson, Mrs. Merle Karnopp—mother of the bridegroom-elect; Miss Masters, Miss Skarda and Miss Cunningham.

NEWS of the suburban areas

The complaint heard from around the area concerns the last few rained-out weekends. The rain forced birthday party plans to be altered in Fiene Heights last weekend and several other cancellation cases were reported.

But the overcast skies did not dampen all activity; our fun-loving suburban residents report a variety of social events this morning.

FIENE HEIGHTS

Last Saturday was Matt Kushner's eighth birthday, and to mark his anniversary date, the celebrant's mother, Mrs. Gerald Kushner planned a party for 10 of Matt's friends. The party was to include a trip to the zoo, but rain forced the group to stay indoors. As a consequence movies replaced the tour through zoo-land. So then, those enjoying the movies, ice cream and cake were the guests, Kirk Keister, Larry Moser, Mick Schwartzman, Paul Chandler, Gary Tice, Holly Tice, the celebrant's cousins Mark and Mike Kushner and his brother, Martin and sister, Renay.

Neighbors and friends were busy bidding Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Wilson farewell last week Mr. and Mrs. Wilson moved on Friday to a new Lincoln location—834 So. 38th. Although the family has left the Fiene Heights neighborhood, it won't be hard to keep in touch with the pair as their move is but a short jaunt from their former residence.

As the Wilsons were busy moving furniture and other belongings around last week, Mrs. John Zimmer III tells us she was kept quite busy getting her young son John IV dressed and off to Romper Room each morning. John spent a glorious week on the well-known Lincoln show.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

It was just a matter of a few blocks again last week, when Mr. and Mrs. Sidney McCartney moved to a new home. Mr. and Mrs. McCartney chose 1916 Pace Blvd. for their new location.

Moving in across the street from Mr. and Mrs. McCartney were Capt. and Mrs. George Thompson formerly of Aurora, Colo. The two families chose to move on the same date to a similar location, but there were no mix-ups as to what belonged to whom or to which house the van should unload belongings.

We hear Capt. and Mrs. Thompson will not be with us very long because Capt. Thompson's duties will take the family to the Philippines in a few months. Capt. and Mrs. Thompson have three children, Scott, Drew and Teresa who are delighted to be in Lincoln because grandma and grandpa Sick live here. In case you're wondering now about Mrs. Thompson—she is the former Sandra Sick daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sick of Lincoln.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In just a few weeks my brother is getting married. He asked Dad to be his best man, and it doesn't sound proper to me. Please give me your opinion. I would appreciate an answer in your column so he can see it, too. Thank you.

JANE

Dear Jane: It is entirely proper and I think a beautiful gesture on the part of your brother. In these days when diamonds are a girl's best friend, how refreshing for a man's best friend to be his Dad.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I have a pet peeve that sounds so petty and stupid that I am almost ashamed to mention it. It's people who come and sit down beside me on the piano bench while I'm playing. I don't know why this bothers me so much, but it does. Now you know, Abby, you can't tell someone to get up and go sit somewhere else without hurting their feelings. But it would be a big relief to me if I could get them to move in a nice inoffensive way. Any suggestions from you, or anyone who has solved this problem, would be greatly appreciated.

LOST CHORD

DEAR LOST: People want to sit beside you while you're playing because they're fascinated. Change your attitude and regard their presence as a compliment and it might be easier to bear. P.S. You might also change your piano bench for a piano stool.

☆ ☆ ☆

CONFIDENTIAL TO ROBERT: There's only one way to succeed. You've gotta wanta. And it's a do-it-yourself project all the way. You can't borrow the ambition. You can't borrow the perserverance. Nor can you borrow the self-confidence it takes to become a success. But above all, you've gotta wanta so passionately that nothing—and no one — can discourage you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HELEN: Your husband is a "perfectionist." (He takes great pains and gives them to others.) Learn to live with him.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead — five of spades.

Let's say you're declarer at three notrump and West leads a spade. It seems normal to duck in dummy and win the ten with the queen, but, if you do this, you eventually go down one, assuming best defense.

East would win the first diamond lead and return a spade, and West would force out the ace and later get in with a diamond to defeat the contract one trick.

With proper play, though, you make the hand. The crucial decision comes right at the start, after you've ducked the spade in dummy and East plays the ten. The trick is to let East win the ten, even though this seems to be an unnatural thing to do.

Once you do this, the defense disintegrates. When East returns a spade, you still have the suit doubly stopped, and when you then play a diamond, East has no spade to return if he jumps up with the ace. The most he can do in that case is lead a club, but you take the ace and establish the diamonds to assure nine tricks.

If East allows his partner to win the first diamond lead, West can establish his spades all right, but he cannot then cash them until after South runs nine tricks.

It is true that the idea of ducking the spade at trick one would fail if it turned out that West had tht A-K of diamonds as well as long spades, but this possiblity is fairly remote. It is far more likely that the missing honors are divided 1-1 or that East has them both.

It is not really as abnormal as it looks to let East win the spade lead with the ten. It is dollars to doughnuts that West has the king when East fails to play it at trick one, and there is consequently no urgency about winning the first trick.

Late Spring Ceremony Solemnized

The wedding of Miss Marcille Lau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Croston of Kadoka, S.D., and Verlyn D. Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Turner of Angwin, Calif., took place Sunday afternoon, May 23, at Piedmont Park Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

Mrs. John Case attended the bride as matron of honor, and serving as best man was Dean Eastin. Seating the guests were John Case, Farrell Eastin and Larry Harden.

The bride chose for her wedding a gown of white lace and organza. Seed pearls and iridescent sequins patterned the lace of the bodice to highlight the sabrina neckline, and the organza skirt was complemented by a dust ruffle of the lace, and completed by Watteau panels of the organza extend[illegible] into a train. Her illusion veil was held by a cap of organza petals and pearlized blossoms.

Upon their return from a California wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Turner will live in Lincoln.

WHAT They're Reading

It was beginning to look as though "Herzog" never would leave the lead position for a lessor position on the best-seller list—but this week it happened.

After 31 weeks in the number one spot, "Herzog" now stands second to "Up the Down Staircase" on the fiction list.

"Herzog" is the conversational piece of the fiction list, while the non-fiction list boasts a newcomer "The Oxford History of the American People' by Samuel Eliot Morison, as its most talked about novel.

"The Oxford History of the American People," is described as the perfect one-volume history of America for the general reader. "It is a very personal history in which America's most distinguished historian presents his intellectual and literary legacy to his country," the book's publishers say.

Without neglecting political history, it contains more social history than any other book of similar size. It treats on popular sports and pastimes, developments in fine arts, deals with the revolution of sexual mores and pays particular attention to the American Indiana, according to critics.

And according to our unauthoritative opinion, the best-seller list has a new look this week which is quite interesting, but have a glimpse and decide for yourself.

Fiction

1. "Up the Down Staircase," Kaufman
2. "Herzog," Bellow
3. "The Ambassador," West
4. "Hotel," Hailey

6. "Funeral in Berlin," Deighton
7. "Hurry Sundown," Gilden
8. "The Man," Wallace
9. "An American Dream," Mailler
10. "The Flight of the Falcon," du Maurier

Non-Fiction

2. "Queen Victoria: Born to Succeed," Longford
3. "My Shadow Ran Fast," Sands
4. "The Founding Fathers," Whalen
5. "Journal of a Soul," Pope John XXIII

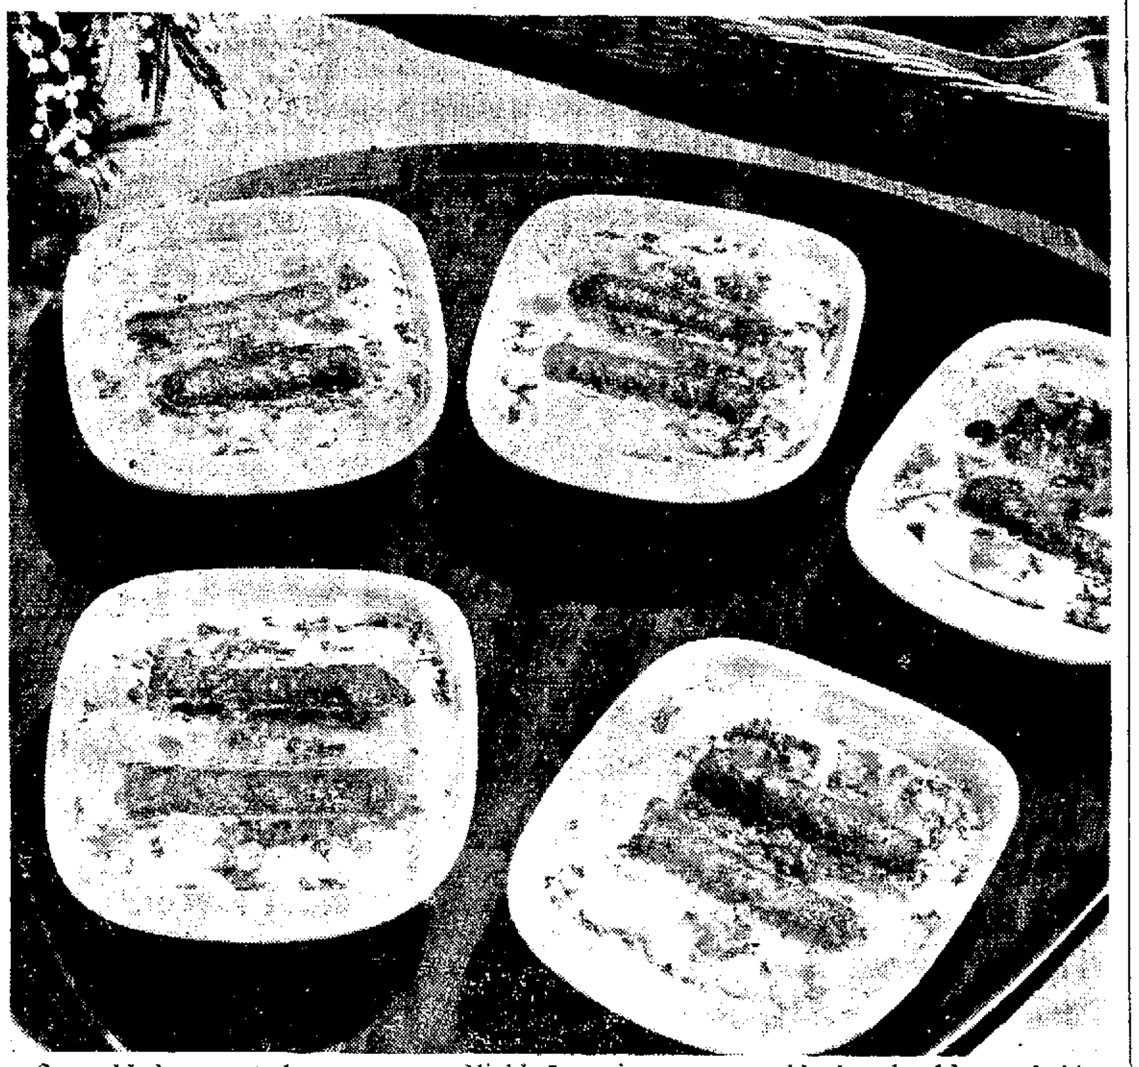
7. "The Italians," Barzini
8. "Reminiscences," MacArthur
9. "Catherine the Great," Oldenbourg
10. "Design for Survival," Power

FOOD
a delightful scramble



Scrambled eggs and sausage make a simple brunch dish without so much as a skillet to wash. The Brown 'N Serve Sausages are already cooked so they go right into the baking dishes with the eggs. Fresh chilled fruit and toast triangles along with a favorite beverage make this a memorable brunch for any day.

Yield: 5 servings

½	pound Brown 'N Serve Sausage Links
2	ounce can mushroom stems and pieces, drained
2	tablespoons chopped parsley
1	teaspoon salt
¼	teaspoon pepper
10	eggs, well beaten

Combine mushrooms, parsley, salt, and pepper with eggs. Pour into 5 individual shallow baking dishes. Place 2 sausage links in the center of each dish. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

Anniversary Party

Last Saturday evening was 'surprise' night for Mr. and Mrs. Glen Witt who were celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary. Their sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Boldry and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Aksamit, entertained members of the family and a group of friends at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boldry.

Perhaps we should add that the party was intended as a surprise, but one of the young grandchildren was so enthusiastic about the pretty cake that keeping the secret was too difficult. The word was passed on to Mrs. Witt.

Out of town guests at the affair included Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Barta of Western, and Mr. and Mrs. William Nickel of Wilber.

Anniversary Party

Last Saturday evening was 'surprise' night for Mr. and Mrs. Glen Witt who were celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary. Their sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Boldry and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Aksamit, entertained members of the family and a group of friends at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boldry.

Perhaps we should add that the party was intended as a surprise, but one of the young grandchildren was so enthusiastic about the pretty cake that keeping the secret was too difficult. The word was passed on to Mrs. Witt.

Out of town guests at the affair included Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Barta of Western, and Mr. and Mrs. William Nickel of Wilber.

Establishment Of Callen Lectureship Is Announced

Creation of the E Glenn Callen Lectureship was announced Monday at Nebraska Wesleyan University's commencement.

The lectureship was a compromise solution to establishing a memorial to recognize the many years of service by the late Dr Callen professor of political science and sociology. Dr Callen died last summer.

Students had backed a plan to name a dormitory on campus after Callen and original plans by Nebraska Wesleyan officials had called for creation of a chair of political science.

Prof. Joseph Csaba, a member of the faculty of the University of Budapest, Hungary, will be the first E. Glenn Callen lecturer.

In clinical tests of new M.P.O.—an advanced treatment for hemorrhoids (piles)—doctors reported "results were good to excellent" for 5 out of every 6 patients! M.P O. works five ways for faster, longer-lasting relief:

1. Helps ease pain faster. You get more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients, including Benzocaine, than in the preparation you may now be using.

2. Helps shrink swollen tissues. M P.O. quickly releases the proven vaso-constrictor, Ephedrine Sulfate, to reduce swelling.

3. Relieves embarrassing itch. M.P O. is homogenized for faster absorption, faster relief.

4. Gives longer relief. A more temperature-stable base holds medication in place, prolongs relief-bringing action.

5. Fights danger of infection. Proven germ-killer Hexachlorophene combats bacteria.

M.P.O. is a development of Mentholatum Laboratories. Available in stainless ointment or suppositories at all drug counters.

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. Syas, Pedersen Hit Junior College Aid

Two Omaha senators Monday expressed opposition to a bill to provide state aid to junior colleges and municipal universities as debate opened on LB786.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and co-signed by six other senators, would provide state assistance amounting to $75 per Nebraska resident student per semester.

Total cost has been pegged at about $1 5 million for the biennium

Affected would be junior colleges at McCook Scottsbluff, Norfolk and Fairbury and Omaha University A new junior college is now being formed at North Platte and would also become eligible for aid.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha said junior colleges would not need assistance if they did not subsidize students from outside their school dis s

Total subsidy at the four institutions amounts to $248.-000 a year, he said Omaha University charges full costs for non-resident students he noted

If junior colleges are to receive state assistance, Syas suggested, it should be "taken out of the University of Nebraska operating budget"

Under a bill previously approved by the Legislature, NU may acquire the facilities of any junior college upon mutual agreement and within legislative appropriations

Sen. Henry Pedersen Jr of Omaha said cost of LB786 is too great to be borne in the coming biennium

Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth suggested that Omaha University be lifted from the bill if Omaha senators do not wish state assistance.

LB786 also provides that rates for junior colleges be established by the State Board of Education, and requires legislative approval before local elections may be called to establish new junior colleges.

Aid for Omaha University would be confined to resident students in the freshman and sophomore classes

Earmarking Opposed By Tax Council

The Nebraska Tax Research Council said Monday "it is extremely difficult to comprehend the reasoning" of the Legislature in earmarking $600,000 in state revenue for a new Game Commission building

It referred to the Legislature's decision to set out the money for the commission in the state office building levy bill, LB891.

The council said it opposes earmarking of funds in general but that the Legislature approved this particular allocation with very little discussion "

Earmarikng of funds, it said, prevent the best use of state money.

Dedications

"Some agencies may receive more than they need from dedications, while agencies without dedicated funds have to compete for available funds," the council, a private research organization, said in its weekly legislative report

On another subject, the council cited the pros and cons of annual sessions of the Legislature as proposed by the Labor Committee.

It said that chances of shortening the regular biennial session through an even-numbered year budget session are slight Legislative costs would increase and agencies would have less time to prepare budget requests, the council said

Bright Side

On the bright side, though the council said "it seems clear that improvements would result" through annual sessions. The Legislature and its memebrs would be exposed to more accurate facts on budget requests, it said.

"The budgetary system has been greatly improved and in this session is based on more presentable facts than at any time in the past," the council said.

"The question is therefore, whether the present biennial system should be continued and improved or whether greater good can come from annual budget presentation"

The bill proposing annual sessions provides for a constitutional amendment It will be heard by the urban affairs committee Wednesday.

Panel OKs Vocational School Bill

The Education Committee Monday approved and sent to the floor of the Legislature a bill calling for a unified state system of vocational-technical schools

LB482 introduced by Lincoln Sen Fern Hubbard Orme was advanced from committee on a 5-2 vote

The committee also approved LB258, a proposed constitutional amendment to establish a board of trustees of higher education that would replace the University of Nebraska Board of Regents and the State Normal Board, governing body of the four state colleges.

If LB258 is approved by the Legislature the proposal would be submitted to Nebraska voters in the November 1966 election

The bill was voted from committee 7-0 As amended, it would allow the 1967 legislature to determine the number of board members their terms and the districts from which they would be chosen

LB482 does not specify any number of vocational-technical schools or where they should be built.

The bill is primarily a statement of intent to show that the Legislature plans to establish a state-operated trade school system

A bill calling for a state trade school at Sidney escaped being killed by one vote LB176 is one of several bills being held by the committee that call for state trade schools at specific locations

JOURNAL-STAR WANT ADS BRING RESULTS—477-8902

You'll probably be on the road over Memorial Day. So here are some suggestions to make your trip more enjoyable.

These tips from the people at the GM Proving Grounds in Michigan and Arizona aren't an all-inclusive course in safe driving, but rather some extra guidelines. Insights that have been arrived at in over 300,000,000 miles of test driving.

First, have your car safety-checked. Make sure everything is working just right. If not, have it taken care of before you leave.

Next plan to stick to the freeways as much as possible. Even though those back road short cuts seem a good idea, you may find out a lot of other people had the same idea. Besides, our own testing on all kinds of roads proves today's modern highways—with limited access rights of way, generally easier curves and hills—are safer as well as faster.

Driving and scolding don't mix

If you have youngsters, decide in advance which of you is going to be the driver and which is going to be the disciplinarian. From driving with our families and from driving with test equipment, we know the value of letting the driver keep his full attention on the road. If that calls for rearranging your usual seating, do it. It can be worth it. And let the one who's not driving be the navigator, too.

Drive defensively

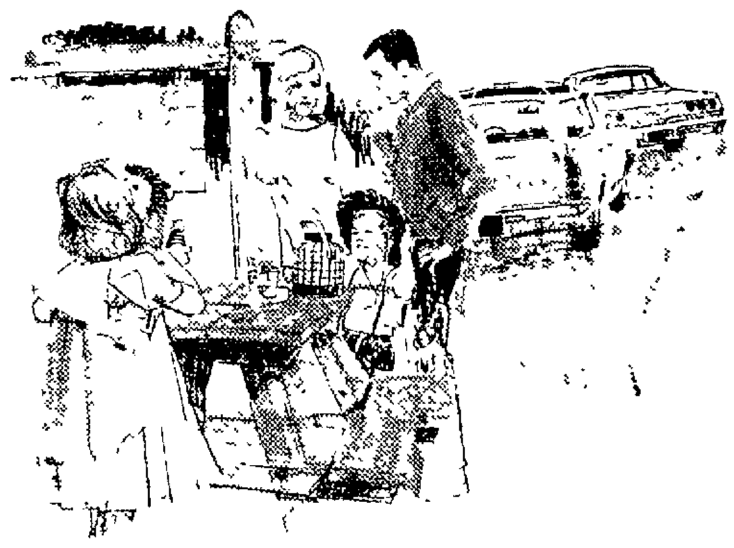
On the highways, keep in mind what you'd do if the "other guy" does something wrong. Use your turn signals. Watch for conditions at least a half mile or more ahead. (With practice, you can learn to "look through" the cars ahead of you.) Include your rearview mirror in the regular sweep of your eyes, and keep your eyes moving.

A special tip about passing: Before you pull out, look for some indication that the driver in front has seen your signal—like his slowing down or moving slightly to the right.

Use those seat belts

The first thing to do behind the wheel is buckle up those seat belts. As you drive, grip the rim of the steering wheel instead of the spokes. Many of our drivers vary the grip every so often, for less fatigue.

We tell our drivers who drive alone to keep the radio on—and switch stations now and then. A variety of programs will help you fight drowsiness. Take time off, too—at least once every two hours, and oftener at night.



Now about speed. You know that if you drive like there's no tomorrow, there very likely won't be. But, beyond that, it's good to keep in mind what our test drivers keep in mind: Adjust your speed not only to the posted limit, but to road conditions, too. Cut it down if it's wet, if the highway is crowded, and at night.

The most important thing

He can make all the difference in the world.

We hope these suggestions will help make your trip more pleasant. And your Memorial Day holiday the most enjoyable you've had in years.

Syas, Pedersen Hit Junior College Aid

Two Omaha senators Monday expressed opposition to a bill to provide state aid to junior colleges and municipal universities as debate opened on LB786.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and co-signed by six other senators, would provide state assistance amounting to $75 per Nebraska resident student per semester.

Total cost has been pegged at about $1.5 million for the biennium.

Affected would be junior colleges at McCook, Scottsbluff, Norfolk and Fairbury and Omaha University. A new junior college is now being formed at North Platte, and would also become eligible for aid.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha said junior colleges would not need assistance if they did not subsidize students from outside their school districts.

Total subsidy at the four institutions amounts to $248,000 a year, he said. Omaha University charges full costs for non-resident students, he noted.

If junior colleges are to receive state assistance, Syas suggested, it should be "taken out of the University of Nebraska operating budget."

Under a bill previously approved by the Legislature, NU may acquire the facilities of any junior college upon mutual agreement and within legislative appropriations.

Sen. Henry Pedersen Jr. of Omaha said cost of LB786 is too great to be borne in the coming biennium.

Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth suggested that Omaha University be lifted from the bill if Omaha senators do not wish state assistance.

LB786 also provides that rates for junior colleges be established by the State Board of Education, and requires legislative approval before local elections may be called to establish new junior colleges.

Earmarking Opposed By Tax Council

The Nebraska Tax Research Council said Monday "it is extremely difficult to comprehend the reasoning" of the Legislature in earmarking $600,000 in state revenue for a new Game Commission building.

It referred to the Legislature's decision to set out the money for the commission in the state office building levy bill, LB891.

The council said it opposes earmarking of funds in general, but that the Legislature approved this particular allocation "with very little discussion."

Earmarikng of funds, it said, prevent the best use of state money.

Dedications

"Some agencies may receive more than they need from dedications, while agencies without dedicated funds have to compete for available funds," the council, a private research organization, said in its weekly legislative report.

On another subject, the council cited the pros and cons of annual sessions of the Legislature as proposed by the Labor Committee.

It said that chances of shortening the regular biennial session through an even-numbered year budget session are slight. Legislative costs would increase and agencies would have less time to prepare budget requests, the council said.

Bright Side

On the bright side, though, the council said "it seems clear that improvements would result" through annual sessions. The Legislature and its memebrs would be exposed to more accurate facts on budget requests, it said.

"The budgetary system has been greatly improved and in this session is based on more presentable facts than at any time in the past," the council said.

"The question is therefore, whether the present biennial system should be continued and improved or whether greater good can come from annual budget presentation."

Damage Suit Is Filed In District Court For Crash

Kenneth M. Brown filed a $45,000 damage suit in Lancaster District Court Monday against Michael J. and Vernon D. Haynes in connection with a Sept. 6, 1963, two-car collision.

Brown alleges negligence on the part of Michael Haynes, driver of the car, and his father, Vernon Haynes, owner of the car, which was in collision with the Brown vehicle at the Fremont and Touzalin intersection.

Message By Morrison Set For Tuesday

Gov. Frank Morrison will address the Legislature Tuesday morning, his administrative assistant, Gene Budig, announced Monday.

Budig said the governor would touch on the following topics: state office building, agricultural research, taxation, state aid to education, and state governmental reorganization.

This will be the second time the governor has appeared before the Unicameral since he delivered his budget message in January.

Gov. Morrison two weeks ago successfully urge revival of a bill for a commission on aging which had been killed by committee.

One of the matters the governor could cover Tuesday is LB797, Lincoln Sen. Hal Bauer's flat-rate income tax bill.

Panel OKs Vocational School Bill

The Education Committee Monday approved and sent to the floor of the Legislature a bill calling for a unified state system of vocational-technical schools.

LB482, introduced by Lincoln Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme, was advanced from committee on a 5-2 vote.

The committee also approved LB258, a proposed constitutional amendment to establish a board of trustees of higher education that would replace the University of Nebraska Board of Regents and the State Normal Board, governing body of the four state colleges.

If LB258 is approved by the Legislature, the proposal would be submitted to Nebraska voters in the November, 1966, election.

The bill was voted from committee 7-0. As amended, it would allow the 1967 legislature to determine the number of board members, their terms and the districts from which they would be chosen.

LB482 does not specify any number of vocational-technical schools or where they should be built.

The bill is primarily a statement of intent to show that the Legislature plans to establish a state-operated trade school system.

A bill calling for a state trade school at Sidney escaped being killed by one vote. LB176 is one of several bills being held by the committee that call for state trade schools at specific locations.

You'll probably be on the road over Memorial Day. So here are some suggestions to make your trip more enjoyable.

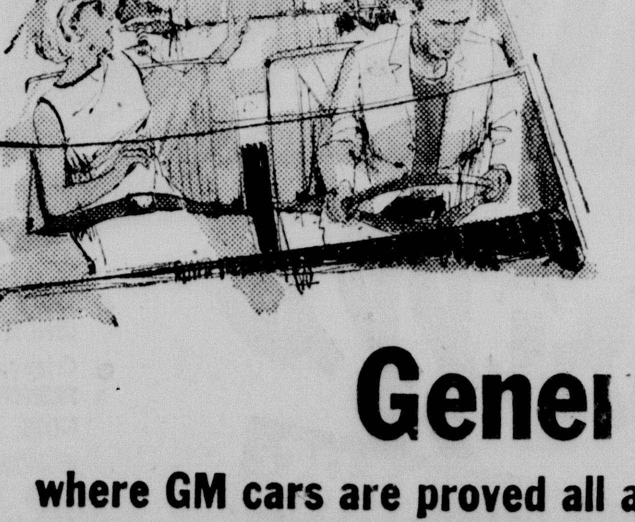
These tips from the people at the GM Proving Grounds in Michigan and Arizona aren't an all-inclusive course in safe driving, but rather some extra guidelines. Insights that have been arrived at in over 300,000,000 miles of test driving.

First, have your car safety-checked. Make sure everything is working just right. If not, have it taken care of before you leave.

Next plan to stick to the freeways as much as possible. Even though those back road short cuts seem a good idea, you may find out a lot of other people had the same idea. Besides, our own testing on all kinds of roads proves today's modern highways—with limited access rights of way, generally easier curves and hills—are safer as well as faster.

Driving and scolding don't mix

If you have youngsters, decide in advance which of you is going to be the driver and which is going to be the disciplinarian. From driving with our families and from driving with test equipment, we know the value of letting the driver keep his full attention on the road. If that calls for rearranging your usual seating, do it. It can be worth it. And let the one who's not driving be the navigator, too.



Drive defensively

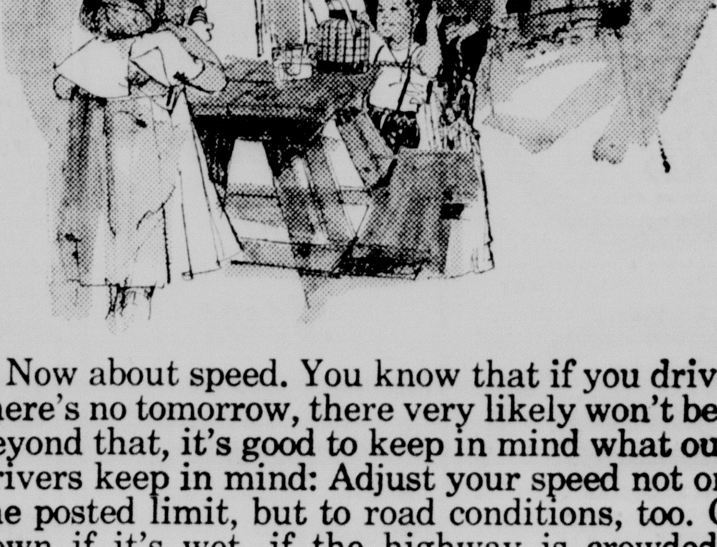
On the highways, keep in mind what you'd do if the "other guy" does something wrong. Use your turn signals. Watch for conditions at least a half mile or more ahead. (With practice, you can learn to "look through" the cars ahead of you.) Include your rear-view mirror in the regular sweep of your eyes, and keep your eyes moving.

A special tip about passing: Before you pull out, look for some indication that the driver in front has seen your signal—like his slowing down or moving slightly to the right.

Use those seat belts

The first thing to do behind the wheel is buckle up those seat belts. As you drive, grip the rim of the steering wheel instead of the spokes. Many of our drivers vary the grip every so often, for less fatigue.

We tell our drivers who drive alone to keep the radio on—and switch stations now and then. A variety of programs will help you fight drowsiness. Take time off, too—at least once every two hours, and oftener at night.



Now about speed. You know that if you drive like there's no tomorrow, there very likely won't be. But, beyond that, it's good to keep in mind what our test drivers keep in mind: Adjust your speed not only to the posted limit, but to road conditions, too. Cut it down if it's wet, if the highway is crowded, and at night.

The most important thing

But, remember, the single most important factor in driving safety is still the one that can't be built in any factory: the driver himself.

He can make all the difference in the world.

We hope these suggestions will help make your trip more pleasant. And your Memorial Day holiday the most enjoyable you've had in years.

Road Study Should Seek Ways To Get Better Results

. . . FROM THE SAME AMOUNT OF REVENUE

Agreement was voiced Monday at a meeting of the State Highway Advisory Commission that the proposed study of Nebraska's highway system and needs should be directed at achieving greater results from the same revenue especially at the county level.

The Legislature recently adopted a resolution calling for a $300,000 Legislative Council interim study of the highway system and allocation of funds.

Commission Chairman J. R. McBride of Minden said that with 40% of the road funds going to local subdivisions, the state needs to exercise more control over the money's use at the local level

State-County Funds

McBride said that a state-county matching fund system, similar to the state-federal sytem, might be considered as a solution to obtaining more effective use of the money that is used by subdivisions.

Another suggestion McBride made was that a division of the State Highway Department be established to provide engineering assistance to the counties.

McBride said that sometimes the money is not spent too wisely by the subdivisions, especially in rural areas, where many times there is no hired full-time engineer.

He suggested that requirements be set for local spending.

McBride said it was his feeling that the people of the state are providing as much money as they want to for highways, and that the state highway system must be built to fit the finances.

Definition

Commission member Daniel Ramsey of Scottsbluff called for a functional definition of all roads in the state, which then should be classified under the proper authority for administration

Ramsey suggested that perhaps the state road system is too large

He said that Colorado with two million people has about 5,000 miles in its state road system, while Nebraska with 1.4 million persons has about 9,600 miles in its road system.

Ramsey said if the state had an east-west road every 35 miles and a north-south road every 35, the state would have a road system of 4 500 miles.

He contended the state doesn't really have enough money to maintain at state standards a state road system of its present size.

Ralph Hanks of Lincoln said that the state has too much of a patchwork system.

Cut Patchwork

Hanks said if the state could cut down on the patchwork maybe it could devote more to cutting down the miles of gravel road.

He said more hard-surfaced roads are needed by the state's small towns.

Kirk Mendenhall of North Platte said the state system might be half as big.

McBride said the commission continues to receive tremendous pressure to add road to the state system. He said perhaps the answer to this is to create another category of state roads.

He said the quality of maintenance might be somewhere between the quality of maintenance of the county roads and the state roads.

Several commission members expressed the need for studying the degree of access control needed, allowing for flexibility and industrial development and review by the commission.

Two Highway Relocations Are Approved

The State Highway Advisory Commission Monday approved two state highway relocations.

One is the straightening of Nebraska Highway 8 east of Steele City

The other is the relocation of Nebraska 70 between Westerville and Arcadia, one-half mile north of its present location.

Decisions on the proposed relocations of Nebraska 15 south of Dorchester and Nebraska 41 east of Milligan were held over to the next commission meeting.

Controlled access was approved for an intersection on U.S. 385 between Alliance and Hemingford, and on Nebraska 64 east of Elkhorn.

In other discussion, Thane Davis of Hyannis suggested that consideration be given to providing marking for a Nebraska 2 bypass route at Grand Island, using the U.S. 281 bypass west of the city. It was suggested also that a city route designation could be provided in this event.

Marvel: Senators Should Specify Their Reductions

Budget Committee Chairman Richard D. Marvel said Monday senators seeking reductions in the major budget bill should zero in on specific programs and not push for an across-the-board cut.

He spoke out as the Legislature deferred further action on LB889, the institutions-welfare-education appropriations bill.

Omaha Sen. Henry F. Pedersen Jr. has pending a motion to cut the allocation by 4%, or $4.2 million.

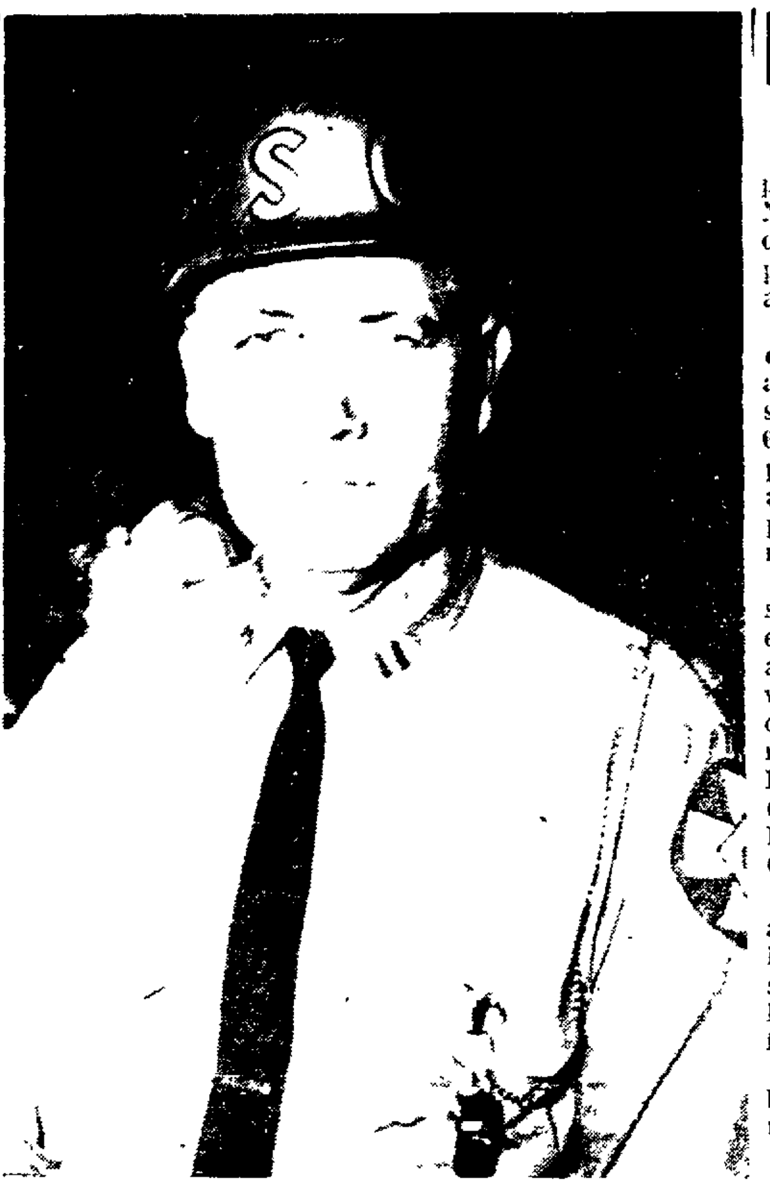
Marvel said if Pedersen's action is approved, the Beatrice State Home would receive less money. He noted that the Omahan battled to get an additional appropriation for that institution during initial discussion of the budget bill.

Marvel said he will not campaign against a cut in the budget.

Railway Panel To Consider Rates

Lincoln (AP)—The State Railway Commission Monday announced plans to hold a hearing on the matter of fixing general rates and charges for grain warehouses.

The hearing was set for June 18 in the state capitol.



EX-MARINE A KLANSMAN

During the week, Raymond Cranford, 44, is a farmer in the heart of North Carolina's tobacco country. He spent 12 years in the Marine Corps and won four Purple Hearts. Now he is a security guard with the United Klans of America Why? "Because I'm a white man," he says. "I don't believe in mixing the races."

Senators Reject Rewrite Proposal

Washington (AP)—The Senate rejected Monday an amendment by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., to rewrite key sections of the voting-rights bill urged by President Johnson.

The vote was 49 to 29. Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., voted with the minority; Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., was also paired for it.

Disposing of this amendment apparently cleared the way for Tuesday's showdown on a leadership attempt to cut off the debate which started April 22. The leaders' objective is to pass the measure this week or next.

A GOP champion of the administration bill predicted proponents will rally the required two-thirds margin to invoke cloture.

Arguing that the administration measure is of doubtful constitutionality, Tower said, "We are running a grave risk of passing a bill the courts will wipe out."

His amendment would have provided for the appointment of federal registrars in any county from which the attorney general certified he had received 25 or more complaints of denial of the right to register and vote on account of race or color.

The federal officials would have been required to register voters in accordance with state qualification laws except that a person with a 6th grade education would not have had to pass a literacy test.

The administration measure, in contrast, provides for the suspension of literacy and similar voter qualification tests and the appointment of federal registrars in five Southern states and parts of two others.

It applies automatically to a state, or a political subdivision within a state, with a nonwhite population of at least 20% if less than 50% of its adults were registered or voted last November and if it used a literacy test to qualify voters.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Republican leader from Illinois but a major architect of the administration measure, splke confidently of the leaders' ability to muster the votes which would limit each senator to one hour of voting-rights talk before the final roll call.

An Associated Press survey indicated a bloc of undecided or undcelared Republicans holds the key to cloture.

Beatrice Council 'Pops Cork'

Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — The cork was popped by the City Council Monday night from a 27-year-old policy which had limited packaged liquor licenses to a total of eight for the town.

Approved on a 4-3 vote after an hour's discussion was an application for new liquor store on Highway 77 (1827 No. 6th St.) The side-stepping of precedent was acknowledged as a policy change — and promptly attacked by opponents as "an open door."

Attorney John Elliot, representing present liquor dealers, had predicted "10 more applications in the next two weeks, if you accept this one." Also objecting were two ministers, the Rev. Kermin Heise of Centenary Methodist Church and the Rev. Ronald Erickson of First Baptist Church

Co-owner Elmer E. Kasper and his attorney Dean Dalke, had cited the city's growth since the 1938 limiting resolution as their main argument for opening.

Kasper, whose partner will be Francis J. Moles, both in the liquor store and a sporting goods business, said Beatrice has 1,516 persons for each license now and is rapidly expanding.

Elliot countered that," The publics' needs are being met," and urged long study before any change.

At one point, the council voted 4-2 to postpone the decision a week, then rescinded the action when it became apparent no quorum would be present. Councilman William Waddell has pressed for the tabling to give other license prospects time to show their interest.

Ray Elwood made the motion to approve the license request, and was joined in voting by Harry Milke Paul Kollekowsky and Waddell. Against were Millard Henderson Rex Lutz and Eldon Gerdes The recommendation will now go to the State Liquor Commission

The store will be one of five businesses, including a bowling alley, housed in one building. Construction is already underway.

In other action, two firms submitted base bids ($361,000) which were apparent low for a five-million gallon underground reservoir and pump station at 4th and Grant. A decision between Piedmont Const. Co. of Lincoln and Walters, Kershaw and Morgan Co. of Manhatten, Kan., will hinge upon alternate proposals.

Roberts Const. Co. of Lincoln was apparent low bidder of seven firms on paving districts 177-182. The 65 blocks of improvement prompted a bid of $248,347—well below the engineer's estimate of $331.300.

An emergency appropriation of $47 500 was authorized, 6 0, to start work immediately on remodeling the city auditorium for the fire department's occupancy

The council also

Passed on first reading by 4-3 vote ordinance to vacate west half of Darwin St. between [illegible] and [illegible] and permit land to revert to adjoining property owners.

Granted permission to Robert Ballard for removal of tree at [illegible] East Court Car Wash.

Approved plans for gravel district 13 and voted to advertise for bids.

Approved plans for water district 60 and voted to advertise for bids.

Decisions on the proposed relocations of Nebraska 15 south of Dorchester and Nebraska 41 east of Milligan were held over to the next commission meeting.

Controlled access was approved for an intersection on U.S. 385 between Alliance and Hemingford, and on Nebraska 64 east of Elkhorn.

In other discussion, Thane Davis of Hyannis suggested that consideration be given to providing marking for a Nebraska 2 bypass route at Grand Island, using the U.S. 281 bypass west of the city. It was suggested also that a city route designation could be provided in this event.

Marvel: Senators Should Specify Their Reductions

Budget Committee Chairman Richard D. Marvel said Monday senators seeking reductions in the major budget bill should zero in on specific programs and not push for an across-the-board cut.

He spoke out as the Legislature deferred further action on LB889, the institutions-welfare-education appropriations bill.

Omaha Sen. Henry F. Pedersen Jr. has pending a motion to cut the allocation by 4%, or $4.2 million.

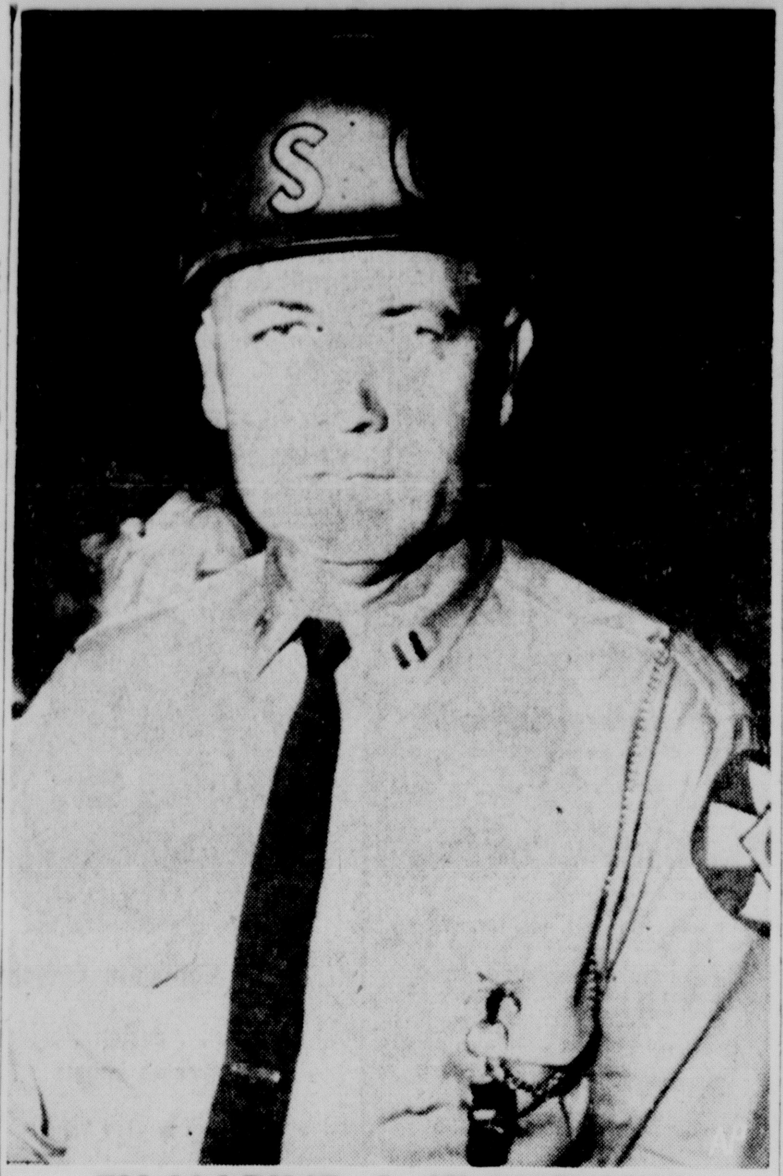
Marvel said if Pedersen's action is approved, the Beatrice State Home would receive less money. He noted that the Omahan battled to get an additional appropriation for that institution during initial discussion of the budget bill.

Marvel said he will not campaign against a cut in the budget.

Railway Panel To Consider Rates

Lincoln (AP)—The State Railway Commission Monday announced plans to hold a hearing on the matter of fixing general rates and charges for grain warehouses.

The hearing was set for June 18 in the state capitol.



EX-MARINE A KLANSMAN

During the week, Raymond Cranford, 44, is a farmer in the heart of North Carolina's tobacco country. He spent 12 years in the Marine Corps and won four Purple Hearts. Now he is a security guard with the United Klans of America. Why? "Because I'm a white man," he says. "I don't believe in mixing the races."

Senators Reject Rewrite Proposal

Washington (AP)—The Senate rejected Monday an amendment by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., to rewrite key sections of the voting-rights bill urged by President Johnson.

The vote was 49 to 29. Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., voted with the minority; Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., was also paired for it.

Disposing of this amendment apparently cleared the way for Tuesday's showdown on a leadership attempt to cut off the debate which started April 22. The leaders' objective is to pass the measure this week or next.

A GOP champion of the administration bill predicted proponents will rally the required two-thirds margin to invoke cloture.

Arguing that the administration measure is of doubtful constitutionality, Tower said, "We are running a grave risk of passing a bill the courts will wipe out."

His amendment would have provided for the appointment of federal registrars in any county from which the attorney general certified he had received 25 or more complaints of denial of the right to register and vote on account of race or color.

The federal officials would have been required to register voters in accordance with state qualification laws except that a person with a 6th grade education would not have had to pass a literacy test.

The administration measure, in contrast, provides for the suspension of literacy and similar voter qualification tests and the appointment of federal registrars in five Southern states and parts of two others.

It applies automatically to a state, or a political subdivision within a state, with a nonwhite population of at least 20% if less than 50% of its adults were registered or voted last November and if it used a literacy test to qualify voters.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Republican leader from Illinois but a major architect of the administration measure, splke confidently of the leaders' ability to muster the votes which would limit each senator to one hour of voting-rights talk before the final roll call.

An Associated Press survey indicated a bloc of undecided or undcelared Republicans holds the key to cloture.

Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — The cork was popped by the City Council Monday night from a 27-year-old policy which had limited packaged liquor licenses to a total of eight for the town.

Approved on a 4-3 vote after an hour's discussion was an application for new liquor store on Highway 77 (1827 No. 6th St.) The side-stepping of precedent was acknowledged as a policy change — and promptly attacked by opponents as "an open door."

Attorney John Elliot, representing present liquor dealers, had predicted "10 more applications in the next two weeks, if you accept this one." Also objecting were two ministers, the Rev. Kermin Heise of Centenary Methodist Church and the Rev. Ronald Erickson of First Baptist Church.

Co-owner Elmer E. Kasper and his attorney Dean Dalke, had cited the city's growth since the 1938 limiting resolution as their main argument for opening.

Kasper, whose partner will be Francis J. Moles, both in the liquor store and a sporting goods business, said Beatrice has 1,516 persons for each license now and is rapidly expanding.

Elliot countered that," The publics' needs are being met," and urged long study before any change.

At one point, the council voted 4-2 to postpone the decision a week, then rescinded the action when it became apparent no quorum would be present. Councilman William Waddell has pressed for the tabling to give other license prospects time to show their interest.

Ray Elwood made the motion to approve the license request, and was joined in voting by Harry Milke, Paul Kollekowsky and Waddell. Against were Millard Henderson, Rex Lutz and Eldon Gerdes. The recommendation will now go to the State Liquor Commission.

The store will be one of five businesses, including a bowling alley, housed in one building. Construction is already underway.

In other action, two firms submitted base bids ($361,000) which were apparent low for a five-million gallon underground reservoir and pump station at 4th and Grant. A decision between Piedmont Const. Co. of Lincoln and Walters, Kershaw and Morgan Co. of Manhatten, Kan., will hinge upon alternate proposals.

Roberts Const. Co. of Lincoln was apparent low bidder of seven firms on paving districts 177-182. The 65 blocks of improvement prompted a bid of $248,347—well below the engineer's estimate of $331,300.

An emergency appropriation of $47,500 was authorized, 6-0, to start work immediately on remodeling the city auditorium for the fire department's occupancy.

The council also:

Placed on first reading by 4-3 vote ordinance to vacate west half of Darwin St. between 16th and 17th and permit land to revert to adjoining property owners.

Granted permission to Robert Barnard for removal of tree at 1845 East Court Car Wash.

Approved plans for water district 80 and voted to advertise for bids.

The weather, the day's news and today's program of the dolce vita is slipped under the cabin door each morning.

The mid-Atlantic weather at eight this AM is 64 degrees.

News: A Canadian blonde contesses she tried to blow up the Statue of Liberty, the Liberty Bell and the Washington Monument.

The dolce vita: The Captain's Dinner will be served this evening—a swinging social event for all hands and ladies are fighting for appointments in the beauty salon.

The movie Goldfinger will be shown matinee and evening in the ship's widescreen theater. Agent 007 will win. But he gets his lumps while doing so.

The new Italian Lines Michelangelo is rocked in the cradle of the deep. Her 43,000 tons are kept from rocking too much by retractible denny-brown stabilizers.

It is a champagne day. The sun sparkles with instant diamonds on the sky blue ocean.

On the sundeck the bikini set are stretched prone, straps undone to get that no line tan.

And down in the valet ship formal gowns are being pressed in clouds of steam. For tonight everybody will be dressed to the nines.

In the Lido Bar—(overlooking the bikinis)—the morning eye openers are opening each eye separately with bloody marys. Tomato juice for the vitamins, vodka for the fuel.

On the stern the morning sport are shooting keet, shotguns popping faintly as the ship outruns the sound.

In a deck chair, swathed in blankets and hidden behind dark glasses, the Italian movie starlet gives the impression that she seeks anonymity. And of course stands out like a sore thumb.

Let's not be catty. Maybe she does want to be alone. But why keep flapping the blanket to expose all that pizza pie?

The handsome young fellow who squires the lady with the Otis face lift is standing at the rail, the wind ruffling the Via Condotti silk scarf at his throat.

The lady is browning in the deck chair. She sent the bouillon back so they could slip a stick of vodka in it.

The Frenchman with the Ronald Coleman moustache has latched onto the widow from Dallas. (Her clothes have been assayed by the ladies aboard. The consensus: she's loaded).

We have the type with the pipe. The brisk deck walkers. The done thin Italian models who did the fashion show. The spaghetti fed mamas who lie on deck pads, their ghighs bouncing like jelly as they catch the propellers' vibration.

☆ ☆ ☆

This is the Michelangelo's maiden voyage, a proud moment in the hundred and twenty-eight year old history of Italian Lines. (The sixty million dollar sister ship Raffaello goes into service next month).

For seven days of such dolce vita, first class passengers pay a hundred dollars a day from Genoa to New York.

On the run she can carry 1700 people — two thirds in cabin and tourist class, however at a good deal less money. Carries 300 pounds of caviar. Enough champagne to float the ship itself. And enough dolce vita to talk about the rest of your sweet life.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

Credit for decorating the first Christmas tree in America is generally given to a group of Hessian soldiers hired by King George III to fight the colonists

Peat cutters in Denmark uncovered men preserved for 2,000 years in bogs. The skin hair fingernails cellular and muscular structure of the bodies were untouched by time. One man, probably hanged as a religious sacrifice still wore a leather cap, belt and braided rope around his neck

The poinsettia unlike such ancient Christmas symbols as holly and mistletoe originated in tropical America. Joel Robert Poinsett U.S. Minister to Mexico in 1825 so admired the wild plant that he brought the first specimens to the United States

Even though coffee originated in the Near East, the Arabs once persecuted people who drank it. The refreshment was then known as an "infidel drink."

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. SPORT SIGNALS

* * *

By Hal Brown

Sports Editor, The Star

Full-Sized Package

Fans attending the closed circuit telecast at Pershing Auditorium of tonight's heavyweight championship fight between champion Cassius Clay and challenger Sonny Liston likely will get a full offering of entertainment.

Those who prefer to watch The Untouchables can get their thrills from the horde of gendarmes assigned to the fight in case someone decides to take a potshot at at Cassius.

And those who prefer to watch from the sports fans' angle will see what is still one of the greatest attractions in sports.

Still Major Spectacle

Despite the troubles boxing is having and the unusual circumstances that surrounded the first meeting in Miami Beach between Clay and Liston, a heavyweight championship bout still arouses interest that is found elsewhere only in the World Series, the Indianapolis 500 and the Masters and U.S. Open golf tournaments.

The fact that the fight must be held in Lewiston, Me., with an auditorium that seats hardly half of what could be seated at Pershing Auditorium is unfortunate.

But boxing could hardly stand another postponement since the championship bout had been postponed originally when Clay came down with a hernia.

When the fight was banned in Boston, the promoters promised, "We'll have the fight even if we have to fight on a barge in a Florida swamp." Well, they kept it out of the swamp, but whoever heard of having a championship fight in Lewiston, Me.

Under the circumstances, however, the promoters had little time to shop around for a site and Lewiston was handy and willing.

Live Gate Not Important

With the money that is received from closed circuit television, the site is relatively unimportant, since these proceeds carry the financial load.

They could stage the fight in a pool hall in Burr, Neb., if they had room for the electronics media to set up its paraphernalia.

Not since Sugar Ray Robinson closed both of Carmen Basilio's eyes and left his face in varying shades of black and blue for the middleweight championship in 1958 has Lincoln been on the receiving end of a closed circuit telecast.

You could hardly have gotten a quorum for a bridge game for that fight's showing at the Nebraska Theater. Those promoting the telecast of tonight's fight are banking on the heavyweight championship carrying a little more interest than a middleweight contest.

Closed circuit telecasts of the Patterson-Liston quickies and of the last Clay-Liston bout have drawn well in Omaha and many Lincolnites have been in the Omaha lines.

You may say what you want about boxing being in its grave, but there is still excitement connected with the heavyweight championship.

—WITH ONE EXCEPTION—

Pre-Meet Field Leaders Slip

By DON FORSYTHE

Prep Sports Writer

With one exception, the state track meet was not much of a showcase for the pre-meet field event leaders.

Only leader coming through with a gold medal performance was Omaha Benson's Randy Reeves, who cleared 14-0 in the pole vault for the second time this season.

The state meet produced new season leaders in the high jump and broad jump, while discus and shot put leaders Sam Buda and Steve Yungblut maintained their top rankings even though failing to win gold medals.

Fairbury's Randy Jones, a versatile little whirlwind, produced 1965's first 23-foot broad jump as he topped that mark by a half-inch in winning the Class A title.

Rob Heimbuch, the Grand Island junior who had led the event entering the state meet, came up with a 22-5½ leap but had to settle for third place.

Omaha Central's Joe Orduna was a close second behind Jones as he sailed 22-11-¾.

Scottsbluff's Jack Todd saved his peak performance for the state meet as he successfully defended his Class A high jump title.

He did it in impressive fashion, equaling the state record of 6-5½.

York's Regan Klein, who led the event at 6-4 prior to the state meet, won the Class B competition, but had to settle for 6-2.

Yungblut, the all-time leader in the shot put continued to be bothered by a leg injury in the state meet and threw only 54-11½, far short of his peak of 60-1. It left him in third place behind Lincoln High's John Spaedt and Creighton Prep's Sam Buda.

Cozad Accepts Athletes Competing This Week

Cozad (UPI) — Tracksters who compete in other meets late this week are still eligible for competition in the Midstates Federation Championships at Cozad on May 31, Dean Dorsey, meet chairman, said Monday.

Athletes 19 years of age and under are eligible for the Junior Division. However, if a boy is 19 and enrolled in college, he must enter the collegiate grouping.

Clay Confident For Controversial Rematch

Lewiston, Maine (AP)—Cassius Clay will defend his world heavyweight boxing title against Sonny Liston Tuesday night in a controversial rematch that was chased out of Boston and finally found a haven in a high school hockey rink in this textile city.

Only 4,900 seats are available in the Central Maine Youth Center and there has been no rush for the $100 top tickets. However, the promoter expects total receipts to top $5 million from other sources, mainly closed circuit television.

Fight time for this 15-round match is 8:30 p.m. CST, which means that the Early Bird satellite will be beaming the action into England at 3:30 Wednesday morning.

Despite the weird event at Miami Beach Feb. 25, 1964, when Clay won the title when Liston quit in his corner claiming an injury to his left shoulder, there appears to be a groundswell of interest in the rematch. The closed circuit people have more than a million seats in 258 locations and expect to sell [illegible] seats. If receipts live up to estimates, the fighters will get about $690,000 each.

Liston, a 7-1 favorite in the first fight, has been the choice in the rematch but the odds have reportedly shortened from 9-5 to 13-10.

The gabby Clay, known as Mighty Mouth, the Louisville Lip and any number of other nicknames, appeared supremely confident. He arrived at his headquarters in neighboring Auburn Sunday afternoon and dashed into a round of press conferences and autograph signing parties. He reminded all that he is to be called by his Black Muslim name, Muhammad Ali.

Police have been keeping an eye on Clay to guard him against any possibility of trouble from the Black nationalist supporters of the slain Malcolm X. The avengers had threatened Clay at the time of the assassination. However, the police appeared to have decided to leave Cassius on his own Monday when he jogged in his final workout. Police cars which had been prominent before were no longer in evidence.

"I fear no living man, only Allah," said Clay. "That talk about guns only scares Sonny Liston. He's scared enough already — scared of my two fists.

"If I told you what was going to happen, you wouldn't even bother to show up."

Clay normally calls the round but he hasn't picked any this time. When they were training for the original Nov. 16 date in Boston, postponed when Clay suffered a hernia attack, the champion said it would end in nine.

Clay, only 23, has not been beaten in his 20 pro fights. Liston claims he is 31 but many think he is much older, perhaps 40. Sonny, an ominous man with a police record, has a 35-2 record and was stopped only once—by Clay, when he didn't come out for the seventh round in Miami Beach.

"I made a mistake I ain't gonna make again," said Liston. "I got new plans. If he comes to fight, it'll be short. If he comes to run, I'll have to trap him."

Liston, ponderously slow in the first fight, has been working on a plan to trap Clay in a corner and set him up for his bombs. But Clay, a fleet dancing master with a fine left jab, is not an easy man to trap. He also tried to quit in the first fight, claiming he couldn't see. He blamed an irritant on Liston's glove.

"That big bear is going to be in trouble again," said Clay. "He's got no legs on him. He stands there and shuffles. He moves like a freight car."

Press opinion, almost unanimously for Liston in the first fight, has shifted to Clay. Of 74 newsmen poled by The Associated Press, it was 42-32 for Clay. The ninth round was the most popular ending. Only seven thought it would go the route.

When Boston's legal authorities raised questions about the promotionnal aspect of the bout, Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc., quickly moved to Maine. At the time, a man connected with the promotion said, "We'll hold it on a barge, if necessary."

Under Maine rules, there will be a non-voting referee, probably an outsider, and three judges. The judges will score on the 10-point system. The automatic eight-count rule for knockdowns will be in effect but the three-knockdown rule has been waived.

The weigh-in is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. CST Tuesday at the arena and Clay promises his usual surprises. At Miami Beach Clay staged such a violent tirade that a commissioner doctor said he was a man "scared to death." Clay's pulse rate zoomed from 54 to 120.

The World Boxing Association does not recognize this as a title fight because of the rematch contract. The WBA crowned Ernie Terrell as heavyweight champion when he beat Eddie Machen in Chicago.

Floyd Patterson, the former champion, who was knocked out twice by Liston in the first round, expects to attend the fight. He hopes to get another chance at the title if Clay wins.

Clay Insured For $1 Million

Lewiston, Maine (AP) — Fred Brooks, closed circuit television executive, announced Monday that a $1 million insurance policy had been taken out on the life of heavyweight champion Cassius Clay.

Brooks, head of Sports Vision, the firm which handles all ancillary rights to the Clay-Sonny Liston title fight Tuesday night, said the policy was taken out with several insurance companies and goes into effect at midnight Monday for a period of 72 hours.

The announcement came amidst continuing reports of possible threats to Clay by Black Nationalists. Clay is a member of the rival Black Muslim sect.

Brooks said the premium cost $1,000, which means the insurance companies are betting 1,000-1 that nothing will happen to the champion.

When Clay checked into his motel headquarters on Sunday, several policemen were on hand.

However, Monday morning, no uniformed men were in sight when Clay rose shortly after dawn and did some road work alone.

"I don't want any police around me—they make me nervous," the champion said.

In New York State, it is mandatory that life insurance be taken out on every boxer on the card. The minimum is $5,000 for each fighter.

RAIN FOILS ASTLEFORD

Storm Erases Birdie Surge

. . . IN U.S. OPEN QUALIFYING

By HAL BROWN

Star Sports Editor

A charging Bob Astleford out-charged nine other golfers in the U.S. Open Qualifying round Monday at the Lincoln Country Club, but the burly Omahan couldn't out-charge the weatherman nor a decision by Lincoln Country Club pro Bud Williamson and United States Golf Association representative Dick Spangler Jr.

Astleford had charged from a four-stroke deficit at the end of 18 holes in the 36-hole qualifying to earn what appeared to be a repeat berth in the U.S. Open Sectional Qualifying.

Trailing Charlie Borner of Lincoln and Jack Flatt of Fremont at the lunch break midway in the 36-hole test by four strokes with a 78, Astleford bogeyed No. 3, then ran a string of four straight birdies on Nos. 5-6-7-8 to tie for the lead at that point with Flatt while Borner was one stroke back.

Astleford had gained sole possession of the lead by the time he had reached the 16th tee while the threesome that included Borner and Flatt was just completing the ninth hole of the afternoon round.

Heavy rain then suspended the play for 45 minutes. When play was resumed the golfers got in only one hole before lightning started to crack through the sky.

All the golfers left the course with the exception of the threesome of Astleford, Dick Weir and Wally Hopp. Astleford bogied two of the three final holes in the heavy downpour to finish the afternoon round with a one-under-par 71 for a 36-hole total of 149, five over par.

When they left the course after hitting their second shots on No. 11, both Borner and Flatt were also five over par for the day.

A call was put into Joe Dey, executive director of the USGA in New York City, and local officials were told they had two alternatives: wiping out the 18 holes of the afternoon round and playing them over Tuesday or having the remaining golfers finish their rounds Tuesday.

Williamson and Spangler ruled that it would be more fair to the entire field to replay the entire 18 holes.

The golfers will begin the final 18 holes at 9:15 a.m. today at the Lincoln Country Club with Borner and Flatt tied for the lead with two-over-par 74s.

Merle Backlund, who would be in third place with a 76, had to withdraw from today's round because of previous commitments at his Grand Island Riverside course.

Astleford and Hopp will trail the leaders by four strokes when play is resumed today.

Borner holds a share of the lead with Flatt despite erratic tee shots during Monday's morning round. The former Lincoln city champion scrambled for nearly every par after double-bogeying the ninth hole for a par-36 on the first nine.

He scrambled back to par the 565-yard par-5 17th after topping his tee shot about 40 yards. A repeat of the topped tee shot resulted in a bogey on the par-4 18th for a 74 that tied him for the lead with Flatt.

Flatt made the nine-hole turn in 40, but came back with a two-under-par 34 on the second nine for a share of the lead.

Astleford now must repeat his Monday rally to earn one of the two spots that are up for grabs in the local qualifying. The state amateur champion won the Lincoln qualifying round a year ago with an eight-over-par 152.

The 18-hole scores:

Charlie Borner	36-38—74
Jack Flatt	40-34—74
Merle Backlund	37-39—76
Bob Astleford	40-38—78

Game Unit Sets Hunting Dates, Increases Permits

. . . DEER SEASON STARTS NOV. 6

By United Press International

The state game commission Monday set a nine-day rifle hunting season for deer, a three-day hunting season for antelope and Oct. 30 as the opening date of the wild turkey season.

It authorized 24,100 deer permits, almost 6,000 more than were issued for the rifle season last fall.

The statewide deer season open Nov. 6 and runs through Nov. 14.

Hunters may apply immediately for two deer permits in the Pine Ridge hunting area. Those holding one permit now may apply for extra permits for deer and turkey after Oct. 1.

The 24,100 deer permits included 350 for special seasons at the De Soto and Valentine refuges, and the Gifford unit near Bellevue. Dates for these special seasons will be announced later.

For the wild turkey season, 2,325 permits will be available. Four new unit — Wildcat Hills, Lincoln, Red Willow and Silver Creek — will be opened for the first time to fall hunting.

The turkey season runs through Nov. 7.

The commission authorized 1,600 permits for the antelope season and the Sept. 18 through 20 for antelope hunting. The hunting units are the same as last fall.

Commission biologists said heavy deer concentrations in some parts of the state would make it possible to issue the additional permits for next fall.

The archery season for deer begins Sept. 18 and ends Dec. 31, except that archery hunting isn't permitted during the rifle season.

For antelope, the archery season runs Aug. 21 through Sept. 17. The whole state is open.

Following are the deer hunting units, giving the number of permits authorized and sex restrictions:

Blue, 1,000, bucks only; Buffalo, 1,200, either sex entire season in part of unit, either sex the last day in the remainder of unit; Calamus, 1,250, seven days bucks only, either sex last two days; Elkhorn, 1,250, either sex entire season; Frenchman, 1,000, eight days bucks only, either sex last day.

Keya Paha ,2,000, either sex entire season; Loup, 1,500, eight days bucks only, either sex last day; Missouri 2,000, either sex; Nemaha, 400, either sex; Omaha, 300, either sex; Pine Ridge, 4,500, either sex; Plains, 1,500, seven days bucks only, either sex last two days; Platte, 1,500,eight days bucks only last day either sex; Republican, 600, eight days bucks only, last day either sex; Sandhills, 2,000, seven days bucks only either sex last two days; Upper Platte, 750, seven days bucks only, either sex last two days; and Wahoo, 1,000, eight days bucks only, either sex last day.

The commission in other actionapproved three land acquisitions:

—Ten acres along U.S. Highway 281 four miles north of St. Paul for a state wayside area. The land cost $1,100.

—One-sixth interest in 110 acres for an addition to the Kearney State Recreation Area for $1,800.

—An area along Nebraska Highway 127 south of the Seward city limits for a state wayside area. The land, along the Big Blue River, will be purchased from the State Roads Department for about $1,600.

Full-Sized Package

Fans attending the closed circuit telecast at Pershing Auditorium of tonight's heavyweight championship fight between champion Cassius Clay and challenger Sonny Liston likely will get a full offering of entertainment.

Those who prefer to watch The Untouchables can get their thrills from the horde of gendarmes assigned to the fight in case someone decides to take a potshot at at Cassius.

And those who prefer to watch from the sports fans' angle will see what is still one of the greatest attractions in sports.

Still Major Spectacle

Despite the troubles boxing is having and the unusual circumstances that surrounded the first meeting in Miami Beach between Clay and Liston, a heavyweight championship bout still arouses interest that is found elsewhere only in the World Series, the Indianapolis 500 and the Masters and U.S. Open golf tournaments.

The fact that the fight must be held in Lewiston, Me., with an auditorium that seats hardly half of what could be seated at Pershing Auditorium is unfortunate.

But boxing could hardly stand another postponement since the championship bout had been postponed originally when Clay came down with a hernia.

When the fight was banned in Boston, the promoters promised, "We'll have the fight even if we have to fight on a barge in a Florida swamp." Well, they kept it out of the swamp, but whoever heard of having a championship fight in Lewiston, Me.

Under the circumstances, however, the promoters had little time to shop around for a site and Lewiston was handy and willing.

Live Gate Not Important

With the money that is received from closed circuit television, the site is relatively unimportant, since these proceeds carry the financial load.

They could stage the fight in a pool hall in Burr, Neb., if they had room for the electronics media to set up its paraphernalia.

Not since Sugar Ray Robinson closed both of Carmen Basilio's eyes and left his face in varying shades of black and blue for the middleweight championship in 1958 has Lincoln been on the receiving end of a closed circuit telecast.

You could hardly have gotten a quorum for a bridge game for that fight's showing at the Nebraska Theater. Those promoting the telecast of tonight's fight are banking on the heavyweight championship carrying a little more interest than a middleweight contest.

Closed circuit telecasts of the Patterson-Liston quickies and of the last Clay-Liston bout have drawn well in Omaha and many Lincolnites have been in the Omaha lines.

You may say what you want about boxing being in its grave, but there is still excitement connected with the heavyweight championship.

Pre-Meet Field Leaders Slip

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

With one exception, the state track meet was not much of a showcase for the pre-meet field event leaders.

Only leader coming through with a gold medal performance was Omaha Benson's Randy Reeves, who cleared 14-0 in the pole vault for the second time this season.

The state meet produced new season leaders in the high jump and broad jump, while discus and shot put leaders Sam Buda and Steve Yungblut maintained their top rankings even though failing to win gold medals.

Fairbury's Randy Jones, a versatile little whirlwind, produced 1965's first 23-foot broad jump as he topped that mark by a half-inch in winning the Class A title.

Rob Heimbuch, the Grand Island junior who had led the event entering the state meet, came up with a 22-5½ leap but had to settle for third place.

Omaha Central's Joe Orduna was a close second behind Jones as he sailed 22-11-¾.

Scottsbluff's Jack Todd saved his peak performance for the state meet as he successfully defended his Class A high jump title.

He did it in impressive fashion, equaling the state record of 6-5½.

York's Regan Klein, who led the event at 6-4 prior to the state meet, won the Class B competition, but had to settle for 6-2.

Yungblut, the all-time leader in the shot put continued to be bothered by a leg injury in the state meet and threw only 54-11½, far short of his peak of 60-1. It left him in third place behind Lincoln High's John Spaedt and Creighton Prep's Sam Buda.

Clay Confident For Controversial Rematch

Lewiston, Maine (AP)—Cassius Clay will defend his world heavyweight boxing title against Sonny Liston Tuesday night in a controversial rematch that was chased out of Boston and finally found a haven in a high school hockey rink in this textile city.

Only 4,900 seats are available in the Central Maine Youth Center and there has been no rush for the $100 top tickets. However, the promoter expects total receipts to top $5 million from other sources, mainly closed circuit television.

Fight time for this 15-round match is 8:30 p.m. CST, which means that the Early Bird satellite will be beaming the action into England at 3:30 Wednesday morning.

Despite the weird event at Miami Beach Feb. 25, 1964, when Clay won the title when Liston quit in his corner claiming an injury to his left shoulder, there appears to be a groundswell of interest in the rematch. The closed circuit people have more than a million seats in 258 locations and expect to sell [illegible] seats. If receipts live up to estimates, the fighters will get about $690,000 each.

Liston, a 7-1 favorite in the first fight, has been the choice in the rematch but the odds have reportedly shortened from 9-5 to 13-10.

The gabby Clay, known as Mighty Mouth, the Louisville Lip and any number of other nicknames, appeared supremely confident. He arrived at his headquarters in neighboring Auburn Sunday afternoon and dashed into a round of press conferences and autograph signing parties. He reminded all that he is to be called by his Black Muslim name, Muhammad Ali.

Police have been keeping an eye on Clay to guard him against any possibility of trouble from the Black nationalist supporters of the slain Malcolm X. The avengers had threatened Clay at the time of the assassination. However, the police appeared to have decided to leave Cassius on his own Monday when he jogged in his final workout. Police cars which had been prominent before were no longer in evidence.

"I fear no living man, only Allah," said Clay. "That talk about guns only scares Sonny Liston. He's scared enough already — scared of my two fists.

"If I told you what was going to happen, you wouldn't even bother to show up."

Clay normally calls the round but he hasn't picked any this time. When they were training for the original Nov. 16 date in Boston, postponed when Clay suffered a hernia attack, the champion said it would end in nine.

Clay, only 23, has not been beaten in his 20 pro fights. Liston claims he is 31 but many think he is much older, perhaps 40. Sonny, an ominous man with a police record, has a 35-2 record and was stopped only once—by Clay, when he didn't come out for the seventh round in Miami Beach.

"I made a mistake I ain't gonna make again," said Liston. "I got new plans. If he comes to fight, it'll be short. If he comes to run, I'll have to trap him."

Liston, ponderously slow in the first fight, has been working on a plan to trap Clay in a corner and set him up for his bombs. But Clay, a fleet dancing master with a fine left jab, is not an easy man to trap. He also tried to quit in the first fight, claiming he couldn't see. He blamed an irritant on Liston's glove.

"That big bear is going to be in trouble again," said Clay. "He's got no legs on him. He stands there and shuffles. He moves like a freight car."

Press opinion, al[illegible] unanimously for Liston in the first fight, has shifted to Clay. Of 74 newsmen poled by The Associated Press, it was 42-32 for Clay. The ninth round was the most popular ending. Only seven thought it would go the route.

When Boston's legal authorities raised questions about the promotionnal aspect of the bout, Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc., quickly moved to Maine. At the time, a man connected with the promotion said, "We'll hold it on a barge, if necessary."

Under Maine rules, there will be a non-voting referee, probably an outsider, and three judges. The judges will score on the 10-point system. The automatic eight-count rule for knockdowns will be in effect but the three-knockdown rule has been waived.

The weigh-in is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. CST Tuesday at the arena and Clay promises his usual surprises. At Miami Beach Clay staged such a violent tirade that a commissioner doctor said he was a man "scared to death." Clay's pulse rate zoomed from 54 to 120.

The World Boxing Association does not recognize this as a title fight because of the rematch contract. The WBA crowned Ernie Terrell as heavyweight champion when he beat Eddie Machen in Chicago.

Clay Insured For $1 Million

Lewiston, Maine (AP) — Fred Brooks, closed circuit television executive, announced Monday that a $1 million insurance policy had been taken out on the life of heavyweight champion Cassius Clay.

Brooks, head of Sports Vision, the firm which handles all ancillary rights to the Clay-Sonny Liston title fight Tuesday night, said the policy was taken out with several insurance companies and goes into effect at midnight Monday for a period of 72 hours.

The announcement came amidst continuing reports of possible threats to Clay by Black Nationalists. Clay is a member of the rival Black Muslim sect.

When Clay checked into his motel headquarters on Sunday, several policemen were on hand.

"I don't want any police around me—they make me nervous," the champion said.

In New York State, it is mandatory that life insurance be taken out on every boxer on the card. The minimum is $5,000 for each fighter.

RAIN FOILS ASTLEFORD

Storm Erases Birdie Surge

. . . IN U.S. OPEN QUALIFYING

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

A charging Bob Astleford out-charged nine other golfers in the U.S. Open Qualifying round Monday at the Lincoln Country Club, but the burly Omahan couldn't out-charge the weatherman nor a decision by Lincoln Country Club pro Bud Williamson and United States Golf Association representative Dick Spangler Jr.

Astleford had charged from a four-stroke deficit at the end of 18 holes in the 36-hole qualifying to earn what appeared to be a repeat berth in the U.S. Open Sectional Qualifying.

Trailing Charlie Borner of Lincoln and Jack Flatt of Fremont at the lunch break midway in the 36-hole test by four strokes with a 78, Astleford bogeyed No. 3, then ran a string of four straight birdies on Nos. 5-6-7-8 to tie for the lead at that point with Flatt while Borner was one stroke back.

Astleford had gained sole possession of the lead by the time he had reached the 16th tee while the threesome that included Borner and Flatt was just completing the ninth hole of the afternoon round.

Heavy rain then suspended the play for 45 minutes. When play was resumed the golfers got in only one hole before lightning started to crack through the sky.

All the golfers left the course with the exception of the threesome of Astleford, Dick Weir and Wally Hopp. Astleford bogied two of the three final holes in the heavy downpour to finish the afternoon round with a one-under-par 71 for a 36-hole total of 149, five over par.

A call was put into Joe Dey, executive director of the USGA in New York City, and local officials were told they had two alternatives: wiping out the 18 holes of the afternoon round and playing them over Tuesday or having the remaining golfers finish their rounds Tuesday.

The golfers will begin the final 18 holes at 9:15 a.m. today at the Lincoln Country Club with Borner and Flatt tied for the lead with two-over-par 74s.

Merle Backlund, who would be in third place with a 76, had to withdraw from today's round because of previous commitments at his Grand Island Riverside course.

Borner holds a share of the lead with Flatt despite erratic tee shots during Monday's morning round. The former Lincoln city champion scrambled for nearly every par after double-bogeying the ninth hole for a par-36 on the first nine.

He scrambled back to par the 565-yard par-5 17th after topping his tee shot about 40 yards. A repeat of the topped tee shot resulted in a bogey on the par-4 18th for a 74 that tied him for the lead with Flatt.

Flatt made the nine-hole turn in 40, but came back with a two-under-par 34 on the second nine for a share of the lead.

Astleford now must repeat his Monday rally to earn one of the two spots that are up for grabs in the local qualifying. The state amateur champion won the Lincoln qualifying round a year ago with an eight-over-par 152.

The 18-hole scores:

Charlie Borner	36-38—74
Jack Flatt	40-34—74
Merle Backlund	37-39—76

Game Unit Sets Hunting Dates, Increases Permits

. . . DEER SEASON STARTS NOV. 6

By United Press International

The state game commission Monday set a nine-day rifle hunting season for deer, a three-day hunting season for antelope and Oct. 30 as the opening date of the wild turkey season.

It authorized 24,100 deer permits, almost 6,000 more than were issued for the rifle season last fall.

The statewide deer season open Nov. 6 and runs through Nov. 14.

Hunters may apply immediately for two deer permits in the Pine Ridge hunting area. Those holding one permit now may apply for extra permits for deer and turkey after Oct. 1.

The 24,100 deer permits included 350 for special seasons at the De Soto and Valentine refuges, and the Gifford unit near Bellevue. Dates for these special seasons will be announced later.

For the wild turkey season, 2,325 permits will be available. Four new unit — Wildcat Hills, Lincoln, Red Willow and Silver Creek — will be opened for the first time to fall hunting.

The turkey season runs through Nov. 7.

The commission authorized 1,600 permits for the antelope season and the Sept. 18 through 20 for antelope hunting. The hunting units are the same as last fall.

Commission biologists said heavy deer concentrations in some parts of the state would make it possible to issue the additional permits for next fall.

The archery season for deer begins Sept. 18 and ends Dec. 31, except that archery hunting isn't permitted during the rifle season.

For antelope, the archery season runs Aug. 21 through Sept. 17. The whole state is open.

Following are the deer hunting units, giving the number of permits authorized and sex restrictions:

Blue, 1,000, bucks only; Buffalo, 1,200, either sex entire season in part of unit, either sex the last day in the remainder of the unit; Calamus, 1,250, seven days bucks only, either sex last two days; Elkhorn, 1,250, either sex entire season; Frenchman, 1,000, eight days bucks only, either sex last day.

Keya Paha ,2,000, either sex entire season; Loup, 1,500, eight days bucks only, either sex last day; Missouri 2,000, either sex; Nemaha, 400, either sex; Omaha, 300, either sex; Pine Ridge, 4,500, either sex; Plains, 1,500, seven days bucks only, either sex last two days; Platte, 1,500,eight days bucks only last day either sex; Republican, 600, eight days bucks only, last day either sex; Sandhills, 2,000, seven days bucks only either sex last two days; Upper Platte, 750, seven days bucks only, either sex last two days; and Wahoo, 1,000, eight days bucks only, either sex last day.

The commission in other actionapproved three land acquisitions:

—Ten acres. along U.S. Highway 281 four miles north of St. Paul for a state wayside area. The land cost $1,100.

—One-sixth interest in 110 acres for an addition to the Kearney State Recreation Area for $1,800.

—An area along Nebraska Highway 127 south of the Seward city limits for a state wayside area. The land, along the Big Blue River, will be purchased from the State Roads Department for about $1,600.

No Settlement Agreed Upon

. . . IN SANCTIONING DISPUTE

Chicaga (AP) — The fourth negotiating session in the last four months between the AAU and the U S Track and Field Federation in trying to resolve long-standing differences over sanctioning of meets was broken off Monday.

No further meetings are scheduled at present between the two groups who have been at loggerheards since 1961.

The USTFF wants co-operative sanctioning and the AAU wants exclusive sanctioning.

NCAA President Everett Barnes of Colgate convened the series of discussions and announced termination of the talks following an all day meeting.

The Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley of Las Altos, Calif., president of the USTFF, said in a statement:

"The USTFF, representing 90% of the track and field interests in the U.S., has reaffirmed its wilingness to enter into a co-operate sanctioning policy of domestic open meets with other track and field organizations.

"The AAU has rejected it and demands exclusive sanctioning rights. There is no international rule justifying this position.

"The USTFF has gone on record as favoring an Olympic type championship meet for the selection of athletes for international competition.

"The USTFF recommends that this year, since co-operative sanctioning is rejected by the AAU, a selection committee composed of representatives holding major track and field championships — USTFF, NCAA, AAU, armed forces, NAIA, national junior colleges — be set up to select our track and field athletes for the coming international competition.

"The offer of co-operative sanctioning and the approval of a selective process for the formation of our national track and field teams is in accordance with the policy of the USTFF for broader competition and the acceptance of programs and procedures thatwill further the interest of the sport and insure the strongest teams for international competition."

In another statement, Barnes said·

'500' Serves As Display For Automotive Dealers

Indianapolis (AP)—Apart from being a test of human endurance and driving skill, the 500-mile auto race on May 31 will turn the Indianapolis Motor Speedway into a huge showcase for automotive supply companies

The competition to persuade car owners to use a particular tire, fuel or sparkplug is almost as spirited as the racing.

For decades, Firestone was exclusive at the Speedway, with no other manufacturers interested in the cost of designing and testing the highly specialized tire needed to cling on the relatively flat turns and still resist wear. It has been on the winning car for 43 years.

Goodyear got into racing here six years ago and has its tires on 12 of next Monday's starting cars, including those of qualification record-setter A J. Foyt, the 1964 winner.

Dunlop and Allstate had tires in last year's race but the English Dunlops starting shredding chunks of rubber and the vibration was blamed for a suspension failure that took Jim Clark out of the field while he was leading. Dan Gurney withdrew for the same reason.

There were Allstate tires on the car in which Dave MacDonald was killed in a second lap pile-up. They are not being used this year.

The problem of treads flaking on the hot asphalt at prolonged high speeds also plagued Goodyear this year but the firm contends the fault was corrected. It blamed a molding operation.

Goodyear wanted to use machin-buffed tires in the race, calling the operation part of an inspection routine, but track officials called that changing the design, banned by rules after May 15. Scuffing off the top layer of rubber by ordinary usage is permissible.

Goodyear still wants to buff off a little rubber and it will do it the hard way. It has obtained the use of a nearby track and will buff tires there this week with two cars that didin't qualify for the 500.

FRONTIER
Beeline
Take it from an expert
Mr. Ferrol F Papworth, manager, Fairgrounds Speedway Co., Salt Lake City.
DOES DELIVER MORE MILEAGE . . . 13.2% MORE MILEAGE!
Ferrol F. Papworth, for many years a race driver, is manager of the Fairgrounds Speedway Co. which conducts weekly stock car races in the Intermountain Area. He's an expert on automobiles and what makes them perform best. Here is what he has to say about Frontier and Beeline gasoline with new CA7 Combustion Activator:
"I recently tested Frontier and Beeline with CA7 against a well-known competitive brand which we'll call Brand X. Here are the results:
Brand X – 13.11 MPG CA7 – 14.84 MPG
"CA7 showed a mileage increase of 13.2%.
"The car I am driving is a 1965 Mustang 2+2 with a 289-cubic-inch, high-performance engine. Ford Factory recommends super premium fuel and it is readily apparent when an inferior fuel is used in this car.
"I can state that I noticed a big difference in performance when I switched from Brand X to CA7 and the increase in mileage was only part of the story. The engine ran smoother, idled without dying and did not buck or cough on sudden acceleration.
"I can truthfully say that Frontier and Beeline with CA7 is the best gasoline I have found in this area."

NY Mets Take 2 From Phillies

. . . SPAHN WINS FOURTH

By Associated Press

The New York Mets swept a twi-night doubleheader from Philadelphia 6-2 and 4-1 Monday behind veteran pitchers Warren Spahn and Frank Lary.

Lary, backed by Johnny Lewis' three-run homer, yielded only one hit in the second game until the ninth inning, when he needed relief help from Tug McGraw to nail down his first 1965 decision.

Spahn scattered 10 hits in the opener, squaring his record at 4-4, while Ed Kranepool drove in three runs with a homer and triple against Met nemesis Jim Bunning. Bunning had beaten New York six straight times without a loss.

Andre Rodgers rapped three hits in three straight innings, including a double in the fifth that sparked a four-run rally, as Pittsburgh topped the Chicago Cubs 6-4. It was the fourth straight victory for the Pirates after eighth consecutive defeats.

Jim Maloney doubled, singled and drove in a run in Cincinnati's 5-2 victory over Houston but needed a two-inning assist from Joey Jay to wrap up his fifth victory in five pitching decisions.

'500' Serves As Display For Automotive Dealers

Indianapolis (AP)—Apart from being a test of human endurance and driving skill, the 500-mile auto race on May 31 will turn the Indianapolis Motor Speedway into a huge showcase for automotive supply companies.

The competition to persuade car owners to use a particular tire, fuel or sparkplug is almost as spirited as the racing.

Excepting Ford, which is into racing up to its neck, the major auto manufacturers affect indifference.

The accessory people think otherwise. Competition is especially firerce between two major tire companies, Firestone and Goodyear.

For decades, Firestone was exclusive at the Speedway, with no other manufacturers interested in the cost of designing and testing the highly specialized tire needed to cling on the relatively flat turns and still resist wear. It has been on the winning car for 43 years.

Goodyear got into racing here six years ago and has its tires on 12 of next Monday's starting cars, including those of qualification record-setter A. J. Foyt, the 1964 winner.

Dunlop and Allstate had tires in last year's race but the English Dunlops starting shredding chunks of rubber and the vibration was blamed for a suspension failure that took Jim Clark out of the field while he was leading. Dan Gurney withdrew for the same reason.

There were Allstate tires on the car in which Dave MacDonald was killed in a second lap pile-up. They are not being used this year.

The problem of treads flaking on the hot asphalt at prolonged high speeds also plagued Goodyear this year but the firm contends the fault was corrected. It blamed a molding operation.

Goodyear wanted to use machin-buffed tires in the race, calling the operation part of an inspection routine, but track officials called that changing the design, banned by rules after May 15. Scuffing off the top layer of rubber by ordinary usage is permissible.

Goodyear still wants to buff off a little rubber and it will do it the hard way. It has obtained the use of a nearby track and will buff tires there this week with two cars that didin't qualify for the 500.

No Settlement Agreed Upon

. . . IN SANCTIONING DISPUTE

Chicaga (AP) — The fourth negotiating session in the last four months between the AAU and the U.S. Track and Field Federation in trying to resolve long-standing differenes over sanctioning of meets was broken off Monday.

No further meetings are scheduled at present between the two groups who have been at loggerheards since 1961.

The USTFF wants co-operative sanctioning and the AAU wants exclusive sanctioning.

NCAA President Everett Barnes of Colgate convened the series of discussions and announced termination of the talks following an all day meeting.

The Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley of Las Altos, Calif., president of the USTFF, said in a statement:

"The USTFF, representing 90% of the track and field interests in the U.S., has reaffirmed its wilingness to enter into a co-operate sanctioning policy of domestic open meets with other track and field organizations.

"The AAU has rejected it and demands exclusive sanctioning rights. There is no international rule justifying this position.

"The USTFF has gone on record as favoring an Olympic type championship meet for the selection of athletes for international competition.

"The USTFF recommends that this year, since co-operative sanctioning is rejected by the AAU, a selection committee composed of representatives holding major track and field championships — USTFF, NCAA, AAU, armed forces, NAIA, national junior colleges — be set up to select our track and field athletes for the coming international competition.

"The offer of co-operative sanctioning and the approval of a selective process for the formation of our national track and field teams is in accordance with the policy of the USTFF for broader competition and the acceptance of programs and procedures thatwill further the interest of the sport and insure the strongest teams for international competition."

In another statement, Barnes said:

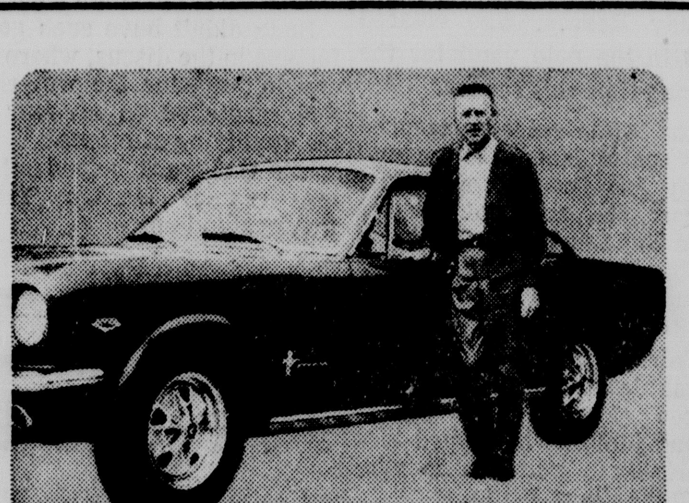
COMBUSTION CA7 ACTIVATOR



Mr. Ferrol F Papworth, manager, Fairgrounds Speedway Co., Salt Lake City.

DOES DELIVER MORE MILEAGE ...13.2% MORE MILEAGE!

Ferrol F. Papworth, for many years a race driver, is manager of the Fairgrounds Speedway Co. which conducts weekly stock car races in the Intermountain Area. He's an expert on automobiles and what makes them perform best. Here is what he has to say about Frontier and Beeline gasoline with new CA7 Combustion Activator:

"I recently tested Frontier and Beeline with CA7 against a well-known competitive brand which we'll call Brand X. Here are the results:

Brand X – 13.11 MPG CA7 – 14.84 MPG

"CA7 showed a mileage increase of 13.2%.

"The car I am driving is a 1965 Mustang 2+2 with a 289-cubic-inch, high-performance engine. Ford Factory recommends super premium fuel and it is readily apparent when an inferior fuel is used in this car.

"I can state that I noticed a big difference in performance when I switched from Brand X to CA7 and the increase in mileage was only part of the story. The engine ran smoother, idled without dying and did not buck or cough on sudden acceleration.

"I can truthfully say that Frontier and Beeline with CA7 is the best gasoline I have found in this area."

AL Batting Champ Slumping In Sophomore Year

. . . TWO OTHER SOPHS LEADING HITTERS IN EARLY GOING

New York (AP)—A year ago at this time, Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins was hitting like two guys on his way toward becoming the first rookie ever to win a major league batting title

In last week's games the Minnesota outfielder managed only three hits in 25 tries a 120 pace, and his average fell 19 points

Two other American League sophomores, Dalton Jones of Boston and Willie Horton of Detroit, have been more productive than they were last year.

Jones, a 230 hitter in 118 games in 1964, is the league's nominal pacesetter with a 418 mark after 67 times at bat He has been alternating at third base with Frank Malzone

Horton, although he dropped from .403 to .363 in last week's action, is the leader among those with a minimum of 75 times at bat He has 91 official trips

Vic Davalillo of Cleveland remained in second place despite a five-point drop to .350. Dick McAuliffe of Detroit rushed up from ninth to third on a 22-point increase.

Danny Cater of the Chicago White Sox advanced one place to fourth on a four-point pickup to 328 while Felix Mantilla of Boston, unlisted among the first 10 a week ago, soared to the No 5 spot on a 20-point increase to .320.

In the National League, Gordie Coleman of Cincinnati took over first place from San Francisco's Willie Mays Coleman had seven hits in 12 at bats, a 583 pace, and boosted his average 28 points to 417

Mays slipped 31 points to a runner-up .379 with six hits in 25 tries. However, four of his six hits were homers and this enabled him to increase his pacesetting total to 17. The Giants' star also drove in nine runs and he now trails the leader, Chicago's Ernie Banks, by one—35 to 36.

Joe Torre of Milwaukee is the NL's third highest batsman with 362 He's followed by Richie Allen, Philadelphia, .343, and Ed Kranepool, New York, .341 The figures include Sunday's games.

Stock Mart Dips Again

New York (AP) — It was another "blue Monday" for the stock market Monday — the third straight — and losses were almost as sharp as they were a week ago

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.80 to 914.21 compared with its drop of 8.96 May 17

The pace [illegible] however, with volume totaling 4.79 million shares [illegible]

In the absence of any bad news [illegible] to be linked with selling, Wall Street analysts were inclined to ascribe the loss to technical factors. The slackness of trading indicated that thinness of bids rather than active selling brought prices down.

The general news background was encouraging rather than otherwise.

The Associated Press [illegible]

[illegible] and [illegible] rose. New [illegible] the year totaled 26 and new [illegible] losses by a variety of key stocks dragged at the averages.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were generally lower. Volume was 1.64 million shares compared with 1.65 million Friday.

Grounding Drinking Pilots Is Proposed

Guggenheim, speaking at the annual meeting of the Cornell-Guggenhiem Aviation Safety Center, directed his remarks strictly at private pilots.

Soybeans Down In Grain Market

Chicago (AP) — All soybean contracts came under constant and sometimes heavy pressure in the grain futures market Monday with the new crop deliveries again sliding to their lowest levels of the season.

Broader losses, though, were posted for old crop months which finished about 4 cents under Friday's close after having been down as much as 5 cents. Net losses for new crop months were around 2 cents.

The grains also eased, nearly all of them finishing at or near the lows of the day. Corn and rye declined more than a cent, wheat and oats fractions.

At the close, soybeans were 1⅞ to 4⅛ cents a bushel lower, July $2.72¼-73⅛; wheat ⅛-½ lower, July new grade $1.38⅝-¾; corn 1 to 1⅜ lower, July $1.31⅝-½; oats ⅜-⅞ lower, July 66¼ cents; rye 1¼-1⅜ lower, July $1.16.

Senators Accept Invitation To Sit In On Tax Meeting

Fully half of the senators in the State Legislature accepted Monday an invitation to sit in on a meeting with the state tax commissioner and the attorney general to discuss the problem of writing into law a basis for determining the actual value of tangible property for tax purposes.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff offered to arrange the meeting after his LB87 encountered a kill motion on general file.

LB87 is a tortured bill, several times considered, to change the factors set out under law for determining actual value.

The kill motion came from Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth after he had read to the body a letter from Tax Commissioner George J. Dworak saying the amended bill is unworkable and in any event, would not achieve the results desired.

Law presently lists six factors to be considered in determining actual value — earning capacity, relative location, desirability and functional use, reproduction cost less depreciation, comparison with other properties of known or recognized value, and market value in the ordinary course of trade.

Present law, said Carpenter, "will allow any taxpayer to do anything he wants to do." He can apply the factors in any way he wants and taxing officials "can't prove he's wrong," the senator said.

That's what a small minority taxpayer group had in mind when the law was passed, Carpenter contended.

Carpenter's LB87 as drawn would have decreed that actual value is simplying the market value in the ordinary course of trade while specifying, however, that any obsolescence claimed must be itemized or substantiated. Amendments applied on the floor would permit application of the other factors in determining market value but would require full reporting on how those factors were applied.

Agate Bill Goes To LBJ

Washington (AP)—The office of Sen. Roman Hruska of Nebraska reported Monday night that the Senate had passed the House bill establishing the Agate Springs National Fossil Beds Monument.

The measure now goes to President Johnson for his signature.

AIR CONDITIONING
before you buy

Why pay TWO utility bills for air conditioning? One will do!

Every air conditioner uses electricity to power its control devices and fan motor. Most air conditioners also use electricity to power the cooling system. By contrast, fuel-burning air conditioners must use electricity plus a second fuel.

WHICH ONE IS SIMPLER? Electric air conditioners have the same kind of cooling system found in a refrigerator or home freezer. You know it's simple enough to be efficient, practical, and remarkably trouble-free.

WHICH ONE COSTS LESS? We invite you to get comparative bids from the dealers or contractors of your choice. You will find that electric air conditioning costs far less to buy than the fuel-burning type and, in most cases, costs less to install. This is true with central air conditioning, as well as window units.

WHAT ABOUT "QUALITY"? The quality of air conditioning equipment is determined by the standards of the manufacturer, not by the fuel line to which it is connected. We suggest that you shop for equipment from known manufacturers and from known, reputable dealers. Their warrantees, guarantees, and business reputation are your best assurance of quality.

With electric air conditioning you pay for only one fuel. How could it be cheaper to pay for two?

Stock Mart Dips Again

New York (AP) — It was another "blue Monday" for the stock market Monday — the third straight — and losses were almost as sharp as they were a week ago.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.80 to 914.21 compared with its drop of 8.96 May 17.

The pace of trading remained slow, however, with volume totaling 4.79 million shares compared with 4.66 million Friday.

In the absence of any bad news which might be linked with selling, Wall Street analysts were inclined to ascribe the loss to techncial factors. The slackness of trading indicated that thinness of bids rather than active selling brought prices down.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 2.5 to 335.6 with industrials off 3.9, rails off .4 to a new low for the year and utilities off 1.8.

Of 1,388 issues traded, 867 fell and 303 rose. New highs for the year totaled 26 and new lows 59. Heavy losses by a variety of key stocks dragged at the averages.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks declined, six advanced and Radio Corp. was unchanged.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were generally lower. Volume was 1.64 million shares compared with 1.65 million Friday.

Grounding Drinking Pilots Is Proposed

Washington (AP)— Aviation-minded industrialist Harry F. Guggenheim proposed that airport managements be given authority to prevent airplane takeoffs by pilots who have been drinking.

Guggenheim, speaking at the annual meeting of the Cornell-Guggenheim Aviation Safety Center, directed his remarks strictly at private pilots.

Soybeans Down In Grain Market

Chicago (AP) — All soybean contracts came under constant and sometimes heavy pressure in the grain futures market Monday with the new crop deliveries again sliding to their lowest levels of the season.

Broader losses, though, were posted for old crop months which finished about 4 cents under Friday's close after having been down as much as 5 cents. Net losses for new crop months were around 2 cents.

The grains also eased, nearly all of them finishing at or near the lows of the day. Corn and rye declined more than a cent, wheat and oats fractions.

At the close, soybeans were 1⅞ to 4⅛ cents a bushel lower, July $2.72⅞-73⅛; wheat ⅛-½ lower, July new grade $1.38⅝-¾; corn 1 to 1⅜ lower, July $1.31⅝-½; oats ¾-⅞ lower, July 66¼ cents; rye 1¼-1⅜ lower, July $1.16.

Senators Accept Invitation To Sit In On Tax Meeting

Fully half of the senators in the State Legislature accepted Monday an invitation to sit in on a meeting with the state tax commissioner and the attorney general to discuss the problem of writing into law a basis for determining the actual value of tangible property for tax purposes.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff offered to arrange the meeting after his LB87 encountered a kill motion on general file.

LB87 is a tortured bill, several times considered, to change the factors set out under law for determining actual value.

The kill motion came from Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth after he had read to the body a letter from Tax Commissioner George J. Dworak saying the amended bill is unworkable and in any event, would not achieve the results desired.

Law presently lists six factors to be considered in determining actual value — earning capacity, relative location, desirability and functional use, reproduction cost less depreciation, comparison with other properties of known or recognized value, and market value in the ordinary course of trade.

Present law, said Carpenter, "will allow any taxpayer to do anything he wants to do." He can apply the factors in any way he wants and taxing officials "can't prove he's wrong," the senator said.

That's what a small minority taxpayer group had in mind when the law was passed, Carpenter contended.

Carpenter's LB87 as drawn would have decreed that actual value is simplying the market value in the ordinary course of trade while specifying, however, that any obsolescence claimed must be itemized or substantiated. Amendments applied on the floor would permit application of the other factors in determining market value but would require full reporting on how those factors were applied.

Agate Bill Goes To LBJ

Washington (AP)—The office of Sen. Roman Hruska of Nebraska reported Monday night that the Senate had passed the House bill establishing the Agate Springs National Fossil Beds Monument.

The measure now goes to President Johnson for his signature.

AIR CONDITIONING
before you buy

Why pay TWO utility bills for air conditioning? One will do!

Every air conditioner uses electricity to power its control devices and fan motor. Most air conditioners also use electricity to power the cooling system. By contrast, fuel-burning air conditioners must use electricity plus a second fuel.

WHICH ONE IS SIMPLER? Electric air conditioners have the same kind of cooling system found in a refrigerator or home freezer. You know it's simple enough to be efficient, practical, and remarkably trouble-free.

WHICH ONE COSTS LESS? We invite you to get comparative bids from the dealers or contractors of your choice. You will find that electric air conditioning costs far less to buy than the fuel-burning type and, in most cases, costs less to install. This is true with central air conditioning, as well as window units.

WHAT ABOUT "QUALITY"? The quality of air conditioning equipment is determined by the standards of the manufacturer, not by the fuel line to which it is connected. We suggest that you shop for equipment from known manufacturers and from known, reputable dealers. Their warrantees, guarantees, and business reputation are your best assurance of quality.

With electric air conditioning you pay for only one fuel. How could it be cheaper to pay for two?

CONTACT YOUR LOCAL CONSUMERS OFFICE. A qualified specialist can help you determine the size and kind of electric air conditioning equipment that will be most practical in your home. Take advantage of this free service from Consumers.

Bolivia Troops, Miners Continue Battle, 19 Dead

La Paz, Bolivia (AP)—Government troops and rebellious workers battled into the night Monday in and around La Paz, and the confirmed death toll rose to 19. More than 70 persons were wounded.

Snipers battled police on the eighth day of a general strike called to protest the expulsion of the leader of the leftist tin miners' union, Juan Lechin. The ruling military junta ordered the army to take over the nationalized tin mines on Sunday, and the army reported progress.

Air force planes strafed hilltops around La Paz Monday morning to flush out the snipers. They ominously buzzed the city later in the day while sporadic shooting took place on the ground.

In the mining interior, many casualties were reported as the miners tried to resist military occupation of the mines.

Civil War

Lt. Gen. Rene Barrientos, junta president, emerged grimly from the national palace saying, "This is unfortunately no longer a general strike or state of subversion but a state of civil war, which is what the extremist leaders wanted."

He rejected a miners' appeal for a 48-hour truce. "We have exhausted our means of persuasion," he said. "The labor union leaders will just have to come out of their stronghold."

The junta underscored its determination to crush the revolt by two decrees affecting workers in the state-owned tin mines, where the unions have traditionally had a strong say in their operation.

Wages Reduced

One reduces the wages of all mine employes; the other dismisses 27,000 workers from the state mining corporation (Comibol) payroll, leaving the decision to rehire as many as necessary with mining authorities.

Roads to both the military and the La Paz international airport were blocked and one bridge was reported blown up. The government announced that as a precaution all international flights had been suspended.

One by one, the rich tin mines along the backbone of the Andes, both north and south of La Paz, fell to the armed forces. A number of the hostages which the government said were being held by the miners had been fired.

Col. Samuel Gallardo, minister of labor, said the junta would accept nothing less than unconditional surrender of all miners

Ruby Had Taken 'Stimulating Pills'

Dallas Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby, who killed President Kennedy's assassin, declared Monday that he had taken numerous pills — they stimulate you" — shortly before he gunned down Lee Harvey Oswald

He amade the admission — the first such revelation — at a court hearing during which his veteran counsel, Joe Tonahill, was removed from Ruby's forthcoming sanity hearing.

Judge Louis T Holland of Montague, Tex., ruled that Tonahill should be removed as Ruby's counsel for the sanity hearing

After that, said the visiting judge the question of Ruby's representation will be decided by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals

Judge Holland indicated that Ruby's sanity hearing would probably be set for sometime in July. He also said at the close of Monday's proceedings that a hearing on whether Judge Joe B Brown should be disqualified in the case would be set later. Brown presided at the Ruby murder trial.

But the sensation of Monday's hearing was Ruby's fresh testimony that he took pills which "make you want to do positive things" before gunning Oswald to death, and that he fears there will be an attempt in future years to link him as a conspiratory with Oswald against President Kennedy's life.

"To the American people and the world I'm going to be branded a part of a conspiracy with Oswald," he declared in an emotional courtroom scene

"You're going to forget how I felt about the beloved President Kennedy. There has been so much torment, so much hardship . . ." he said.

The Warren Commission sought for months to determine if a conspiracy existed between Ruby and Oswald, but found none

Ruby said that after getting up the day he killed Oswald he took 30 antibiotic pills and some other pills that "stimulate you and make you want to do positive things."

Monday's hearing was called to determine which set of lawyers will represent Ruby at his sanity hearing and in any further appeals procedures.

Ruby when he talked about matters pertinent to the hearing declared he would have been better off had he dismissed his attorneys and thrown himself on the mercy of the court

'Right-To-Work Authority Should Remain In State'

Washington — Rep. Dave Martin said authority to adopt right-to-work legislation "should remain with the people themselves and with the state."

"Nebraska adopted its right-to-work law by a majority vote of its citizens, and their wishes should take precedence over federal legislation," Martin said.

Bolivia Troops, Miners Continue Battle, 19 Dead

La Paz, Bolivia (AP)—Government troops and rebellious workers battled into the night Monday in and around La Paz, and the confirmed death toll rose to 19. More than 70 persons were wounded.

A spokesman at the general hospital morgue said that some of the dead apparently came from the Milluni mining area 24 miles south of the capital.

Many other casualties were reported in other turbulent mining centers further south of La Paz.

Machine guns and automatic weapons clattered into the night in the hills surrounding the capital.

Snipers battled police on the eighth day of a general strike called to protest the expulsion of the leader of the leftist tin miners' union, Juan Lechin. The ruling military junta ordered the army to take over the nationalized tin mines on Sunday, and the army reported progress.

Air force planes strafed hilltops around La Paz Monday morning to flush out the snipers. They ominously buzzed the city later in the day while sporadic shooting took place on the ground.

In the mining interior, many casualties were reported as the miners tried to resist military occupation of the mines.

Civil War

Lt. Gen. Rene Barrientos, junta president, emerged grimly from the national palace saying, "This is unfortunately no longer a general strike or state of subversion but a state of civil war, which is what the extremist leaders wanted."

He rejected a miners' appeal for a 48-hour truce. "We have exhausted our means of persuasion," he said. "The labor union leaders will just have to come out of their stronghold."

The junta underscored its determination to crush the revolt by two decrees affecting workers in the state-owned tin mines, where the unions have traditionally had a strong say in their operation.

Wages Reduced

One reduces the wages of all mine employes: the other dismisses 27,000 workers from the state mining corporation (Comibol) payroll, leaving the decision to rehire as many as necessary with mining authorities.

Officials estimated 300 snipers were holed up in the hilltop manufacturing suburb of Villa Victoria, overlooking La Paz.

Roads to both the military and the La Paz international airport were blocked and one bridge was reported blown up. The government announced that as a precaution all international flights had been suspended.

One by one, the rich tin mines along the backbone of the Andes, both north and south of La Paz, fell to the armed forces. A number of the hostages which the government said were being held by the miners had been fired.

Col. Samuel Gallardo, minister of labor, said the junta would accept nothing less than unconditional surrender of all miners.

'Right-To-Work Authority Should Remain In State'

Washington — Rep. Dave Martin said authority to adopt right-to-work legislation "should remain with the people themselves and with the state."

"Nebraska adopted its right to-work law by a majority vote of its citizens, and their wishes should take precedence over federal legislation," Martin said.

JOE TONAHILL . . . ousted as Ruby's lawyer.

The "Sunday Journal and Star" delivered at your door has five sections of interesting, timely features. You'll like the sports section known as the Sports Red, whether you're a Husker fan, or hunter.

Ruby Had Taken 'Stimulating Pills'

Dallas, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby, who killed President Kennedy's assassin, declared Monday that he had taken numerous pills — "they stimulate you" — shortly before he gunned down Lee Harvey Oswald.

He amade the admission — the first such revelation — at a court hearing during which his veteran counsel, Joe Tonahill, was removed from Ruby's forthcoming sanity hearing.

Judge Louis T. Holland of Montague, Tex., ruled that Tonahill should be removed as Ruby's counsel for the sanity hearing.

After that, said the visiting judge, the question of Ruby's representation will be decided by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Judge Holland indicated that Ruby's sanity hearing would probably be set for sometime in July. He also said at the close of Monday's proceedings that a hearing on whether Judge Joe B. Brown should be disqualified in the case would be set later. Brown presided at the Ruby murder trial .

But the sensation of Monday's hearing was Ruby's fresh testimony that he took pills which "make you want to do positive things" before gunning Oswald to death, and that he fears there will be an attempt in future years to link him as a conspiratory with Oswald against President Kennedy's life.

"To the American people and the world . . . I'm going to be branded a part of a conspiracy with Oswald," he declared in an emotional courtroom scene.

"You're going to forget how I felt about the beloved President Kennedy. There has been so much torment, so much hardship . . ." he said.

The Warren Commission sought for months to determine if a conspiracy existed between Ruby and Oswald, but found none.

Ruby said that after getting up the day he killed Oswald he took 30 antibiotic pills and some other pills that "stimulate you and make you want to do positive things."

Monday's hearing was called to determine which set of lawyers will represent Ruby at his sanity hearing and in any further appeals procedures.

Ruby, when he talked about matters pertinent to the hearing, declared he would have been better off had he dismissed his attorneys and thrown himself on the mercy of the court.

Alaskan Named By Johnson Small Businessman Of Year

Washington (AP) — Dominic Donatello first saw Alaska as a GI going to the Aleutian Islands to fight the Japanese in World War II

Two and a half years later, he was heading home, and he wasn't thinking about life as a civilian in the north country.

But there was a young Alaskan girl, named Jean Landstrum on the ship, en route to Seattle, Washington., and life as a freshman at the University of Washington.

In Rose Garden

"The next time I came back to Anchorage was to get married," Donatello said Monday, a few hours after he, Jean and their five children stood in the rose garden at the White House while President Johnson honored Donatello as the Small Businessman of the year.

"I went to work first as an engineer," said the 46-year-old Alaskan manufacturer. "But then I got myself a 50-gallon drum and started making a cleaning compound in my basement.

"I peddled it myself to stores and that, I guess, is how I got started."

Behind All

Johnson noted in presenting a bronze plaque to Donatello, born in Boston, the son of an Italian immigrant, that "behind every small business that succeeds there is always some dedicated, untiring individual."

Three Small Business Administration loans of $385,000 helped Donatello move out of his basement to a plant with 50,000 square feet of floor space and seven employes.

His products include soap, tallow, dog and cattle food, bleach, floor waxes, industrial cleaners, liquid starch and glycerine. And he has plans now to add a feed mill to his operations.

NU Journalists Receive Weather Reporting Sample

Kearney (AP)—University of Nebraska School of Journalism students publishing the Kearney Daily Hub Monday got a sample of weather reporting.

There were 12 students assigned to the local news beat in Kearney Monday. Other groups were at Holdrege and McCook and another group was doing a picture page at Cambridge.

Youths Treated, Released After Two Car Crash

John Cedarface, 19, of Rushville, David McEwen, 15, of 944 So. 39th, William Leinberger, 16, of 3941 Pace Blvd., and Scott Dworak, 15, of 1700 Skyline received bumps, cuts and abrasions in the accident police said.

The accident occurred when a vehicle driven by Thomas D. Hayes, 16, of 6019 Cullen which was westbound on South St. was in collision with a vehicle northbound on 33rd St. driven by Wayle L. Blankenbiller, 18, of 1322 So. 32nd St.

Leinberger, Dworak and McEwen were passengers in the Hayes vehicle and Cedarface was a passenger in the Blankenbiller car.

'Astronaut Is Practicing To Leave Ship'

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Edward White is practing to emerge completely into space during the four-day Gemini flight he and James McDivitt are to make next week, reliable sources reported Monday night.

Certain problems need to be worked out, but the prospects appear good that the attempt will be made, the sources said. The flight is scheduled to start June 3.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has said only that there is a possibility White will open his hatch and poke his upper torso into space without emerging. When asked about the report that White would leave the Gemini 4 spacecraft, space agency officials said only that no decision has been made on extravehicular activity.

The sources, who are close to the Gemini program, said it was decided recently that as long as White was going to open his hatch, he might as well go all the way—as Russian cosmonaut Alexei Leonov did March 18.

Annual Sessions Measure Hearing Set Wednesday

LB904 was introduced by the Labor Committee at the request of Sen. S. H. Brauer Sr. of Norfolk.

It provides that even-numbered year sessions be devoted exclusively to budget matters beginning in 1968. Regular sessions would be held on odd-numbered years, as they are now.

The bill proposes a constitutional amendment, which would appear on the November, 1966, ballot.

The Urban Affairs Committee will hold hearings on two other bills the same day. They are LB902, authorizing school districts to acquire property outside their boundaries for laboratory, recreation, camping or educational facilities; and LB903, providing that public officials shall not be disqualified from running for mayor or city councilman in Omaha.

Alaskan Named By Johnson Small Businessman Of Year

Washington (AP) — Dominic Donatello first saw Alaska as a GI going to the Aleutian Islands to fight the Japanese in World War II.

Two and a half years later, he was heading home, and he wasn't thinking about life as a civilian in the north country.

But there was a young Alaskan girl, named Jean Landstrum on the ship, en route to Seattle, Washington., and life as a freshman at the University of Washington.

In Rose Garden

"The next time I came back to Anchorage was to get married," Donatello said Monday, a few hours after he. Jean and their five children stood in the rose garden at the White House while President Johnson honored Donatello as the Small Businessman of the year.

"I went to work first as an engineer," said the 46-year-old Alaskan manufacturer. "But then I got myself a 50-gallon drum and started making a cleaning compound in my basement.

"I peddled it myself to stores and that, I guess, is how I got started."

Behind All

Johnson noted in presenting a bronze plaque to Donatello, born in Boston, the son of an Italian immigrant, that "behind every small business that succeeds there is always some dedicated, untiring individual."

Three Small Business Administration loans of $385,000 helped Donatello move out of his basement to a plant with 50,000 square feet of floor space and seven employes.

His products include soap, tallow, dog and cattle food, bleach, floor waxes, industrial cleaners, liquid starch and glycerine. And he has plans now to add a feed mill to his operations.

NU Journalists Receive Weather Reporting Sample

Kearney (AP)—University of Nebraska School of Journalism students publishing the Kearney Daily Hub Monday got a sample of weather reporting.

They had to chase down a tornado report in the area, which fortunately turned out to be a simple touchdown with no reported damage.

There were 12 students assigned to the local news beat in Kearney Monday. Other groups were at Holdrege and McCook and another group was doing a picture page at Cambridge.

Youths Treated, Released After Two Car Crash

A two car collision at 33rd and South St. Monday afternoon sent four youths to Bryan Memorial Hospital for treatment and release.

John Cedarface, 19, of Rushville, David McEwen, 15, of 944 So. 39th, William Leinberger, 16, of 3941 Pace Blvd., and Scott Dworak, 15, of 1700 Skyline received bumps, cuts and abrasions in the accident police said.

The accident occurred when a vehicle driven by Thomas D. Hayes, 16, of 6019 Cullen which was westbound on South St. was in collision with a vehicle northbound on 33rd St. driven by Wayle L. Blankenbiller, 18, of 1322 So. 32nd St.

Leinberger, Dworak and McEwen were passengers in the Hayes vehicle and Cedarface was a passenger in the Blankenbiller car.

'Astronaut Is Practicing To Leave Ship'

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Edward White is practing to emerge completely into space during the four-day Gemini flight he and James McDivitt are to make next week, reliable sources reported Monday night.

Certain problems need to be worked out, but the prospects appear good that the attempt will be made, the sources said. The flight is scheduled to start June 3.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has said only that there is a possibility White will open his hatch and poke his upper torso into space without emerging. When asked about the report that White would leave the Gemini 4 spacecraft, space agency officials said only that no decision has been made on extravehicular activity.

The sources, who are close to the Gemini program, said it was decided recently that as long as White was going to open his hatch, he might as well go all the way—as Russian cosmonaut Alexei Leonov did March 18.

Annual Sessions Measure Hearing Set Wednesday

LB904 was introduced by the Labor Committee at the request of Sen. S. H. Brauer Sr. of Norfolk.

It provides that even-numbered year sessions be devoted exclusively to budget matters beginning in 1968. Regular sessions would be held on odd-numbered years, as they are now.

The bill proposes a constitutional amendment, which would appear on the November, 1966, ballot.

The Urban Affairs Committee will hold hearings on two other bills the same day. They are LB902, authorizing school districts to acquire property outside their boundaries for laboratory, recreation, camping or educational facilities; and LB903, providing that public officials shall not be disqualified from running for mayor or city councilman in Omaha.

Are You Sure . . .

about the resale value of the home you plan to buy?

The wise home buyer always takes time to consider the resale value of a home before he buys it. No home purchase is a good buy, no matter how attractive it may seem today, if the home will lose value in the future.

The age and condition of the home are important factors to consider. Equally important is the location. The neighborhood must remain attractive to other buyers if the home is to retain its value.

It takes a real estate expert to know future real estate values. A Realtor is just such an expert. His knowledge of the current market and estimate of the future market, plus his awareness of the type of homes most in demand, is an invaluable asset to every home buyer.

Are You Sure . . .

about the resale value of the home you plan to buy?

The wise home buyer always takes time to consider the resale value of a home before he buys it. No home purchase is a good buy, no matter how attractive it may seem today, if the home will lose value in the future.

The age and condition of the home are important factors to consider. Equally important is the location. The neighborhood must remain attractive to other buyers if the home is to retain its value.

It takes a real estate expert to know future real estate values. A Realtor is just such an expert. His knowledge of the current market and estimate of the future market, plus his awareness of the type of homes most in demand, is an invaluable asset to every home buyer.
